Park district seeks more money from 3-H Corp.

The Wheeling Park District Board is seeking a larger donation from developers of a 67.3-acre tract on McHenry Road before relinquishing their claim to the land for a park site.

The 3-H Building Corp., 4902 Tollview Dr., Rolling Meadows, has offered the park district a $5,000 donation for releasing the public use designation at the site, located west of Whippletree Village and east of Cedar Run.

Park board members, however, feel the donation is not as large as others given the district. They said they would like to see the donation based on the number of living units planned for the project.

Although developers are scheduled to appear before the village's zoning board of appeals Oct. 16, details of the project were unavailable.

PARK BOARD member Lorraine Lark said she felt Harmony Village, a townhouse development on Wolf Road, set a precedent for future park district donations. Developers of Harmony Village donated $20 for each townhouse constructed.

There are some private homes in the area, and these people will not be able to use these private recreational facilities (in the development), Mrs. Lark said.

The park board decided to negotiate further before releasing the site from its public use designation.

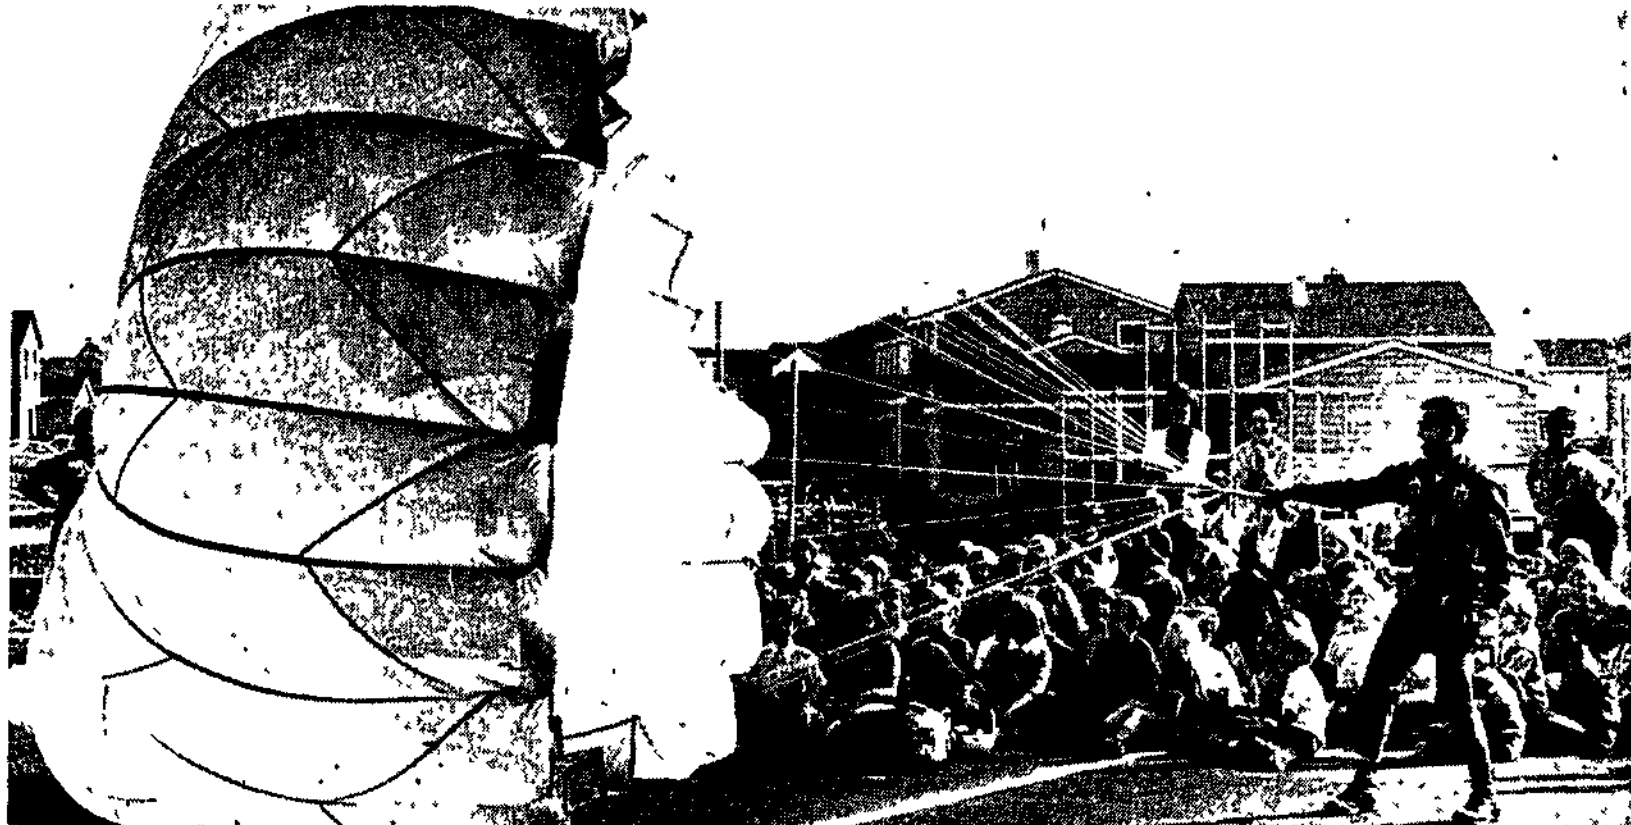

School Dist. 21, however, is expected to release its claim to the land. Supt. Ken Gill is recommending the school board give up the site, since the district has another site in the northwest section of the village.

GILL SAID THE remaining school site is located close to the Lake-Cook county line, and is not sure that site will be needed. "With the multiple developments, we're just not getting the children we expected," he said.

Most of the northwest section of Wheeling is being developed with apartment and townhouse projects. Thus, Gill said he did not expect a large number of children to be coming from that area. Presently, the Field School serves the northwest section of Wheeling.

The school district will begin a school census on Oct. 15 to determine the school population. "We'll know then what we have in the district coming in, and we'll get an experience factor on the developments coming in," Gill said.

The last school census was taken in 1965.

NOT EVERY LITTLE GIRL has a father who jumps out of airplanes for a living, but Karmen Thien, a student at Irving School, Dist. 21, does. Karmen's father, Marine Maj. Robert Thien, visited the school yesterday to explain his job to his daughter's kindergarten classmates. Thien, who is stationed at Glenview Naval Air Station, brought the base's drum and bugle corps with him. The students are studying various careers as part of a district-wide program.

'Approval denied for same location year earlier'

Hot 'dog fight' over sandwich shop

by LYNN ASINOF

A would-be Wheeling restaurant operator says he was prevented last year, by zoning regulations, from opening a hotdog stand at 636 N. Milwaukee Ave., the site now being developed as a hotdog stand by two village officials.

Mike W. Johnson, 138 Center St., said he and a partner were told by the village in June, 1972, that the property was not zoned for a hotdog stand, and could not be rezoned for this purpose.

The site has had a B-4 business zoning for several years, and thus could have been used for a hotdog stand if a special use permit was granted.

Johnson said his partner, a former restaurant owner, dealt with Building Director Bill Bieber when investigating the possibility of opening a hotdog stand. "From what I understand, Bill Bieber told him to forget it," he said.

ACCORDING TO Johnson, Bieber contended that zoning at the site would not allow a hotdog stand operation. "When we went to the village to find out what we had to do, we were told it wasn't zoned for the type of business we wanted, and for some reason the area couldn't be rezoned for what we wanted," he said.

Bieber yesterday denied the charges. He said he never told anyone they could not put a hotdog stand on the site. In fact, he said he had never been approached about a hotdog stand at the site in question until recently.

Bieber also said it is standard procedure to tell such persons to buy a zoning book and then direct them to the village board to seek their zoning changes.

"Anybody who comes in, the standard answer is the same thing," he said. "Any type of food service must go to the village board for a special use. I told everybody that they would have to meet the existing building codes to use that building for anything under a B-4."

Bieber said he is tired of people making false accusations against him. He said that he and Johnson had a run-in two years ago when Johnson charged him with stealing $24 worth of ice cream. These charges were later dropped.

TWO VILLAGE commissioners are now in the process of getting village approval to operate DoDo's Dogs Inc., a hotdog stand, at the site in question. They are Michael Valenza, chairman of the environmental commission, and Vern Nystrom, chairman of the police and fire commission.

Valenza and Nystrom are now seeking a special use permit required for all restaurant operations in the village. The zoning board has unanimously recommended that the permit be granted, and the matter is expected to come before the village board for final approval shortly.

In the past, village officials have objected to the number of drive-in restaurants coming into Wheeling. When a controversy over the matter arose in 1969, the village enacted the special use permit requirement to control the number of drive-ins in Wheeling.

NONETHELESS, Bieber spoke in favor of the proposed hotdog stand during zoning hearings early this month. He told the zoning board the village needed a drive-in or snack shop in the northwest section of the village.

Johnson said that at the time he was proposing the hotdog stand, there were also other people interested in renting the property for the same type of operation. "She (the owner) had three people who wanted to open it as the same kind of restaurant, and each time the village told them they couldn't," he said.

The owner of the property, Bessie A. Pavlin, could not be contacted for comment.

Pleasant Run developer buys 'Tara'

John Glorioso, developer of the Pleasant Run condominiums, is purchasing the 75-acre Lemko farm south of Hinz Road for a condominium or townhouse development.

The property last year was proposed for a 1,200-unit apartment project by the Larwin Corp. Plans for Tara Village, however, fell through because of a corporate decision to cut back on the number of rental housing units.

Glorioso said he has been negotiating for the property since the Larwin development was abandoned last spring. He said he has not yet developed plans for the farm, located south of Hinz Road and west of Wheeling Road.

"At the present time I'm not really sure what I'm going to do with it," the developer said. "It's not going to be rental apartments like Larwin had."

GLORIOSO said the purchase will also allow him to build a stormwater drainage system that will alleviate drainage problems at the adjacent John Muir School site on Drake Terrace. School Dist. 23 and Glorioso have been battling for more than two years over problems caused by the drainage from Pleasant Run emptying onto the Muir School site.

The developer told the school district he will build a retention basin on the Lemko property once he obtains easements to run sewer lines through the school property. These sewer lines will also handle drainage from the newly proposed Forums development being proposed by Victor Smigel for land west of Pleasant Run.

Since plans for the property are indefinite, Glorioso said he could not estimate when he would begin work on his new development. "I don't know when we will get the money," he said.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

Prices up and deliveries down

Paper shortage hits school co-op

The paper shortage, which has plagued the nation's newspapers for several months, has now forced prices up and delayed deliveries for seven Northwest suburban school districts involved in a purchasing cooperative.

The school districts, High School Dist. 211 and 214, River Trails Dist. 26, Arlington Heights Dist. 25, Mount Prospect Dist. 57, Elk Grove Twp. Dist. 59 and Barrington Dist. 4, have not yet received any of the 70,750 reams of paper they ordered in July, according to Jeff Inkley, business manager for the Northwest Education Cooperative (NEC).

In addition, the Inlander-Steindler Paper Co. of Elk Grove Village, has told the school districts it must raise the price over the price the company bid in July, Inkley said. The price on 8 1/2-by-11 inch paper has increased from 84.9 cents per ream in July to 97 cents, he said.

INKLEY SAID the company is increasing the price because it will have to furnish the schools with a better grade of paper than originally planned.

"They have told us that school grade paper just isn't available at all," Inkley said.

He said the districts have agreed on advice of their attorney to accept the paper at the higher price, but without waiving their right to sue to make the company provide paper at the original bid price.

"Right now, it's a matter of getting the paper," Inkley said, "but we don't want to give up our right to sue if we decide to." He added that the increased price is still lower than the districts would be able to buy paper on the open market.

THE OTHER major problem facing the districts, Inkley said, is that, even though they are willing to accept the higher prices, deliveries are not expected for 45 to 60 days. When the paper is shipped, he said, Inlander-Steindler has said it will only be able to supply 75 per cent of the original order.

As a result of the delay, school districts have taken steps to conserve paper, with the Dist. 214 board ordering last week that board minutes be printed on both sides of the paper. In addition, Inkley said districts are "picking up paper wherever they can" and so far none of the seven has faced a crisis.

"If we can get the delivery when they are now promising it, it won't be too serious," he said.

Inkley said the main reason given by Inlander-Steindler for the problems with the paper contract is the prolonged strike that has shut down paper pulp mills in Canada. The strike has also resulted in a critical newsprint shortage for newspapers in the Midwest and Eastern United States.

Funds approved for service to elderly, sewer project

A program for service to the elderly and funding for a new interceptor sewer in Schaumburg were endorsed by the planning committee of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission this week.

The elderly services program, which would be a project of the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity, would include services such as providing meals, establishing senior citizen clubs and providing transportation. The plan also calls for CCOEO to coordinate activities of various other agencies that provide services to the elderly.

NIPC commissioners yesterday said that CCOEO should compile a list of existing services — including a federally funded program operating in Mount Prospect — to avoid duplication of services.

The federal grant application to the Department of Health Education and Welfare which NIPC endorsed seeks federal funds of $36,286 to help finance the $85,586 program.

THE 1.31 MILES of 60-inch interceptor sewer which also received NIPC endorsement would carry sanitary sewage from Northwest Elk Grove Township, Northeast Schaumburg Township and Southeast Palatine Township to the new Salt Creek Water Reclamation Plant.

The Metropolitan Sanitary District is seeking $1,650,000 in grant funds from the Environmental Protection Agency to help pay for the $2,200,000 sewer line.

The sewer will collect sewage from an 11-square-mile area with an anticipated future population of 97,000. It will run along Algonquin Road from Plum Grove Road to Ill. Rte. 53 in the Village of Schaumburg.

In other action yesterday the planning committee accepted for study the Regional Housing Coalition's voluntary housing plan which was made public last week. A NIPC spokesman said the committee could be expected to take formal action on the plan within six months.

Feature moon rock at FAA open house

A piece of moon rock will be a feature attraction Sunday at the public open house of the newly expanded Federal Aviation Administration Air Route Traffic Control Center in Aurora.

The open house marks the completion of a two-year expansion program to computerize aircraft radar control. The Aurora facility handles about 8,000 planes on busy days in a 109,000-square-mile area including Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

Visitors Sunday will be given a demonstration of the new equipment, which is designed to reduce stress on the controllers and thus limit the chances of error. The open house will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Heating oil allocation announcement today

John Love, government energy director, said a plan for mandatory allocation of home heating oil, jet aircraft fuel, and similar fuels would be made today. He added there would be no mandatory allocation of gasoline "at this moment."

President Nixon, meanwhile, increased the energy research budget to $1 billion named an advisory council, and promised whatever is necessary to hike energy resources.

OK $21.3 weapons procurement bill

House and Senate conferees have abandoned a Democratic budget-cutting drive and approved a $21.3 billion weapons procurement bill, higher than either house previously approved. The conference also abandoned an amendment ordering a 110,000-man cut in U.S. forces overseas. The measure now goes back to the House and Senate for final approval.

GSA reports on work at Nixon's homes

The chief of the General Services Administration said his agency actually "detected" from the property value by spending $3.6 million for landscaping and other changes around President Nixon's California and Florida homes. The GSA chief said the group was always "carefully within the law."

Put off action on trade reform bill

House Democratic leaders, at the request of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, have put off until at least Oct. 23, action on a trade reform bill because of the Arab-Israeli war. The measure would give President Nixon power to raise or lower tariffs, and grant most-favored-nation status to all Communist countries that allow free emigration.

'Plumbers' chief Egil Krogh indicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Egil Krogh Jr., former chief of the White House "plumbers" unit, was indicted by a federal grand jury Thursday for giving false testimony in 1972 about the covert activities of Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

Krogh, already under indictment in Los Angeles in connection with a burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, was cited for two counts of giving "false material declarations" to the Watergate grand jury Aug. 28, 1972.

The indictment, the first obtained by special prosecutor Archibald Cox, was returned by the foremen for the Watergate grand jury to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica in open court. Cox indicated there would be more indictments, but refused to say when.

Krogh, 34, was charged in the indictment with failing to tell the grand jury that he knew Hunt and Liddy had gone to the West Coast during the Labor Day weekend in 1971 to secure information from the psychiatrist's office after Ellsberg leaked the Pentagon Papers. Krogh since has admitted ordering the burglary.

Facing a maximum penalty, if convicted, of a $10,000 fine and five years in jail on each count, Krogh was the first person to be indicted by the Watergate grand jury since last year when Hunt and Liddy were charged among the original seven in connection with the break-in at Democratic headquarters.

Krogh, who was forced to quit a Transportation Department job last May when his role in the Ellsberg break-in was revealed, also was indicted Sept. 4 by a Los Angeles grand jury in connection with the burglary. His co-defendants in that indictment were Liddy and former White House aides John Ehrlichman and David R. Young.

The "plumbers" unit was established in the White House in 1971 to plug security leaks and particularly to determine how the Pentagon Papers were obtained by Ellsberg, who handed them over to the press.

Democrat: 'dirty tricks' split us

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern's presidential campaign director told the Senate Watergate committee Thursday the Republicans' "dirty tricks" created deep divisions in the Democratic Party in the 1972 campaign.

Frank Mankiewicz testified that the effect of the Republican sabotage was to make the Democratic contenders think they were playing dirty tricks on each other.

Mankiewicz said the McGovern campaign played no such dirty tricks, and after "extensive research" he had found no such activity in the camps of other Democratic contenders.

The efforts of Donald Segretti and other Republican tricksters were "most successful," Mankiewicz said. "In short what was created by the sabotage effort was an unparalleled atmosphere of rancor and discord in the Democratic party."

"This kind of activity may well be politics as usual for Nixon campaigns, but not for any other Democratic or Republican presidential campaign of which I have any knowledge," Mankiewicz said.

The Senate committee also heard testimony from Rick Stearns, western coordinator of the McGovern effort who said he resented attempts by committee staff members to prove that Democrats engaged in the same kinds of dirty tricks the Republicans did.

Nixon may name pick today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon received more than 300 Republican suggestions for a new vice president Thursday night, and a White House official said he might announce his choice of a successor to Spiro T. Agnew as early as today.

As dusk fell on Washington the day after Agnew resigned under a cloud of scandal, the President flew by helicopter to his mountain retreat at Camp David, Md., where he frequently retires to ponder major decisions. He was alone, except for his physician and a military aide.

One White House assistant said Nixon was expected to announce his decision "before next week" and possibly as early as Friday, when the President will return to Washington in mid-morning.

After a day of canvassing preferences among Republican members of the House and Senate, governors and members of the Republican National Committee across the country, Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, House Leader Gerald R. Ford and GOP National Chairman George Bush took the results to the White House at sundown, as Nixon had requested.

Included were sealed envelopes containing the three top choices of 163 of the 192 GOP House members, about two dozen Republican senators and more than 130 GOP governors and national committeemen who had telephoned or wired their lists to Republican headquarters.

Some sources inside the White House indicated they believed Nixon already had decided on his favorites for the job.

Some congressional Republicans recalled privately that Nixon had made the same sort of canvass at the party's 1968 convention in Miami Beach — only to tap Agnew as his running mate, the man nobody had recommended.

Top Democrats in Congress, though not officially consulted about their choices, made clear their opposition to John B. Connally of Texas, a Democrat-turned-Republican who already is considering a bid for the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

Sources close to Connally and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said both were ready to accept a vice presidential nomination if Nixon offered them the job. The President passed the word he had "a completely open mind."

Support developed in the House behind GOP floor leader Ford, not only among his party colleagues but from Speaker Carl Albert, who is first in line of succession to the presidency until a new vice president is chosen.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted Nixon would send his nomination to the House and Senate by early next week. A majority vote of both houses is required for confirmation, under the 25th Amendment on presidential succession ratified in 1967.

Agnew arrived early at his office in the Executive Office Building, next door to the White House, to clean up his affairs and remove his personal papers.

Agnew, whose vice presidential salary was $62,500 a year, went off the federal payroll at 2:05 p.m. EDT Wednesday, the moment his letter of resignation was delivered to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Richardson tells White House role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said Thursday the plea bargaining which led to Spiro T.

Agnew's resignation as vice president came about at the initiative of the White House but with President Nixon limited to the role of an informed bystander.

Richardson hinted that he overruled U.S. Attorney George Beall and his fellow prosecutors on "the painful issue of sentencing."

They apparently had demanded that Agnew be required to serve at least a brief jail term as part of the deal under which he gave up office to avoid all-out prosecution on bribery, extortion and tax evasion charges.

The attorney general said he would not accept nomination to succeed Agnew. That would be "inappropriate," he said. A Nixon favorite, he has served in the administration from 1969, holding one subcommittee and three cabinet posts.

Richardson conducted an hour-long news conference on television to confront charges that the government had gone easy on Agnew, to explain his rationale for striking a bargain with Agnew and to answer questions about the evidence so that the affair would not become "an open ulcer on the body politic."

Richardson said the plea bargaining negotiations began in September when J. Fred Buzhardt, special counsel to the President, telephoned Richardson to ask if he would be willing to negotiate with Agnew's lawyers. Agnew has denied initiating the bargaining.

He said Nixon played no active role in the plea bargaining negotiations but was kept informed every step of the way and limited himself to "approving the general direction and the fundamental basis upon which the matter was being handled" but not the specific terms.

The talks collapsed but resumed anew last Saturday and were consummated Tuesday. On Wednesday, Agnew pleaded no contest to a single charge of income tax evasion and was put on probation for three years and fined $10,000.

Richardson said the outcome was "just, fair and honorable" and in the public interest because it spared the nation what "would have been the prolonged anguish and uncertainty associated with the trial of an incumbent vice president."

Richardson said he could not prove it but was convinced that Nixon knew nothing about Agnew's involvement with contractors until Agnew personally informed the President last July that he was under investigation.

While Agnew is free to travel or live anywhere, can still vote and is not barred from running again for elective office, Richardson said he must still settle accounts with the Internal Revenue Service and may have to pay back taxes on kickbacks which the government alleged he accepted from the moment he became Maryland governor in 1967 through last December.

The war:

-Israel drives on Damascus

by United Press International

Tank-led Israeli forces smashed more than six miles inside Syria Thursday in what Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said was a drive on Damascus. He said some Syrian troops were in retreat and others "are running away."

"I think that in 24 hours, Damascus will be in real danger," Dayan said.

In the south, however, Egypt reported the "complete destruction" of an encircled Israeli armored unit in the central section of the Suez front and said it had halted a major Israeli offensive on the canal front.

An Egyptian communique said Egypttian planes and antiaircraft guns shot down 23 Israeli planes Thursday alone for a total of 130.

On the northern front, an Israeli communique said its armored columns supported by dive-bombing jets stormed out of the Golan Heights and broke through Syrian front line of minefields and tank traps.

Syria's warplanes and air defense systems shot down 83 Israeli planes in fighting off almost nonstop air attacks Thursday in scattered areas of the country, including Damascus, military communiqués reported.

-Kissinger may comment today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was expected to hold a news conference this morning on his efforts to halt the Middle East War and probably will cancel his plans to leave this weekend for Europe, the State Department said.

Kissinger, who has conducted intensive backstage negotiations in an attempt to end the five-day Arab-Israeli conflict, might make a public appeal for Soviet restraint in the war.

U.S. officials acknowledged Thursday that because of the Soviet airlift of arms replacements to Egypt and Syria, the United States has begun its own resupply effort for Israeli forces.

These officials said, however, that the amount of military supplies now being shipped to Israel was relatively small and would contain no major equipment unless the Russians were discovered sending major supplies to the Arab combatants.

-U.N. chief raps politics

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim urged members of the Security Council Thursday to overcome their political differences and move toward ending the war in the Middle East.

The president of the council, Sir Laurence McIntyre of Australia, called the powerful international body into session

Thursday night following the Waldheim appeal.

With the majority, including China and the Soviet Union, backing the Arabs, and the United States, also armed with a veto, supporting Israel, diplomatic observers considered effective council action unlikely.

-U.S. denies fighters involved

CAIRO (UPI) — The Middle East News Agency charged Thursday night that U.S. Phantom jet fighters based on a U.S. aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean sea have joined in Israeli raids on Egyptian positions. The United States denied the charge as "a mischievous lie."

The agency quoted "Arab diplomatic sources" in the one-paragraph item. The semi-official news agency gave no other details.

"This is a mischievous and outrageous lie. I want to emphatically deny that American operated aircraft are involved in any way in the fighting in the Middle East," a State Department spokesman said.

-Carrier Iwo Jima to Mediterranean

The United States announced it is sending a second helicopter carrier, the Iwo Jima, with about 2,000 men from the 3rd Battalion of the 8th Marine Regiment to the Mediterranean. The move will double the size of the U.S. Marine force attached to the sixth fleet.

The carrier was originally due to go to the area in November. Officials refused to comment on why the carrier was being sent ahead of schedule, but informed sources believe both helicopter carriers probably would be stationed there for the time being, in case the need arose to rescue American civilians in the war of the countries caught up in the war.

crat and I think Nixon should be impeached."

"I'm not even going to bother worrying about who's going to be appointed," said Jennifer Swanson, a Hoffman Estates housewife. "It's a waste of time. They'll argue about whoever Nixon proposes anyway."

Robert Hickey, 303 S. George St., Mount Prospect, said he favors Goldwater "because I'm a conservative Republican and so is he." He said his second choice would be Connally.

M. C. PEPPER, 4503 Linden St., Rolling Meadows said she thought Goldwater, who was defeated in the 1964 presidential election, would be acceptable to both parties.

"Goldwater," said Howard Stach, 650 Kathleen Dr., Elk Grove Village. "I kind of like the guy."

But David J. McGrath, 1525 Prospect Ave., Des Plaines, said, "Anybody but Goldwater. We buried him once, let's not bring him back." McGrath said he favors Rockefeller "because I think he is the most competent."

PENNY ECKHARDT, 290 Fern Dr., Elk Grove Village, gave her vote to Connally. "I've been following him," she said. "I like the work he's done in the White House for the president. I think he is a little more objective and not as politically inclined."

Carol Inannacone, 121 Warwick Court, Schaumburg, said she also picks Connally. "I like the way he comes across," she said. "He's plain speaking, honest and what we need."

Carol Lerdal, 641 Silver Rock Lane, Buffalo Grove, said she favored Connally but felt if he accepted it might hurt his presidential chances in 1976. She said she feels Goldwater would be a good choice because he probably doesn't have any political ambitions for 1976.

JOHN LARSON, 398 Wolf Rd., Wheeling favors Percy. "I'm a Democrat but I favor Percy for some reason or other. I think he's honest and any time he's given speeches on TV he's seemed sincere," he said. "I appreciate that."

"I think Percy would be a good man but I don't suppose Nixon would go for that too much," said Mrs. Larry Taylor, 120 N. Rohlwing Road, Palatine.

Thomas De Vito, 3804 Owl Dr., Rolling Meadows would pick Reagan because

"he's a conservative and I'm a conservative."

Reagan "just seems like a good vice president," according to Fess Bryson, 260 W. Wayne Pl., Wheeling.

MRS. MARCIA Troch, 1011 Brookwood Dr., Arlington Heights picked Reagan as did Mrs. Leo J. George, 1741 Evergreen Lane, Des Plaines. "I think he is well qualified. I think he would be in a good position to lend a lot to the country in future years," said Mrs. George.

"Mike Mansfield," said Mrs. Barry Barkley, 700 Kenilworth Dr., in Rolling Meadows. "I think maybe he would be the wisest choice at this time for both the Senate and the President."

Ralph Nader was the choice of a 29-year-old Mount Prospect housewife. "I think he's the person who would do as he feels without compromising principles."

Residents also speculated about George McGovern, Edmund Muskie, Thomas Eagleton, Hubert Humphrey, Rep. Wilbur Mills and Carl Albert.

"I've heard a rumor that Eagleton will replace Agnew," said Patricia Johnson of Buffalo Grove.

"I think what's his name — Muskie — would be good," said one 55-year-old Buffalo Grove woman. "Or who's that other one who ran against him — Humphrey. McGovern would be good too."

Mrs. Horace Fuller, 5000 Carriageway Dr., Rolling Meadows, thought William Rogers or Melvin Laird would be "good choices."

"G. Gordon Liddy," said John R. Smith, 305 E. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. "But I think he's tied up."

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,860 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

LT. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

LT. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

LT. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comm. Floyd Fullin of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLIN FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fullin, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered. County Board President George Dunne, a Democrat, said late yesterday, "I would not encourage an appeal of the ruling. A court order is a court order. It ought to be followed."

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLIN DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fullin's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fullin's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fullin's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

July 4 shooting of boy: 'involuntary manslaughter'

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 765 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

The Yugoslavian immigrant was found cleaning his .357 Magnum pistol when police entered his apartment.

Under questioning, Ahmeti later told Assistant State's Atty. Kenneth Gillis he thought the noises of fireworks around him were from other people also firing guns in celebration.

Ahmeti had apparently thought July 4 was the day he could shoot a gun without being in violation of the law, according to Gillis.

ANOTHER YUGOSLAVIAN immigrant, Ferat Abdul, 48, of 727 Dulles Rd., was also arrested for allegedly firing a gun out his apartment window a short time after Ahmeti was taken into custody.

Police said a building resident warned them a second man was firing a gun from his apartment during Ahmeti's arrest.

No one was injured by the shots allegedly fired by Abdul who was charged with reckless conduct and illegal discharge of firearms.

Ahmeti is currently out on $10,000 bond pending a Nov. 1 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Abdul, who is free on $1,000 bail has been held for a Nov. 8 hearing date.

Tickets go on sale for Madrigal dinner

Tickets for the third annual Wheeling High School Madrigal Christmas dinner go on sale Monday at the high school.

The event, which features music by the school's Madrigal singers and an Old English Christmas dinner, will be Dec. 8 and 9. Tickets in the past have sold out almost as soon as they have gone on sale. Tickets are $6.50 per person.

This year's dinner will include "poddying with the plume," "survivors of roasts beefs" and "frenchers of wassail." The 18 singers will design and make their own medieval costumes.

Fire department open house tomorrow

The Wheeling Fire Department will have an open house tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the fire station, 312 E. Dundee Rd.

The highlight of the day will be rides in the aerial tower for children who attend with their parents. There will also be a lecture, movies and displays on fire prevention.

'Son of Flubber'

The Wheeling Park District will show the movie "Son of Flubber," at noon Saturday at Neptune's Den, located above the indoor Neptune's Pool, 900 S. Elmhurst Rd.

The movie is free, and will run for 100 minutes. Children attending the film will get a half-price discount of 25 cents to swim in the pool.

The park district will be selling refreshments at the movie.

Checkmate a 'brutal bludgeon' or 'subtle economy'?

Although checkmates sometimes have a massively brutal quality, at other times they demonstrate a beguilingly subtle hand. The defeated player can be overcome by the charge of pieces, as by a series of bludgeon blows. Or the denouement can be an exercise in striking piece coordination and economy.

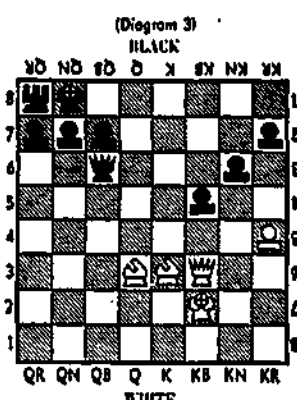

Among the elements that heighten esthetic satisfaction are self-blocking moves made by the defender forced to tighten the death net cast over his own king. The blocking move is usually induced by the use of direct force by the attacker. More often than not, the use of the "stick" takes the form of a sacrifice of material.

Black mates with brutal finesse.

Diagram 1
An elementary example of the self-blocking motif is given in our first position. Can you find the move that forces mate? As you may observe, black has two immediate mating tries but they both are immediately thwarted. That is, Q-R8 check fails because black has the escape square at K2, while QxRP would mate if the white queen at Q2 could be neutralized. The thunderbolt at black's disposal is P-K7 check, which immediately cuts off the influence of the white queen on his KB2 square. If 2) K-N1 then QxP check and mate next move. If 2) K-N1, BxP check does the trick. White's other try, QxP, is the self-blocking "sealer"; for he immediately succumbs to Q-R8 checkmate as K2 has been blocked.

Diagram 2
Position two features a mate in three. Here the sacrifice is more dramatic. The winning move for black is 1 ... Q-B8, check. There follows 2 RxB (the self-block), R-R1 check, 3) K-N1 and N-K7 checkmate.

Diagram 3
Our third position is a bit different. No sacrifice is necessary. The "block" already exists (the rook at R1). White must erect his corner of the mating fence. Though behind in material (black has five more pawns), white can force mate.

The winning move is simply 1) QxQ! After ... PxQ, 2) B-QB8 closes the trap. The black king and rook immobilize each other. Black will eventually run out of pawn moves and pawns. Finally he will be forced by the zugzwang principle to move his QBP (the rear one) and allow the white "black" bishop to mate from K3. Ironically it will be the "unblocking" BP move which allows the fatal mate.

The environment

Zion nuclear plant 'power play' to continue

by LEA TONKIN

POWER PLAY ISN'T over yet: Commonwealth Edison Co. gained approval for a full-power license at its mammoth Zion nuclear generating station, but we'll see at least one more round in the lengthy licensing battle. Following the recent announcement of approval by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board of the Atomic Energy Commission, intervenors in the case promised to appeal the decision in Washington.

"We feel this ruling by the licensing board is a mockery of licensing procedures," said David Comey, director of environmental research for the Business and Professional People for the Public Interest group. An appeal will be filed with the AEC by Comey, BPPPI, the Sierra Club, and the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago.

The licensing board restricted Unit No. 1 of the two Zion units to 85 per cent of power until certain safety problems are overcome. The twin units are capable of turning out 2,200,000 kilowatts of power. Unit No. 1 had been limited to 52 per cent of power.

Comey says the licensing board ignored safety problems outlined by an AEC advisory committee, denied access to information to intervenors in the case and approved Unit No. 2 before it was completed.

CLEANER AIR WEEK is coming up Oct. 14-20, observed by the Illinois Lung Association and other groups. It's an air conservation effort aimed at assessing and publicizing pollution problems.

YOU'RE INVITED to participate in public hearings to consider proposed regulations for so-called complex sources of air pollution. The hearings are slated by the Illinois Pollution Control Board to begin Oct. 30 at Chicago Circle campus of the University of Illinois, followed by hearings on Nov. 7 at Rockford, Nov. 13 at Springfield, and Nov. 27 at the Metropolitan Sanitary District Building in Chicago. All sessions begin at 10 a.m.

Proposed regulations outline permit requirements to be issued by the state Environmental Protection Agency for major developments. Persons wishing to testify at the hearings should contact Len Seltzer at the PCB, 783-3620.

The duplicate game was over and for once the unlucky expert had won. Even more remarkable was the fact that he had been playing with his wife.

"It was all due to the Jacoby transfer," he explained. "There were three hands where I opened no-trump and was able to play in my wife's major suit, but the real clincher was board seven."

We looked at board seven. Four spades down one, played by either North or South, was the final contract at every table but the one where Mrs. Unlucky Expert had played and made three no-trump.

For once we were interested. "Please explain," we asked.

He was all too happy to oblige. "She opened one no-trump. We were playing Jacoby transfer and there was no way that I could get to play the hand in spades. She really mangles suit contracts and since four spades appeared to be a normal contract I decided to put her in an abnormal three no-trump. Maybe something good would happen to me for once."

It certainly did this time. In spite of the 6-4 spade fit there are exactly nine tricks for declarer at either spades or no-trump. We can't recommend our friend's bidding for every-day practice but it certainly worked this time.

Bruce Biossat's column

'Fitness best basis for vice presidential pick'

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column was written before the Wednesday resignation of Vice President Agnew. The column is relevant today.

by BRUCE BISSAT

Despite Vice President Agnew's newly strengthened determination not to resign even if indicted, talk abounds here over the role of Congress in the choosing of a successor. Much of it is off the mark.

Several leading Democrats have indicated that the two houses they command, which must approve the President's choice by majority vote, ought to do so only if he picks a man without 1976 presidential aspirations, a man who could properly be described as a bench-warmer.

In some cases, the people who argue thus have more on their minds than just giving some Republican the presumed advantages that go with incumbency. There is resentment that President Nixon, with the Watergate clouds swirling about his own head, might be able to capitalize on the troubles by advancing a strong prospect who could conceivably extend Mr. Nixon's policy lines for many more years.

Yet an examination of the lengthy debates in congressional committees which preceded adoption of the 25th or "succession" amendment makes it overwhelmingly clear that responsible lawmakers wanted partisan politics to play no part in congressional review of a presidential choice.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, testifying in a Senate committee hearing in February, 1965, said that acting in a purely political way on a vice-presidential successor is "the last thing Congress would dare to do." He was chief Senate sponsor of the amendment.

Virtually all the responsible lawmakers, constitutional scholars and others who spoke on the issue emphasized heavily that the point of congressional check on a president's nominee was to scrutinize him solely on the basis of fitness for the office — to make sure he was a man of high caliber and status, qualified in every way to hold the presidency if that should happen.

Bayh felt that, since the circumstances surrounding the picking of a new vice president would inevitably be dire, the country would be "in no mood to tolerate political chicanery."

It was generally agreed that a president ought to be allowed to have a man not simply of his own party but one with whom he could have a good and compatible working relationship.

Lewis F. Powell, now a Supreme Court justice, told a 1964 Senate hearing this should hold true even if it meant, in practical terms, giving a president "the power to appoint a potential successor" — words implying this could happen by subsequent election.

In that same year, Bayh said he believed all Democrats and Republicans "share the view" that scrutiny by Congress should avoid politics and focus on fitness.

Inasmuch as the circumstances of emergency choice would give the people no chance to act in the usual manner, either as a voting electorate or delegates to a national party convention, most debaters saw Congress playing a surrogate role as the body representing the widest spectrum of the population.

Some Democrats appear, however, to have forgotten that it was never intended that such a review should empower Congress to decide where in that spectrum a new vice presidential choice should fall politically.

County line

Agnew news like a wave

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Metropolitan Affairs Editor

"Agnew resigned."

The word traveled like a wave at a luncheon meeting of top Cook County political leaders Wednesday.

Scrawled on a sheet of notebook paper — "Agnew resigned" — passed from hand to hand at the press tables of the Chicago Crime Commission Chamber of Commerce luncheon. Reaction of the Chicago news media was typical.

Call the newsroom. Find some local quotes.

The situation was ideal. The setting was eerie.

Less than a week ago, Vice President Spiro Agnew told cheering $125-a-plate Republicans that he supported Richard Nixon. Agnew's speech came in the Conrad Hilton Hotel's grand ballroom.

Sitting across the hallway, in the International ballroom, Wednesday were the same Republicans who have watched the vice president. State's Atty. Bernard Carey, County Comr. Floyd Fullinwider, Des Plaines, Crime Commission director Peter Bensinger.

Sparked by the electronic media, the first rule of journalism is to find local quotes to grace the commuter newspaper editions and dinner-time television broadcasts.

Fullinwider, who was not a scheduled speaker at the luncheon, was the first microphone target. The Maine Twp. committeeman, who may soon become Cook County GOP chairman, left a rooming speaker's dial of 50 persons and headed for a telephone interview in the lobby.

Less than 10 minutes after word of the resignation reached the luncheon, Fullinwider was telling Chicago radioland that he was "very upset. I hope people won't say this is the Republican party."

Fullinwider slipped from the hotel.

Carey was first Republican officeholder to the podium. In a non-political speech he talked about criminal justice and never mentioned the vice president. Despite the whirling television cameras, despite the microphones taped all over the podium, Carey's only mention of Chicago Police Department corruption was a re-call for naming of a special grand jury. As reporters clutched tape recorders and nervously paced a side aisle, Carey followed his five-page prepared speech.

The same Carey faced the same cameras in a nearby hallway minutes later. Topic was Agnew, and reporters shouted for a chance to ask a question.

Carey, the attorney, explained for Wednesday night television viewers, that a "no contest plea is not an admission of guilt. The individual doesn't want to contest the facts of the matter. He accepts the finding of the court."

Carey didn't stumble in his assessment of the case. But two television cameras were late arrivals and pushed for a re-taping. The words came out smoother the second time and by late Wednesday the state's attorney's reaction speech would be letter-perfect.

No one formally announced news of the resignation to the 400 luncheon guests. But people on Loop streets knew long before corner newsstands told the story.

Radios were everywhere as Loopites warmed up for the World Series and searched for resignation meaning.

At Washington and Madison streets a white and black CBS mini-camera sought man in the street reaction. Agnew drew support — largely because people don't kick when a man is down.

Passers-by asked "what's next?" and wondered why Agnew should be punished for playing in a ballgame that was invented in Chicago politics.

One wonders if the press "negativism" that former shining knight Agnew harped upon could ever hurt the Republican party as much as the resignation of its vice president.

Ironically, another resignation was buried beneath the giant Agnew headlines. Chicago police Superintendent James Conlisk, who preceeded Carey as one of the luncheon speakers, resigned in mid-afternoon.

Conlisk never mentioned his intention to quit during a speech that praised improvements in the department. Stained by the Braasch scandal, Conlisk proclaimed that "Chicago police officers are the best in the country."

The Conlisk resignation, probably in the Daley machine works for weeks, was cleverly timed to reduce notice that another police regime has folded in Chicago.

But no one could miss the biggest headline: "Agnew Out, Mets In."

Herald editorial

An American political tragedy

It is an American tragedy of the first magnitude that we must today consider the process of selecting a competent person to replace a vice president who is a convicted criminal.

An orderly process, of course, exists through the 25th Amendment of the Constitution, which requires President Nixon to submit the name of Spiro T. Agnew's successor to Congress for approval by majority vote of both house.

Somehow, though, there is nothing available in the traditions of the American political system to prepare us adequately for the shocking news which came Wednesday that Agnew had pleaded "no contest" to a charge of income tax evasion and had then resigned as Vice President.

Agnew, before the stain of suspicion enveloped him, had been a giant on the Nixon team, a man whose bombastic rhetoric and hardline views had been leveled against dissidents, liberals, students and members of the news media at varying times and with varying fury.

Now, Agnew lies in disgrace, following the U.S. Justice Department's pursuit of him on charges of accepting payments from Maryland contractors. His resignation is appropriate because of his plea; Agnew's actions have not only disgraced him but have further disgraced the American political process — an event difficult to believe possible in this, the year of Watergate.

Somehow, though, this man deserves a moment of compassion. His once-powerful political and personal world lies in ruins — and for anyone placed in that position, there should be a touch of sadness. Now, the United States awaits

President Nixon's announcement of a successor to Agnew — and the difficult task for Nixon is to find someone who can meet the highest possible standards:

—The successor must have the ability to serve out the Nixon term and to handle all the responsibilities and duties which that job implies.

—In the wake of Agnew's resignation, the Vice President must be above moral or political reproach; he must have the background to inspire hope among the people he must serve.

If Nixon's candidate can meet both of these tests, then both houses of Congress should move quickly to approve him or her. Political in-fighting and bickering will be inexcusable in this critical selection process — but Congress should also not offer the President a blank check approval, either.

Today, one would like to hope that, as Agnew leaves the Washington political scene, that a new era of cleanliness in American politics could rise out of the putrid wasteland which has enveloped parts of not only Washington but also Chicago politics in the past few years.

One would hope that the Agnew and Watergate scandals, and those closer to home, would provide the impetus for tough legislation to outlaw and scourge the crimes and conditions which have created political scandals in recent years.

The deepest tragedy, however, about the case of Spiro Agnew is that the man's actions encourage cynicism from all of us towards the American political process. Today, we must rise from that cynicism and begin again the process of politics and government in America.

'Protect your bicycle'

I would like to take this opportunity to urge all owners of bicycles to make some identifying marks on their bikes. As you know there is a rising percentage of people riding and enjoying bikes, thus the price of bikes is tremendous and more people are stealing them. I had to learn the hard way, no, not my bike was stolen, but my speedometer. On October 6 I was participating in a window painting contest run by the fire department and my school. I rode my bike there at 8:30 in the morning and later came out only to find my speedometer gone. Immediately I ran into the building and found a security guard and told him the story. As I told it to him he started to get this look of doubt on his face, and kept walking without helping me. So I ran outside again and saw a security policeman sitting in a car. I told him the story and he asked me if I had any serial numbers on it or identifying marks? I told him no and discovered I had no way of getting it back. So I urge all of you bicycle owners, if you have any instruments on your bike, and you want to keep 'em, find and record the serial numbers on them, and if they don't, make an identifying mark on them — don't learn the hard way!

Travel by plane—can it be harmful to your health?

I just read of your association with aviation medicine and I would like to know if you think flying can be harmful for a person with a circulatory problem.

I was on Coumadin from 1964 to 1968. In August of 1968 I had to have a mid-thigh amputation due to poor circulation. I was on Heparin about eight months, then started on Iledulin. I'm doing real well now. We would like to take our vacation by air, but I don't want to upset anything.

We had taken our vacation by air in 1965 when I was taken sick and had to have my leg amputated.

Commercial air travel is no big deal. Most people are concerned about the "lack of oxygen" and it usually isn't a factor. Commercial transport planes all must maintain a cabin pressure below 7,000 feet. That means it is about equivalent to being in Mexico City or a little higher than Denver (about 5,000 feet).

We usually don't think that altitudes below 5,000 feet have much of an effect on how the body functions. There are a few exceptions, specifically those individuals who already have lung disease. So, if you could tolerate many of the areas around Denver, you won't have any problem with altitude.

USUALLY THE cabin altitude in the plane will be well below 7,000 feet. If you wanted to cross the United States by air or bus you would need to go over mountains higher than 10,000 feet. In these instances the altitude problem would be more significant than it is in air travel.

Some people have problems with having to remain inactive for a long time in air travel, but since trips are usually short in time this isn't a major problem any more.

One of the more significant stresses of air travel is really at the terminal. The tension associated with getting your flight and changes in schedule is very hard on some people. Then if you try to carry your own luggage, and it is heavy, that may be the biggest of all on your circulation. Men who rush down the terminal with heavy bags are really working their heart a good deal. This stress can be minimized by planning your trip with sufficient time for baggage handling and limited concern about meeting your time schedules.

A SECOND HAZARD to flying is cigarette smoking. Some people have medical problems that are adversely affected by cigarette smoke. They may have almost an allergic reaction. Some severe asthmatic people and others with lung disease are good examples. Even the token gesture of separating the people in no smoking areas won't protect them from the "poison gas" of the smokers. Cigarette smoke (carbon monoxide), incidentally, binds with the hemoglobin in the blood and decreases a person's tolerance to altitude.

Some individuals have problems caused by extreme nervousness about flying. These are anxiety reactions and are best handled by reassurance and, if needed, tranquilizers. Other individuals are particularly susceptible to motion sickness, but these are uncommon and often are aggravated by anxiety.

A company is known by the men it keeps.

"SOME PEOPLE SAY my work is naive," said artist Phyllis Kapp. "I don't know. Somehow I've just managed to keep my individuality. I just put down what I want to say." Mrs. Kapp's colored pencil drawings are currently being featured in a one-woman show at Countryside Art Gallery. It ends Oct. 26.

Beautiful memories

She translates them to art

by GENIE CAMPBELL

It is easy to misinterpret an artist's intent. Creativity is difficult to exactly pinpoint. But there is no mistaking the drawings of Phyllis Kapp now on exhibit at Countryside Art Gallery. They make one smile. And that's the message I'm sure.

If I further describe her work as colorful, light and gay, I know the Evanston artist will approve.

Simple, winsome, almost childlike, the colored pencil drawings are unique just for the joy they offer.

Yet after meeting Mrs. Kapp I've decided I must take a second look at the exhibit, for now I believe I could also discern the artist's personality.

"I really choose to make pictures of the good things of life," said Mrs. Kapp, who has no desire to dwell on hardships or disappointments which she thinks "everyone experiences enough of."

"AND OUR OWN family structure is often the greatest source of satisfaction," she continued in explaining why much of her work revolves around her own family and friends.

But Phyllis is not accurate. Nor does she intend to be. Many of the artist's memories of childhood, for instance, are in fact based on her feelings as she remembers them or "just what she wished had happened." What actually occurred is of less concern. Lying? No, simply a form of romanticism.

Her birthday cakes as a child, she admits, never were topped with sparklers, but that's how Phyllis recalls them.

"In your imagination, your mind, everything is always more beautiful," she declared.

"Does the sun set in little diamond rays or droplets? Of course it doesn't... but that's how I sometimes picture it doing. I have to put down just how precious that sun is."

Mrs. Kapp captures the memories of special vacations, holidays and dreams. Her drawings are always about people. And the environment, an integral part of each work, is created especially around the people to complete the story.

"But even if the ground was just weeds, it appeared as a little piece of paradise... so I made it all flowers instead."

Originally from Chicago — though she lived for short periods on both coasts — Mrs. Kapp and her family (husband, four children, pet dog, cat and rabbit), reside in an 80-year old Evanston house "built before electricity was invented."

"It's a curious house, fun house, charming sort of place," she describes it. "It has a cut glass window in one bedroom that paints a rainbow on the wall when the sun goes down."

Her studio is the former solarium of the house, enclosed by glass on three sides.

HAVING WORKED in many mediums and currently involved with watercolors in addition to her drawings, Mrs. Kapp didn't even turn to colored pencils until she was hospitalized a couple of years ago.

And it was art that put her there. She developed a form of hepatitis from working with plastic resins.

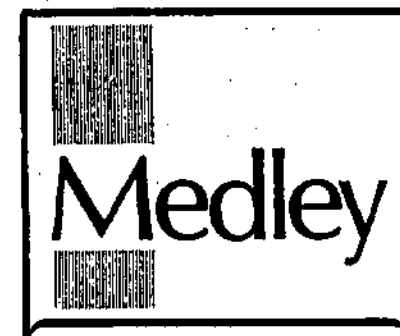

Not one to remain idle and enjoying a private room, Mrs. Kapp brought along all her paints and brushes.

THE GREATEST AMOUNT of happiness is found within the family, Phyllis Kapp feels. This drawing, "The Letters From Russia," was inspired by a letter she recently received from an aunt thought to have been killed during World War II. In the foreground is a treasure box.

PHYLIS' FIGURES ARE not intended to appear realistic. She herself is in this etching, second from left. On that particular day there was no table, certainly no treasure. She and her friends were sitting on the ground. But that's how Phyllis recalls that happy event in her mind.

New Arthur Miller play gets test at Michigan U.

by JACK GAVER

For some years now there have been reports of Arthur Miller writing an ambitious drama about the Depression period, some of its reflecting his own experiences as a young man.

It didn't turn up. Meanwhile, Miller delivered "The Price," a success, and, last season, "The Creation of the World and Other Matters," which was not.

Now, the Depression play seems to have surfaced as something called "The American Clock." The playwright has given permission for the University Players of the University of Michigan, his alma mater, to present it in its 1973-74 program.

Obviously, this is a way of testing the work, which may or may not be ready for the big time in the author's opinion. It may need more revision.

"The American Clock," which needs a cast of more than 30 players, a figure that causes Broadway producers to shudder these days, will be seen on the Ann Arbor campus next April 24-27. It is based in part on the Studs Terkel book, "Hard Times," of a few years ago.

VT opens auditions for kids' play

Auditions for Village Theatre's annual children's show are Sunday and Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at Arlington High School, Room 42-44.

The play, "Due to a Lack of Interest, Tomorrow Has Been Canceled" by Ed Graczyk with music by Shirley Hansen, requires a cast of 21 people.

Ten men are needed and 11 females. Anyone 11 or older is urged to try out. There are major roles for children, teenagers and adults.

Persons wishing to try out for singing roles should furnish their own sheet music.

Betty deGroh is directing the production with Lynn Jensen as musical director and Lynda Sears as choreographer.

The show revolves around Cricket Corners, a town celebrating its centennial.

The bad "bugs" try to foil the crickets' fun and the hero, Jeremy Cricket, finds himself in quite a pickle. But all ends happily.

"Due to a Lack of Interest" will be staged Dec. 15 and 16 at Hersey High School. Further information is available from Betty deGroh, 392-1497.

STARRING AS the 40ish Ann Stanley and her young lover, Peter Latham, in Guild Players' production of "40 Carats" are Marian Waeschke, Bartlett, and Bill Lindgren, Arlington Heights. The comedy opens tonight at Vogel's Barn at Higgins and Golf roads, Hoffman Estates. Other performances are tomorrow night and again next Friday and Saturday. Tickets, 529-9262.

DPTG forming cabaret troupe

A cabaret troupe of singers, actors, dancers and behind-the-scenes crew members is being formed by Des Plaines Theatre Guild to provide entertainment for clubs and organizations.

Auditions for the cabaret troupe will be held tonight at Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Groups wishing to book talent and those interested in more information about the troupe may call 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m.

Tonight's auditions will be conducted by Steve Strong, director of the Actor's Workshop. His assistant for cabaret activities is Bonnie Masters, who may be contacted for further details at 671-8214.

Doll making first of Christmas workshops at Countryside Center

"Dolls Unlimited" is the theme of Countryside Art Center's first Christmas workshop, to be held next Tuesday, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the center, 414 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

There will be demonstration in making dolls of all kinds. Those attending who wish to participate in making dolls should bring scissors, needle and thread, and any other supplies: fabric, yarn, wood, wire, paper, cardboard, glue, paint and markers.

A Christmas card and note card workshop will be held Wednesday Oct. 24. Silkscreen, woodcut and linoleum block card making will be demonstrated. Some supplies will be available for this workshop. Those interested should call Countryside in advance if they wish to have supplies reserved.

Other Christmas workshops to be held this fall include Christmas ornaments, Nov. 7, and puzzles, Nov. 20.

THERE IS A $1 donation for the workshop, and nursery service is available from 9:30 to noon at a fee of $1 per child.

In addition to the Christmas workshops, Countryside is offering a spinning fibers workshop next Monday. Carding, spinning, plying and washing spun wool will be among topics covered. The textile workshop is free to members, 50 cents for non-members.

Countryside Art Center, 253-3005, may be called for more information.

THE ECCENTRIC Madame Rosepettle, played by Ginny Boyer, and her suitor, Commodore Roseabove, played by Bert Simmons, offer a toast in a scene from Schaumburg Festival Theatre's forthcoming production, "Oh Dad, Poor Dad! Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad!" The play opens Oct. 19 at Schaumburg Township Library.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

China, porcelain, pottery, earthenware, bone china, semi porcelain, stoneware — you've heard all these terms mentioned, I'm sure, and you may have wondered what they all mean. If we wanted to use a catch-all name, we would say "ceramics," which means anything made of clay and fired for hardness, but with antique items it's best to be more specific.

China is the old name and was used for the fine wares made in the Orient and imported to Europe and America, starting somewhere in the early 1700s. China really was porcelain, which is fine, dense and lustrous. Porcelain is what is called a "hard paste" ware, as opposed to "soft paste," which is more porous, less dense and usually rougher.

Porcelain was perfected in Europe in Meissen, Germany, by a ceramicist, Johann Boettger, when he discovered that kaolin clay made a very fine ware similar to that of the Chinese. To the clay he added petuntse, a powdered form of feldspar or granite, which gave the ware strength and luster.

Porcelain is fired at a very high (about 1500 degrees F.) temperature, only once, and the outside glaze is thus made a part of the ware ceramic. One way to tell the difference between hard paste porcelain and pottery is to break it. The glaze on porcelain is part of the ware, but on the latter, it is a separate coating. But since breaking the dish is a bit drastic, we will consider other tests.

PORCELAIN is quite light in weight and has a dead white or sometimes grayish or blue cast. Bone china is not porcelain, although it is of good quality. Bone china is made by adding bone ash to the mix. The ware is usually quite hard and translucent.

Stoneware, used for utilitarian containers, actually belongs to the porcelain family. It has a glaze which is made by adding ordinary table salt to the kiln at a crucial point in the firing. Ironstone is a heavy (actually contains iron) ware perfected by the Mason Brothers in England in the early 1800s, and it is also called granteleware.

The second main division of ceramics (besides porcelain) is pottery, synonymous with earthenware. It is porous, rather heavy and usually has a base color of brown, yellow, gray, reddish or tan covered by different types of glazes. The glazes are added after the piece has been fired once, and then it is fired again, making a glassy coating. Dutch Delft comes under this category, as do Majolica and the popular brown mottled ware called Bennington. Actually, to be precise, Bennington brown ware should be referred to as Rockingham.

Somewhere in between porcelain and pottery is semi-porcelain, which is not translucent like good porcelain and has a separate glaze, but often copies porcelain patterns and designs. It is less expensive.

YOUR GRANDMOTHER'S china, the familiar Limoges and Haviland, were made of kaolin and petuntse, and thus are porcelain. They are usually marked with the word Limoge (which is a district in France, near Saint-Yrieix). The word Haviland may appear in many different forms, or perhaps T&V, meaning Tessenman and Volk, another popular factory. The Haviland story is a long and complicated one, but the age of the china can be told from the particular marking.

The story of ceramics makes fascinating reading. Your library probably has good books such as W. P. Jarvis's "A Pottery Primer" or Minnie Wattson Kamm's "Old China." If you wish to look up a mark on Aunt Tillie's teapot, there are also good mark identification books.

If you need help in identifying a mark, write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

The Book Stall

THE REAL OFFICIAL EXECUTIVE SURVIVAL HANDBOOK: HOW TO STAY IN OFFICE POLITICS

by HERBERT F. LUND
The Dial Press $4.95
BREAKING OUT . . . by DON BIGGS
David McKay Co. $4.95

Is the old office grind starting to get you down? Do you have a nagging feeling that you're getting the shove out the front door? Worse yet, have you traded in your values for a fat paycheck and a nod of approval from the boss?

You're not alone, feeling dissatisfied with Big Business and how it's affected your life. But how best to deal with this discouragement?

Most likely, you need to sort things out. These two books will help. For an eye opener, the Real Official Executive Survival Handbook provides an easy-to-read account of hapless executives who've gotten themselves in a pickle and tells how they might have avoided it.

Each lesson on survival in the corporate jungle begins with an announcement that gets things rolling: (Jim Lawrence leaves us for a position with the U. S. Information Service. We will miss Jim's dynamic approach and his dedication). This is followed by crafty advice on what really happened and how an artificial executive could have stayed in the race (Jim got zapped by a jealous boss; he should have launched a counter-offensive).

CHARACTERS INCLUDE the fast climber at the company who may have to dance the termination tango, or who might turn the odds in his favor and take over the whole works. Then there is the Mae the Knife type who wants to make up for losses in his division by masterminding a takeover of a successful one. And the company that will milk the young maverick of good ideas and then dump him before he gets to top management levels.

"If there is one common characteristic among all deception-makers, it's their gift for smooth, well lubricated friendly conversation," counsels Lund.

"Thus beware of the polished company man who is looking out for your good and wants to be your close buddy." He offers more tips on marketing as a takeover tool, doctoring up the annual report, postponing salary reviews and merger madness, to name a few.

The full title of Don Biggs' book is Breaking Out . . . of a job you don't like . . . and the regimented life. His story is a breath of fresh air about Biggs' break with a stifling public relations job as well as other accounts of careerists who broke out.

III: PRESENTS a wave of escapees from the bureaucracy of the corporation, the government and the church. The hitch, Biggs says, is that most of us are tied to our material possessions. We crave greater personal freedom but are unable to reach out for it.

Indeed, what managers envy "is not the two hundred-acre estate or the fifty-foot yacht," says Biggs, "but the right to work one's best hours, to be close to nature, free of ritual and the responsibility to live up to an image. What many of these executives are beginning to realize is that they don't have to fight their way to the top to gain control of their lives. All they have to do is to walk out the office door."

Sounds tempting, you might say. There have to be snags in this creative new lifestyles rigmorale. How do I begin, and what if I don't like the results? Biggs' collage of corporate dropouts give advice.

He includes personal accounts of people who gained a rewarding life within a bureaucratic framework. An airline pilot turned potter and a public relations executive who turned to writing are among the storytellers.

MOST OF THOSE who broke out of a restrictive lifestyle had help — an on-counter group, friends who offered advice. They now share in common a closer relationship with family and friends. They generally have fewer material possessions, though their income may be as good or better than before. Freely admitting flaws and vulnerabilities, most feel they have gained much more than they gave up in breaking out of restrictive jobs.

The book urges you to ask the big questions and then face up to the answers. It also can bring a new awareness to your personal sense of rightness. That's where "Breaking Out's" approach tops the machinations of executive survival. Lund tells how to avoid office boobytraps, but Biggs asks whether you should be in the office in the first place.

If the answer is no, chuck the routine and head out for something better. If you're going to stay make sure it's for the right reasons.

Hard Times Cafe throwback to '30s

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The new HARD TIMES CAFE boasts a gaudy, neon dance floor, authentic '30s decor (nothin' matches) and hearty food (but no cuisine). That's a very good description. One might add that it's an unusual showplace and a relaxing, enjoyable night spot.

The new '30s roadhouse plus bar is located in the lower level of the O'HARE INN, 6600 Mannheim Road. It replaces the former Golden Barrel Supper Club. Quite an improvement I think. I prefer both the atmosphere and the food which is advertised as "moderate '70s prices but with '30s generous proportions."

A 20-ounce T-bone steak is the most expensive item on the menu at $6.95. Going the other direction, one can order a large bowl of chili (a meal in itself) for just 85 cents.

I highly recommend the SOB Stew — all you can eat for $3.25 though the price of the "SOB" chipped beef on toast, is negotiable with the waitress. Sandwiches, hamburgers, New Deal cole slaw and ice cream desserts are other offerings.

The new manager, WOODY JAMESON, admits it took some time to amass and assemble all the clutter and antiques. Look around. You'll notice old enameled metal signs rescued from farmers' barbed wire fences, movie posters, an old gas pump and even a bubbling Wurlitzer that still cranks out music it occasionally skips. Yet what could be more authentic?

The multi-level room contains lots of mismatched tables and chairs. The same non-uniformity applies to the tableware and place settings.

The bar area features two pool tables and a large round table perfect for card playing.

It's signs on the wall in no way indicate that some $100,000 went into the refurbishing of the downstairs cafe. That's pretty stiff in these "hard times."

Woody Jameson

but I concur, the prices are reasonable and the portions... well, let's just say you won't be hungry for a long time after your meal.

The HARD TIMES CAFE is open for lunch and dinner Monday through Friday and dinner only on Saturday.

SARAH MILES makes her American stage debut tonight in "THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH" at Arlington Park Theatre. The production will play through Nov. 18.

The SERVICE LEAGUE of LUTHER-

AN GENERAL HOSPITAL is holding its first theater benefit Nov. 7 at the theater during the run of "The Skin of Our Teeth." Tickets at $10 may be ordered through the Service League office at the hospital.

During October and November DON ROTH'S RESTAURANT in Wheeling on Milwaukee Avenue near Dundee Road, is featuring a FALL FESTIVAL in conjunction with WEBB'S APPLE ORCHARD in Lake Zurich.

Door prizes are being raffled off Sunday through Thursday each week. In addition there are apples and cider for everyone. A special Halloween celebration is planned for Oct. 30 and 31 at the restaurant at which time all the student waiters and waitresses will dress the part.

CHITA RIVERA stars in the midwest premiere of Oliver Halley's "FATHER'S DAY" which opened last night at the IVANHOE THEATRE

"THE INFLUENCE SHOW," an original musical by Tony Zito and June Pyskacek, has been extended at the FOX TRAILS THEATRE through Oct. 21.

HARD TIMES IS HERE. You're gonna love it.

90¢ BEERS FOR A DIME!

This Friday night and Saturday night only - October 12 and 13 - help us celebrate the grand opening of Hard Times with a 2-lb. schooner of beer for just 10¢!

Hard Times is easy on your wallet in lots of ways. We're the new roadhouse-with-bar that's opened at the O'Hare Inn. Look at your choice to go with all these dime beers:

- A dollar bowl of chili... for 85¢.
- Half-pound hamburgers.
- SOB Stew. We'll tell you what it is when you get here.
- SOS. That's right, soldier, good ol' SOS.
- Pork chops, steaks, franks, sandwiches.
- Highfalutin' ice cream desserts.
- A dance floor, lit from underneath.
- Two pool tables. And a reformed hustler (our manager) to go with 'em.
- Top brand label drinks from our bar.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

"Goodbye Yellow Brick Road" (MCA-10003) is an album of near perfection, the finest result so far of the Elton John-Bernie Taupin collaboration.

From the moment I first put side one of this two-record set on my turntable, I was hooked. Rarity of rarities, this is an album that builds enthusiasm on first hearing.

It should. Half of the album's best songs are there on side one. The instrumental "Funeral For a Friend" (which is anything but sad) opens with some fine melodies and good synthesizer work. It then leads right into "Love Lies Bleeding," an excellent rock tune which points out how tight John's band has become. You can tell they enjoy playing together. (Throughout the album Nigel Olsson is fantastic on drums. Davey Johnstone on guitar and Dee Murray on bass have fine moments, too.)

THE SIDE closes with "Candle in the Wind," a very thoughtful look at Marilyn Monroe's impact through the eyes of a youth of today, and "Bennie and the Jets," which I done mainly for kicks. "Bonnie," about a female rock star, has a marvelous vocal by John (including falsetto) and hand-clapping beat. "Candle" is softer, more personal-sounding.

Skipping to the last song on side three, "All the Girls Love Alice," we find a second strong string of songs in the album. "Alice" is a naughty tale about a 16-year-old lewdon which has a wicked beat behind the verses and a slowed down tempo on the chorus.

Side four opens with two bouncy rock songs — "Your Sister Can't Twist (But She Can Rock 'N' Roll)" and "Saturday Night's Alright For Fighting." Some Beach Boys vocals are thrown into "Sister" for fun and by now everyone's heard "Saturday Night," the album's first single. Again, these two songs demonstrate the tightness of the band. They demand response.

ANOTHER CHANGE of pace, "Roy Rogers," ends this second string of great songs. "Rogers" is about the cowboy TV hero and it is done lovingly with just the right touch of country (partially through Johnstone's steel guitar). Taupin's lyrics again earn him a bow.

The other 10 songs, with two exceptions, are merely good. They include the "big pun" of "Harmony" and the poke of fun at reggae, "Jamaica Jerk-Off." John even tries some early Mick Jagger vocals in "Dirty Little Girl."

The album's two failures are "Sweet Painted Lady" and "I've Seen That Movie Too" which simply don't sustain interest. They appear to be fillers.

But after awhile you even come to like the scars a little. This is a powerful album, one that demands inclusion on any year's best list. It has sure made mine.

(Its only rival will probably be the yet unreleased Who "Quadrophrenia" album.)

RICK GRETCH has spent the last five years playing bass and violin with some of the most interesting and best of the British bands. These include Family, Blind Faith, Ginger Baker's Airforce and Traffic.

Gretch has never cut a solo album so RSO Records have put together some of his best performances from those five years in "The Last Five Years" (RSO 50-876). An emphasis is placed on his writing ability, too, as eight of the nine songs included he had a hand in writing.

The choices are all good to excellent. There is "Second Generation Woman," "Face In the Cloud" and "How-Hi-The-Li" done with Family, "Rock N' Roll Stee" with Traffic, and "Sea of Joy" with Blind Faith.

Superstar Gretch speaks with his music and you can be sure if another supergroup forms, he'll be heard from. Meanwhile "Five Years" is a good chance to catch up on where he's been.

'Oh Dad' second assignment as director for Mike Woulds

"Oh Dad, Poor Dad! Mamma's Hung You in the Closet, and I'm Feelin' So Sad!" is the second directing venture with Schaumburg Festival Theatre for Mike Woulds.

A past president of Music On Stage and active participant in various area theater groups, the Schaumburg resident directed "Period of Adjustment" for Festival Theatre in 1971.

The current production, a farce centering around an eccentric woman who carries her dead husband with her wherever she goes, will open in the Schaumburg Township Library Friday, Oct. 19. Performances also are scheduled Oct. 20, 21, 26, 27 and 28.

The rest of the production staff includes Lorraine Swiatek as construction head whose crew is busy painting red and black flats, building a coffin and constructing hotel windows and doors. Mrs. Swiatek also is assistant director

China painting demonstration

Arlington Heights Art Guild meets Thursday at 8 p.m. at Our Saviour Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights Road at Olive Street. Mrs. Lillian Walkowiak of Palatine will demonstrate china painting.

Mrs. Walkowiak invites guests and members to bring in hand-painted china about which they may have a question.

The guild's officers and committee chairmen for the 1973-74 season are: Charles Miner, president; George Cushing, vice president; Mrs. Raymond Potter, recording secretary; Beverly Galdak, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Miner, treasurer; Lorraine Del Ghingaro, membership; Mrs. Robert Ziegler, program; Lucille and Stanley Anderson, hospitality; Carol Schurer, exhibition; and Mrs. Edward Herter, publicity.

A painting class, sponsored by the art guild and taught by Dave Garrison, will begin Wednesday for 10 weeks. Students will be able to choose and work in their own medium. Interested persons may contact Robert Ziegler, 358-9538, for more details.

The art guild meets on the third Thursday of the month and invites prospective members to call Mrs. Del Ghingaro at 392-9670. Visitors are welcome.

CHILLER, THE CAT

Halloween
Northern Hemisphere

Materials: black construction paper yellow construction paper black thread
scissors, stapler

Cut seven black paper strips about three-quarters inch by 12 inches. Stack them in a pile and staple together near one end (A). Turn them on edge.

Bend and fold the strips into the shape of a cat, stapling in place as you go (B). Let the center strip hang straight down the middle. Curl its bottom end around a pencil to make a tail. Glue on yellow paper eyes.

Hang Chiller with a black thread so he can keep an evil eye on your Halloween activities.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I washed a white pique dress for the first time and used a mild chlorine bleach solution on two small areas. It looked fine until after hanging in the sun (which I thought would whiten it more). The areas touched by the bleach turned yellow. Is there any way to remove the yellow? — Barbara Luciano

After such a stain has formed, the recommended treatment may not work though it's certainly worthwhile to try it. Rinse the fabric thoroughly, then soak for half an hour or longer in a solution containing one teaspoon of sodium thiosulfate to each quart of warm water. Rinse thoroughly. Make the solution with as hot water as you think safe for the material. If this doesn't work, a color remover might. You can get sodium thiosulfate either in a drug store or a photographer's supply shop.

Dear Dorothy: Here's a good way to ripen green tomatoes before they get caught by the frost. Our 70-year-old neighbor told us to pick off the tomatoes, dry them off and wrap each one in a piece of newspaper.

They were then put in a box and left in the garage (a cool place in the house can be used) for three weeks. We tried it last year and it worked beautifully. We had tomatoes for several weeks — just like sun-ripened ones. Our neighbor who used to live in Minnesota said his parents used to do this. — Mrs. Dale Propeck

Countryside Court hosts first art fair

Countryside Court at Elmhurst and Golf roads, Mount Prospect, will host its first outdoor art fair on the mall tomorrow from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Area artists exhibiting include Mark Young, Al Lemmerman and Michael Thomas, Mount Prospect; Mary Agnes McNamara and Palanda Graves, Arlington Heights; Mary Ann Randolph, Wheeling; Diana Mundi, Wheeling; Joyce Panichshyn, Des Plaines, and Joan Crow, Rolling Meadows.

The art fair will encompass a variety of media, including oils, watercolors, acrylics, sculpture, pen and ink, pottery and crafts. All works will be for sale.

Dear Dorothy: My husband loves to rummage through bookstores which handle old books. I've often wondered whether there is much risk about germs and disease, and so forth? Would you know? — Mrs. T.R.C.

Exposure to air and sunlight would dispose of any germs. However, if he brings such books home it's a good idea to flip through to make sure silverfish haven't been there first. They love glue and paste.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60008.)

Adult piano student music teachers topic

Northwest Suburban Music Teachers will welcome as guest speaker for its meeting next Monday Emanuel Lancaster of the Harper College Music Department.

Lancaster will lecture on "Teaching the Adult Piano Student," at the 9:30 a.m. meeting in Arlington Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton. All area music teachers are invited. More information about this meeting may be obtained from Mrs. John Jenkins, 211 Audrey Lane, Mount Prospect.

Among the services which the Northwest Suburban Music Teachers offer is a placement service for prospective students of voice and musical instruments. Persons wishing the names of teachers in their community who may have openings for students should contact the chairman, Verna Dean Roberts, 623 Sycamore Drive, Elk Grove Village.

Soprano to sing at Lyric meeting

"Opera Trills and Frills" will be presented by soprano Lois-Eve Anderson to members of Northwest Chapter of Lyric Opera Guild and guests next Wednesday at Inverness Country Club.

Miss Anderson, accompanied by Melody Lord, will present a variety of arias from this season's operas, including excerpts from "La Fille du Regiment." The program will commence at 10:45 a.m. and will be followed with a luncheon at 12:30.

Checks for $8.50 should be sent to Mrs. Eugene Ronstingen, 1883 W. Tweed, Palatine 60067, by today (Oct. 12).

ALBERT VOLZ QUESTERS

A field trip to the Wheaton antique show is scheduled Tuesday for members of Albert F. Volz Chapter of Questers. The women will meet first at the home of president Mrs. M. G. Manker in Itasca for a brief business meeting.

SOUTH CHURCH GUILD

"Holiday Ideas" with flowers is the program for Tuesday's luncheon of South Church Women's Guild, to be held at 12:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall, 501 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

Paul Fells of Busse Flowers and Gifts, Mount Prospect, who has won several awards at Allied Florists exhibits, will make floral arrangements for fall, then progressing to Thanksgiving and Christmas themes, and including tips on caring for special displays such as terrariums.

Tuesday's luncheon is a casserole potluck with members bringing their specialties and Esther Circle serving. Mrs. Lucia Beth Robinson is hostess.

Reservations should be made at the church office, 253-0501.

Birth notes

Editor's note: We regret that for the duration of the newspaper shortage we will not be able to list grandparents residing outside the Herald circulation area.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Jennifer Ann Schlatterer was born Sept. 19 to the Donald J. Schlatterers, 613 S. Dryden, Arlington Heights. The 8 pound 7 ounce baby is a granddaughter for Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Schlatterer, Arlington Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald O. Parrish, Elk Grove.

Mariene Sue Chin has joined two sisters and a brother in the Bing C. Chin home in Palatine at 1054 Whippoorwill Lane. She was born Oct. 6 weighing 7 pounds 10 ounces. Michael, 11, Doreen, 9, and Charlene, 7, are the brother and sisters of Mariene.

Christopher Frank Zemko was a Sept. 27 arrival for the Lawrence Zemkos, 903 S. Louis, Mount Prospect. Brother of Larry, 15, Diane, 9, and Carolyn, 8, the baby weighed 8 pounds 7 ounces. The Frank Russos, Mount Prospect, are grandparents of the children.

Michelle Lynn Myers is a sister for Darren, 4, in the Dale R. Myers home at 1615 Warwick, Schaumburg. She was born Oct. 3 weighing 6 pounds 8 1/2 ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Roeske, Rolling Meadows and Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Myers, Hoffman Estates, are the children's grandparents.

Patrick Daniel O'Shea is the new baby for Mr. and Mrs. Ralph O'Shea, 1718 Crandon Lane, Schaumburg. He was born Sept. 23 weighing 8 pounds 14 1/2 ounces. Michael, 7, and Rhonda, 17, are his brother and sister. Helen O'Shea, Arlington Heights, is his grandmother.

Robert Eugene Varney was born Sept. 11 to the Peter Varneys, 69 Timberhill Road, Buffalo Grove. The 8 pound, 13 ounce baby is a brother for Steven, 4, and Victoria, 3. Mrs. Eugene Cloud, Arlington Heights, is the children's grandmother.

Furs on parade at Woodfield

The latest in fun, fad and fashion furs will be shown from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday in the Grand Court of Woodfield shopping center, Schaumburg.

Fashions from 25 stores will be paraded by professional models and some amateurs who have appeared in Woodfield's back-to-school fashion shows in the past.

Priscilla Henricks of Harper's Bazaar, Woodfield's own fashion consultant, is coordinator and commentator for the show. "I plan to open it with models leading dogs to match the furs," she said.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schooley

Harper instructor marries

William Schooley, a math instructor at Harper College, is commuting from Rockford each weekday since his marriage Sept. 1 to Ann Budde of Rochelle, Ill. The newlyweds are living in Rockford and Ann is teaching French and English at Ashton, Ill.

The bridegroom made his home in Schaumburg before his marriage. Son of the J. Heilman Schooleys of Montrose, Pa., he has a bachelor's degree from Penn State University and a master's from Bowling Green (Ohio) University.

The couple's afternoon wedding took place in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Rochelle, with a reception following in the local Vagabond Inn.

ANN, DAUGHTER of Mrs. Isabel Budde of Alton, Ill., and the late Walter Budde, chose Mrs. Robert Millam of Lisle as her matron of honor. Her sisters, Beverly and Brenda Budde of Alton, were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom had his brother, John Schooley of Fairmont, W. Va., as best man, while Roger Kennedy, Philadelphia, and the bride's brother, Robert Budde, seated the guests.

Ann earned her bachelor's degree from Northern Illinois University in 1970.

Fall conference of IFWC Tuesday

Richard Babcock, president of the Institute of Mind Development, will be speaker Tuesday at the fall conference of Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs. The conference will be held in the Glenview Community Church from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A divinity school graduate, Babcock was a minister in Malaysia and Indonesia for 12 years and has authored articles on religion in Southeast Asia. The Institute of Mind Development offers courses in improving the mind for creative, positive motivation and basic self improvement.

Square Dance News

RAND HAMBLYERS
 Don Baldwin from Champaign, Ill., will be guest caller for the Rand Hamblyers tomorrow night, when they gather at the Boy Scouts of America Building, 1022 N. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, for another evening of fun in square dancing. All area dancers are welcome.

Round with Harry and Marge Tetloff begins at 8 p.m. Squaring up time is at 8:30 p.m. and dancing continues until 11 p.m.

HAPPY TWILERS
 Happy Twirlers will celebrate a "Special Appreciation" dance tonight at Congregational Church, Grandland and Marion streets, Des Plaines. A "new figure" workshop from 8 to 8:30 p.m. precedes the intermediate (plus) dancing, from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Frank A. Souda Jr., moderator of First Congregational Church, will present an "Appreciation Certificate," honoring all the Happy Twirlers and their callers Char-Lee Velders for their generous and substantial contribution to the Congregational Church, since the group was formed, several years ago.

Happy Twirlers beginners class will start Tuesday night, Oct. 16, from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Congregational Church. Oct. 23 is the last night beginners will be accepted. Registration may be made by calling 821-1151. Their "experimental" figure workshop continues every second and fourth Sunday nights at the Trinity Lutheran Church, 675 W. Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

ARLINGTON SQUARES
 The Arlington Squares will feature club callers Paul "Pogo" Thompson and the Hoffbergs at their "Circus Days" dance, tonight at St. Simon Episcopal Church, 517 W. Kirchoff Rd., Arlington Heights.

A half hour of rounds will begin at 8 p.m., followed by squares at 8:30 p.m. Dancing will continue until 11 p.m. Refreshments will be served and all area dancers are invited.

HUCKS AND DOWS
 "Huck and Dows" will be the theme of the Hucks and Dows dance tomorrow night at the Dempster Junior High School, Dempster Street just west of Ill. Rte. 83 in Mount Prospect. Paul "Pogo" Thompson will square 'em up at 8 p.m., and Lee and Shirley will run the rounds throughout the evening.

Dancers are encouraged to get into the swing of things by donating their overalls or anything appropriate to the theme. Admission will be $2.50 per couple at the door. Refreshments will be served. All area dancers are invited.

Also, tickets for the upcoming Nelson Watkins dance on Oct. 27 will be available. Tickets are $1 per couple and can be obtained by calling the Hucks and Dows treasurers at 434-6012.

Showdown

Unbeaten St. Viator entertains rugged Holy Cross

by LARRY EVERHART

A Blue Cross award should go to St. Viator's football team after this season — and not because the team's uniforms are blue and the school is Catholic.

Coach Jim Lino's Lions have paid a physical price for their four victories in as many games. They've been battered even though not defeated. The list of walking wounded is getting so long it looks like what you'd find in a hospital emergency room.

"Most of our starters are hurt one way or another," said Lino of tonight's crucial showdown against also-unbeaten (3-0-1) Holy Cross at Arlington High School at 8:00.

"A lot of them are going to have to play crippled . . . play with their hearts. Their effectiveness will be reduced 30 to 40 per cent. All my running backs — (Bernie) Borschke, (Steve) Bobowski, (Joe) Little and (Tom) Maher have injuries and (quarterback Jim) Bucaro is my only healthy back. It's the same way in the line. I still don't know (as of Wednesday afternoon) who will be ready to go."

All of this tends to paint a black picture, but the Lions have overcome odds (usually smaller size) and injuries consistently over the past two seasons and kept right on winning. And Lino says they're still up, not discouraged. "They're not the type of kids to get down," he said.

It's the second straight season that this matchup brings together unbeaten rivals. Last year in River Grove, St. Viator won convincingly (yes, that's the word), 14-9. That sounds close, but it wasn't. Holy Cross' only touchdown came on a returned fumble recovery and St. Viator dominated in yards gained, 237-61.

The Crusaders know what Steve Bobowski can do, even injured. He had probably his best game against them last year, leading the way with 86 yards in nine carries. And he played last week in the 14-13 win over St. Patrick despite his injured ankle.

"He would have broken a couple of long ones for touchdowns normally, but he couldn't cut," Lino pointed out. "He still kicked both extra points (for the margin of victory) even though his kicking foot is his bad foot."

Although this isn't St. Viator's homecoming, it is that in a way for the opposing coach, Frank Mariani of Holy Cross, who for St. Viator's first three years (1961-64) was the school's athletic director, football coach and baseball coach. He correctly and proudly said, "I started their tradition in those sports. I got them off on the right foot."

Tonight, instead, he'll be trying to trip them.

To do it, he has some impressive material individually. Defensively, linebackers Jeff Grovak (185) and Tom McDonough (190) and tackle Dan Melsek (240) have led the way, while the offense has split end Steve Gordon and running backs Jim Barr and Pete Athas to rely on.

The Crusaders have used the triple option all the way and run most of the time. They haven't allowed a point in three games and are ranked in the Chicago area's top 10 in several polls — as St. Viator also is this week for the first time.

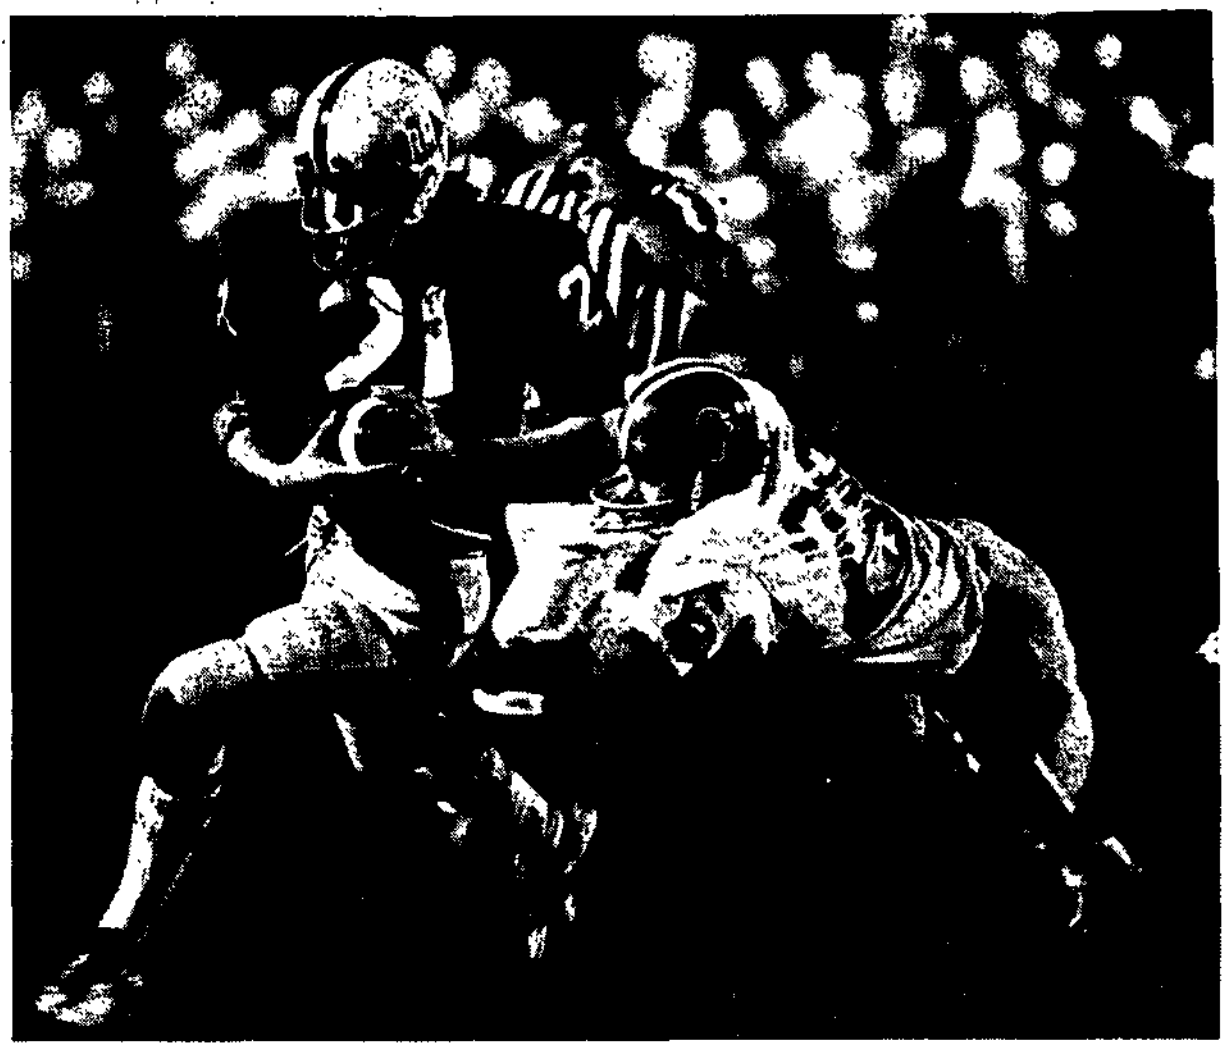

Holy Cross beat Ridgewood 26-12 in its opener, blanked Argo 51-0 and Marist 14-0 before tying Notre Dame 0-0 last week.

This has been accomplished despite what Mariani calls a small, young team. "We start 17 juniors," he said. "We get the same type of kid here as St. Viator — usually not big but gutsy."

Mariani said he does not believe in revenge and that last year's score is meaningless now. "Every year is a different year. We gave it our best last year, but they were just a better team."

This year's Lions? "Bucaro is a darn good thrower. He may even be a better passer than (Stan) Bobowski was last year. And Steve Bobowski is always a threat. Those two really impress me."

Now if they all can stay out of the hospital . . .

Kickin' It Around

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

THERE ARE THINGS you wonder about.

You wonder why the teams you spend your time watching picked the same weekend to play such uninspired football.

If you had the unfortunate television experience to watch Illinois and the Chicago Bears on consecutive afternoons last weekend, you probably found a cure for insomnia.

Even announcer Keith Jackson, easily the best play-by-play man in the ABC-TV stable, had trouble showing any enthusiasm for that Illinois fiasco with Stanford.

After sitting through those two yawns, you wonder if the high school game still isn't the best one of all.

You wonder when was the last time a guy doing the color commentary on radio at a high school football game fell off a chair in the press box after working an entire half with a leg asleep. Would you believe last Friday night? I wonder if I'm cut out for this part-time radio business.

You wonder when you've read a more enjoyable book than "Cosell" by Howard Cosell. The people in the sportswriting business are so envious of this guy that they become distorted in their view of him.

Sure, Cosell can be a pompous, selfish, vindictive person, but even he admits this. So how can you get mad at him for it?

The truth is, the man has done a lot of things with his sports career. He has been to a lot of places and knows a lot of people. And he has the faculty for passing on his experience to others. I liked his book. It was pure Cosell. It rubbed all my emotions — good and bad — but it never bored me.

You wonder if the only way to curb the beanball in baseball, as well as the retaliatory brushback pitch, is to award the hit batsman two bases instead of one. Most of the time, this action takes place with no one or just one man on base. By putting the runner(s) in scoring position, managers and pitchers might think twice before ordering the close one.

You wonder when the Chicago Cubs are going to wake up and give Prospect product Tom Landstedt the shot he deserves as a catcher. Landstedt's name is often forgotten in any post-season analysis of the plusses and minuses of the Cubs, but this guy is just what this floundering organization needs. He's big, strong, has shown he can hit and work behind the plate, and he has the super attitude that the Cubs need more than anything. He's a winner, and that's more than you can say for the rest of that aging club.

And speaking of the Cubs, you wonder why manager Whitey Lockman received a "do as you please" recommendation from his boss P. K. Wrigley when Lockman just finished guiding the team to its worst record in years. One Chicago sportswriter, rather typically, jumped on the backwagon early — when the Cubs were winning — and called Lockman the best manager in Chicago since Al Lopez of the White Sox.

Lockman hasn't done anything to justify such praise, just as the Bears' Abe Gibrón (five regular season wins in two years) hasn't done anything to earn all the publicity and commercials and television shows he has going for him. Let a guy earn it first.

Lockman probably does deserve another year on the job, but he certainly doesn't deserve any glowing praise for what he's done so far. His handling of the Cubs' first base situation this year ranks with some of the big mistakes in club history.

You wonder about some more things. You wonder when pro football is going to wake up and put some life back into its game. There aren't isolated cases any more. The boring games in the NFL are the rule rather than the exception.

You wonder just when some people will start putting kids sports programs — football, in particular — in a proper perspective. Frankly, it's getting very tiresome to everyone in this sports department to have to explain over and over to irate callers about space problems and how a newspaper does have a right to exercise control over the length of the results each week. You'd almost think we weren't running anything.

It's unbelievable — and annoying — that some people refuse to budge in their feeling that the program itself should be the one to dictate policy and length, and that a newspaper is obligated to print everything it receives.

The people who continue to be so obsessed with publicity for these youngsters in the pre-high school group should ask themselves one simple question before they pick up the phone and complain: Just what are these programs for anyway?

You wonder if it's just you or is there a rash of flag-dropping in high school football this fall. There seems to be a lot of time spent marking off penalties, much more than I can recall in recent years.

You wonder, as you continue to struggle in your company bowling league, if anyone will ever top the incredible record set by Mike Durbin of Chagrin Falls, Ohio. How many times have you bowled a 238 game? Durbin AVERAGED 238 for 102 games in five-man league play in 1971-72. To roll a 238, you need a minimum of five strikes in a row or its equivalent, four in a row and two in a row, two triples or four doubles. To maintain that kind of average, you need seven to nine strikes every game. Think about that the next time you bowl. This guy averaged 238 for 102 games. It's a staggering record for someone with my up-and-down average to even think about.

You wonder if the American Basketball Association isn't on the right track with its no-foul-out rule. The rule reads: "No player will be disqualified because of the number of personal fouls he may accumulate during a game and overtime periods. When a player commits his seventh or succeeding fouls, the offended team will retain possession of the ball after the offended player attempts any free throw(s) which he is awarded."

Some skeptics say the rule will increase fouling in the game, but I'm not so sure. Anyway, I like the idea of going to a game and knowing you'll see the players from start to finish.

It's aggravating to pay good money and see the stars foul out early or get saddled with so many fouls their effectiveness is severely restricted.

The professional players keep getting bigger and faster and there just isn't that much room to maneuver on the floor. Many fouls are committed that can't be helped when you have a game of such speed that features 10 athletes battling in a relatively small area.

One last thing you wonder about.

Ellis Files, an All-Stater at Lockport Central, will be playing basketball for Aurora East this winter. He was expelled from Lockport.

You know that he should be permitted to play if he transferred normally with the shift in residence of his family. He did not move, however, until he had been suspended by the Lockport school. You wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea that such action as a suspension by one member school should be recognized by all other schools in the Illinois High School Association.

If a student is wronged, he could stay there and take it to court. If a student is disciplined and suspended by one IHSA school, shouldn't it hold up for all schools? Just wondering.

Fremd visits Hersey, Forest View hosts Elk Grove in grid features

When Nov. 9 (Super Bowl Friday) rolls around, Mid-Suburban League football fans might look back to tonight's games as being the means to that end.

Friday, October the 12th — that was the night that was.

At least this is the hope of the teams that remain in contention for those coveted berths for the championship game.

Five are in contention for North Division honors out of six teams. Three still have hopes in the South Division.

The South's biggest matchup is Elk Grove (2-1) at Forest View (2-1). The past two seasons have been keyed around this matchup with the Grove manning to emerge victorious and win the Super Bowl, too.

Figuring to be the feature matchup in the North is Fremd (2-0) at Hersey (3-0). A win by the Huskies could allow them to steamroll into the Super Bowl for the third straight year.

Trying to keep close will be North contenders Arlington (2-1), Palatine (2-1) and Rolling Meadows (1-1). The Pirates will host the Cardinals and the Mustangs will be at Wheeling (0-3).

Schaumburg (2-1), tied with Elk Grove, will entertain Prospect (0-3) Saturday afternoon. The Saxons are the surprise team in the South Division. Conant will be at Wheaton North Saturday with both afternoon games starting at approximately two o'clock.

ELK GROVE AT FOREST VIEW

When you speak of your next opponent as a "super football team" while calling your own as one "still making mistakes," it sounds like you're in for a long evening.

The following mutterings were spoken by Don Schnake, Elk Grove's head coach. He knows his team is in for its toughest test of the season. Why?

Well, besides being super, Schnake considers the Falcons "better than last year. Look how many they have back (12 returning lettermen).

"They've played great football the last three years . . . They scored 21 points on Hersey, a good defensive team. If they can do that . . ."

Still, the Grenadiers have one thing going for them as they try to upset the favored Falcons on their homecoming — they've won the last three years.

The game will feature the top ball carriers in the league in the Grove's Don Weadley (382 yards) and the Falcons' John Kronforst (308), the latter playing one fewer game. When Schnake was told that this Forest View workhorse halfback was closing in on the career rushing area record, he added that Kronforst "has to rate with the all-time top backs" in the MSL.

Kronforst was limping even between rushes for 144 yards in 26 carries last week against state-ranked St. Bede in a 13-0 victory. But then, anyone who carries as many times as John and takes such a beating is going to have little hurts. And knowing the kind of competitor Kronforst is, he should be ready for the big one tonight.

"We got through last week all right," said coach Fred Lussow. "Oh, we have just some little injuries, but they should heal up by Friday."

"Yes, this is the one we must have. We can't go anywhere if we don't win. Winning last week was important just because it gave us a big psychological lift (after losing to Hersey). But as soon as the game was over, we were talking about Elk Grove."

Craig Brinkman, the 6-foot-2, 215-pound linebacker, played like an all-star against St. Bede. Ken Holan (86 yards in 13 carries) joined Kronforst in giving the Falcons a dominating, ball-control game.

Lussow calls Elk Grove "a well-coached team that doesn't make mistakes . . . a good, sound team. They don't quit, either. They've come back three times to win games and almost did it against Arlington, too."

This one has everything — key division game, neighborhood arch-rivalry, and a big revenge motive for the Falcons. Elk Grove has inflicted Forest View's only losses in 7-1 and 6-1 seasons — and last year the score was 40-7. The memory of that should have the Falcons itching to hit.

FREM D AT HERSEY

And then there was one . . . With this provoking thought in mind, Fremd and Hersey tangled tonight on the Huskie battlefield for the undisputed lead in the loop's North Division.

Although both clubs have tasted defeat this season, their slates are pure and clean as far as the Mid-Suburban is concerned. But with the new overtime ruling in effect, that situation cannot continue past this evening. A tie game is out. Only a winner and a loser will be produced.

The Vikings will enter the contest as underdogs. And to no small degree, the reason for their slightly lesser rating can be attributed to the same caliber individual they'll be facing at Hersey: a potential all-state quarterback.

It was Kurt Steger, Lake Park's highly touted signal caller who directed a 22-7 verdict that is Fremd's only setback this season. Vike mentor Al Ratcliff is very much aware of the fact that he'll be confronting something quite similar in the actions of Huskie Mark Zakula.

"Yeah, we know all about him," shrugged Ratcliff. "I'd like to think we could concentrate our defense on stopping Zakula but the trouble is, if you watch him too closely, this (Jim) Spicuzza will shoot right through on you . . . he's really quick."

Forest View, Elk Grove on WWMM radio

WWMM-FM of Arlington Heights will be at Forest View High School Friday evening for the Mid-Suburban League football battle between the Falcons and Elk Grove.

WM Director of Sports Bud Kelly will do the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk the color commentary for the meeting that annually ranks with the top rivalries in the area. The game is crucial in the South Division standings.

The pre-game show is set for approximately eight o'clock at 92.7 on the FM dial.

JIM DANDY. Hersey setback Jim Spicuzza is tackled by Arlington's Mike DeMarr during Friday's league headliner on the Cardinal field. Spicuza was not so easy to bring down on other occasions, breaking loose once on a 60-yard scoring jaunt and notching 120 yards overall to help the Huskies win their third straight, 7-6.

JUNIORS — Elk Grove-Holy Electric defeated Des Plaines, 11-1 in the Junior Division Hockey League at Woodfield. Mike Preper started the scoring early in the first period assisted by Bill Hoffmeyer. Mike Wolfman tallied next, assisted by Don Stramello while Halpenny came back to score assisted by John Foster. The period ended with Tom Balcer scoring on a pass from Larry Mitche.

Dave Carlson tallied unassisted six minutes into the second period while Des Plaines came back to avert a shutout two minutes later. Larry Mitche ended the Elk Grove scoring in the second period when he put the puck in the net on a pass from Jim Laing.

With 8:11 left in the game, Mitche tallied with Balcer and Carlson assisting. Laing followed with Mitche and Balcer assisting and Bob Moritz hit the light unassisted with 1:04 to play. Sven Overland got on the scoreboard assisted by Deeper with 1:11 remaining and Deeper tallied assisted by Overland at the final buzzer. Goals: Javers and Sosnowski gave good performances.

Lop-sided series

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — The United States now leads Great Britain, 38-7, in their international women's tennis series for the Wightman Cup. The Americans defeated the British here in August, 5-2, on the 50th anniversary of the inaugural played at Forest Hills in 1923 and won by the United States, 7-0.

Announce winners in novice swim meet at YMCA

Northwest Suburban YMCA held its annual novice swim meet recently for all boy and girl members under 15 years of age who were not on the 1972-73 A "Y" Swim Team or former AAU meet winners.

Ribbons were awarded for the first six places in each event. Boys competed against boys of their own age, and the girls did the same.

The winners in each event:

6-7 year olds — Freestyle and Backstroke: Susan Jacobsen and Tom McGann.

8 year olds — Free and Back: Diane Reynolds and Kevin Lake.

9 year olds — Free: Gina Gomboa and John Waters. Back: Barb Bloethner and Scott Kemp. Breaststroke: Jeanne Tally and John Waters.

10 year olds — Free and Back: Carolyn Willett and Ricky Baker. Breaststroke: Cathy Lucansky and Ricky Baker.

11 and 12 years olds — Back & Breaststroke: Patti Wilcox and John Grazian.

13 and 14 year olds — Free, Back and Breast: Kathi Hirschfield. Breast and Free: Paul Baker. Back: Roland Bracher.

Harper on road; hopes to shake tough setbacks

by DON FRISKE

Having completed probably their two toughest challenges of the season, the Harper Hawks find themselves with a 2-2 record.

Against the top-ranked team in the nation, the Hawks lost 13-6, and against the No. 1 team in Illinois, they suffered a 31-28 loss last Saturday to Rock Valley.

"That was a very tough loss," said Hawk coach John Eliasik, as Rock Valley scored the game-winning touchdown in the last minute of play. "They don't come any closer, and we were close enough to win. But you have to take your hat off to Rock Valley for the job they did."

Eliasik feels that the Hawks' season will now crescendo. The Hawk offense had the best game ever in the three-year history of Harper football. They collected 386 total yards, 199 rushing and 187 passing, for a balanced attack.

The key now is in the defense. "Our defense hasn't performed in the clutch situations," commented Eliasik. "They have to make a complete turnaround from last week's game."

According to Eliasik, the Hawks' goal for the rest of the season is to win five games in a row to achieve the best Harper record ever.

The first challenge for this goal comes tomorrow night in Milwaukee, Wis., when they play Concordia.

"Last year, we lost to them 26-7. It was a disheartening loss because we were good enough to beat them, but we just didn't play well," said Eliasik. "They've got some real good individuals, but they lack team depth."

Eliasik remembers offensive back Frank Penza from Concordia, who hurt them last year. He's on the team again this season as part of an offense that, according to Eliasik, is fairly simple but executes well.

"I'm hoping that we can get an early lead and hold it this time," said Eliasik.

Arlington girls head archery; Cynthia Swanson overall champ

Arlington High School captured the team title in girls archery competition for the Mid-Suburban Conference.

Coach Linda Swanson's Arlington team collected 199 points in the league meet and duels for a bulge of 69 points over the runnerup from Forest View. Prospect was third with 115.

Rounding out the team totals were Palatine with 89, Conant 74, Schaumburg 71, Fremd 70, Hersey 53, Elk Grove 37, and Wheeling 20.

In actual dual meets for the season the Arlington and Forest View archers had 7-0 records. Prospect finished at 5-2, Conant 4-3, Fremd 3-4, Schaumburg 3-4, Palatine 3-4, Hersey 1-6, and Elk Grove 1-6.

Cynthia Swanson of Arlington had the top combined total in the finals at Forest View with 588. Kathy Boyd of Arlington was second with 534 and Sandra Carpenter of Elk Grove third with 522.

In the competition at 30 yards the winner was Cynthia Swanson with 272. Kathy Boyd had 219 and Sandra Carpenter 243.

In the competition at 20 yards Cynthia Swanson had 314, Jane Routh of Palatine 290, and Judy Kirchoff of Prospect 288.

Girls bid in district tennis play

Mid-Suburban Conference girl tennis players will be out to match or better last year's inaugural showing in the district tournament.

Palatine, Arlington, Wheeling, Fremd, Conant, Prospect and Schaumburg qualified 18 girls for the 1972 state finals.

This Saturday a total of 13 MSC teams will be entered at five different sites. The girls are seeking winner or runner-up berths in either singles or doubles.

These are the following sites for MSC teams along with other schools competing at each:

Mount Prospect — Arlington, Forest View, Hersey, Rolling Meadows, Glenbrook South and Prospect.

Elk Grove — Addison Trail, Fenton, Timothy Christain, East Leyden, West Leyden and Elk Grove.

Crystal Lake — Palatine, Fremd, Barrington, Crown, Dundee, and Crystal Lake.

Glenbrook North — Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Deerfield, Lake Zurich, Stevenson and Glenbrook North.

Elgin — Conant, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, St. Edward, Larkin and Elgin.

The qualifiers will advance to the Arlington High School hosted State Finals the following weekend, Oct. 19-20. Co-hosting the finals will be Prospect, Hersey, Forest View and Rolling Meadows.

Wheeling invite grid highlights

BUENOS AIRES

The Buffalo Grove Bulls remain in first place following Saturday's shutout victory over the Prospect Heights Lions at Wheeling's Heritage Park. This win keeps the Bulls one-half game ahead of the Wheeling Cardinals in the Wheeling Invitational League.

Frankie Dickenson scored the Bulls' touchdown on a five-yard quick pitch play, capping a 55-yard drive. It was Benson's fifth TD of the season.

With only 47 seconds remaining in the game, quarterback Craig Groot and end Jeff Dennis combined for a 11-yard pass play.

Albin Anderson paced the defense with eight tackles from his linebacker spot.

Ken Peters paced the ball carriers with eight tries for 63 yards. Dennis topped the receivers with three for 60 yards. Groot hit on four of seven attempts for 65 yards.

Chicago disc jockeys visit for charity

The Arlington High School lettermen and Chicago disc jockeys will take the basketball floor in Grace Gym for the sake of charity Saturday at 8 p.m.

The game, with proceeds going to the National Foundation of Sudden Infant Death in the Loyola University Project, will match the Cardinal "A" Club against the likes of Larry Lujack and Jerry G. Bishop among the radio personalities.

General admission prices to the worthwhile spectacle cost $1.50 and may be purchased at the door prior to the 8 p.m. tipoff.

St. Viator soccer club in 5-5 tie

St. Viator's frosh-soph soccer club recently battled St. Joseph of Westchester to a 3-3 tie in the Lions' first game of the season at St. Joe.

Leading scorer for the Lions was Mike Gosczycki with two goals. Mike Sobey, Steve Sobey and Keith Reiter scored the other goals. Jim Frueternav, the Lion goalie, made nine saves.

In other soccer action, the Arlington Heights Soccer Club lost to Loyola Academy 3-1. Brad Barrett, the A. H. goalie, did exceptionally well considering a hand injury sustained early in the game. Brad had eight saves. The lone A. H. goal was scored by Steve Sobey with only 10 seconds left. Although the club lost in its first game, the players expect to finish high.

Seven teams put the lid on the Mid-Suburban League's dual-meet portion of the fall golf season Wednesday in preparation for the conference meet Tuesday at Palatine Hills.

The teams will be chasing Prospect who survived the competition with a spotless 11-0 ledger. The Knights earned the driver's seat by firing a superb 151 to best Conant's 161 over Golden Acres.

Mark Hartman paced Prospect with a 36, Craig Calkins added 37, Craig Ridley 38 and Steve Spielman 40 while Conant (5-6) countered with 40's by Kevin Eakins, Dave Sidlin and Tim Davey and Pete Pavich's 41.

Hersey (9-2) hit peak form with a stunning 150 to 157 triumph over Palatine (6-3) at Buffalo Grove Golf Course. The Huskies' superior performance — best of the season by any team — was derived from Cal Zimmerman's 36, Bruce Conroy's 37, Steve Hartmann's 38 and Ed Stubbs' 39. Palatine's fine effort came from 38's by Jim Arden and Steve Pircher, Nicky Zambolo's 39 and Jim Loneragan's 42.

Fremd (9-2) won a battle of contenders by whipping Forest View (6-3) with two meets remaining, 164-166 at Palatine Hills. The Vikings got consistent 41's by Jim Higley, Cliff Garcia, Bob Frank and Jeff Rubak while the Falcons countered with 39's by Rick Keyser and Ron Romack, Gary Willert's 43 and Dan Meier's 45.

Arlington (6-5) completed the schedule by handling Schaumburg, (2-9), 185-179. The Cards recorded 40's by Brian Palmer and Steve Loughman, Bill Weber's 42 and Tom Olcese's 43 while the Saxons closed with Keith Abraham's 41, Jim Norman's 43, Greg Governale's 47 and Scott Richards' 48 at Indian Lakes.

In a coach's tournament at Rockford, Hersey's Al Kintzle carded a sizzling (?) 40 for honors.

Twinbrook golf league presents season awards

The fourth golf season of the Twinbrook YMCA Men's League ended last weekend.

Maine-Northfield sets banquet date

For the first time, both parents are invited to join their sons at Maine-Northfield Little League's annual awards dinner Tuesday night, Oct. 23, at the White Eagle Restaurant in Niles.

Reserve catcher Ken Rudolph and relief pitcher Larry Gura of the Chicago Cubs will serve as guest speakers. In previous seasons, only fathers and their sons attended the awards banquet.

The White Eagle Restaurant is located at 6845 Milwaukee Ave., in Niles.

The first place team consisted of Dean Jelden, Jerry Lavey, Doug Schiabe, Bruce Mahon and Bob Antonowich.

Individual bracket champs were Dick Barnes (A), Dean Jelden (B), Harry Mills (C), and Buck Weston (D).

A special award was made to Tom Craft for setting a league record with a 34 during league play and finishing with a 0 handicap. Gunther Paczka received the most improved golfer trophy.

At the annual league tournament held at Hilldale C.C., Tom Craft shot a low gross score of 79, Doug Schiabe carded a net 69, Jack McCellan won the longest drive contest and also had the fewest total putts (29), while Ray Wright took closest to the pin honors.

Raider runners 9-0, sweep four schools

Oakton Community College kept its varsity cross country unbeaten string intact recently by swamping all opponents in a five-team meet held at Niles West.

The Raiders scored 29 points to defeat Highland 56, Elgin 69, Mayfair 82½ and Kennedy-King 112½. Victories over Elgin and Mayfair tied Oakton with Harper for leadership (2-0) in the Skyway Conference. Oakton is 9-0 overall.

Tom Wright placed second in the four-mile meet at 22:02. Joe Cosentino, Tom Kropf, Dan Maher and Frank Balles placed second-to-sixth for Oakton.

Schaumburg football

The Schaumburg Athletic Association's total football program was highly successful last weekend. Not only did it win all five games against other towns, but did not even allow a punt. Game results:

PEE WEE

Trojans 28, Hoffman High Club 0
Schaumburg totaled 212 yards, 136 on the ground. Leading was Rob Wagner with 71 yards in 14 carries. Dave Koltz was the receiver in a 36-yard pass play from Joe Basil for one touchdown. Basil and Mike Kopp scored the others on two-yard runs and Basil also made two extra points. Terry McCue caught two passes for 24 yards. The defense gave up only 42 yards and shut out its fifth straight opponent.

Cavaliers 14, Hanover Park 9
Schaumburg scored one touchdown in the first quarter and two in each succeeding quarter. The Cavaliers ran for 200 yards, 150 of them by Bryan Coyle, and quarterback Greg Latta completed six of 12 passes. Coyle scored three touchdowns. Gary Szabo a TD and two-point conversion, and Garde, Nick Fein and Tim McCanta one each.

In other Pee Wee games matching two Schaumburg teams, the Lancers beat the Warriors 13-7 and the Crusaders defeated the Spartans 12-7. (No other details were reported.)

WINGMEN

Knight 13, Glenfield 0
Pat Youngs made a spectacular 90-yard run for a touchdown and gained 184 yards for the game. Tim Claven caught three passes for 33 yards.

Knight 2, Hanover Park 9
Quarterback Bill Hubbert carried eight times for 63 yards and the game's only touchdown, snapping a scoreless tie in the fourth quarter with only 1:45 left. It came on a clutch fourth-down rollout. Schaumburg's defense held Hanover to 30 yards in the second half. Both teams had been undefeated going into the game.

Vikings 28, Glenfield 8
David Brumm caught two passes for touchdowns, covering 24 and 19 yards. He also made a two-point safety. David Starna plunged a yard for a TD. Mike Irwin's 24-yard run was good for another score, and John Plink made three extra points. Rocky Pugliese made the two longest plays of the game, catching a 26-yard pass from Starna and making a 35-yard run.

Hoffman grid

In an intra-division game Sunday, the Hoffman Chiefs stopped the Hanover Hawks 12-0 at Hoffman Field. The win was the Chiefs' fifth of the season, keeping them in first place in the North Division, a game ahead of the Hoffman Hawks.

Running back George Bush played a fine game offensively, setting up and scoring the Chiefs' first TD. It came on a 34-yard pass from Mike Briddis.

Late in the third quarter, halfback Fernando Cerrahin scored 27 yards for the other score. Saturday, the Chiefs travel south to meet South Division power Glenfield at 2 p.m.

When Fremd visits Hersey tonight —Ground power, air power

Netelliff is putting more of an accent on a platoon setup with each passing week. Among his recent modifications have been to move 164-pound Ron Bowman and 182-pound Dan Yelovich into the offensive tackle slots, hike Bob Dolan and Pat Gavigan up from the jayvee squad for defensive duty and spell running back Tom Bullen in the defensive backfield with speedster Jeff Brisson.

Hersey coach Joe Gliwa realizes the task of getting his club sky high for the third straight week in a row. The Huskies were emotionally prepared for contenders Forest View and Arlington and can't afford to let down against Fremd.

"We've got Homecoming on our side this week," Gliwa said. "To us, Fremd is a rolling stone coming down a mountain. They can run and run and run with Bullen and Brisson in the backfield."

The Hersey pilot won't be surprised if the Vikings decide to come out throwing, though. The Huskies proved they can shut off the run in whipping Forest View and Arlington.

"I think it will help us if they change their game plan," Gliwa said, "because they won't be playing their kind of game and won't be doing what they can do best."

"They're the type of team that will try to force you to make a mistake and then hit you with real power. They're quick and can be devastating on the ground."

Hersey's one-two punch of Zakula and Spicuzza, however, has been known to annihilate an opponent or two, too. The potent tandem has helped the Huskies average 32 points per game — Spicuzza ranking fourth in the league's rushing derby and third in receptions while Zakula is the conference's best in both the passing and total offense categories.

Also at stake in the North Division's battle of unbeaten is individual scoring honors. Viko quarterback Kevin Cumiskey and Zakula are leading the race with 23 and 26 points, respectively.

Gliwa reports that tackle John Brown may have sustained a slight shoulder separation, but will dress for the Fremd game.

PROSPECT AT SCHAUMBURG
"The surprise of the South" is the way Prospect head coach Don Williams viewed Schaumburg prior to invading the Saxons' Homecoming Saturday afternoon.

And part of the reason Schaumburg is surprising (2-1) is halfback Rich Godinez

— a Prospect player for three years and a big part of the Knights' football plans for 1973 who transferred to Schaumburg for his senior year. Now he's got a chance to haunt his old teammates.

"We've seen them twice and they're a good ball club," Williams said. "There aren't that many of them, but they do a lot of things right. They block well, run well and are fundamentally sound. And the two wins they have in a row is making them a very spirited team."

Prospect also had its morale boosted despite falling to highly-regarded Elk Grove, 14-11. "We played much better football against them," Williams praised. "There were a couple of calls that went against us, otherwise we may have beaten them."

The Knights are also trying to protect diminishing numbers. "Jon Devero came up with a possible shoulder separation against Elk Grove," Williams said. "We'll still have (Mike) Rekowski at fullback and Brad Schmidt at tailback, but we'll have to wait and see who we can use at wingback."

Williams was especially pleased with the Knights' progress in the passing department. Quarterback Mike Quade completed seven of 11 aerials and made good use of 6-foot-3, 190-pound end John Franson.

Adding to the Godinez story is the fact that he was the star of the game, at least statistically, in last week's 26-6 victory over arch-rival Conant. He carried the ball 15 times for 137 yards, a touchdown and a two-point conversion.

Schaumburg's injuries have healed, so the squad will be at full strength and rested after the three-day weekend (it was excused from practice Monday).

"Prospect has a multiple offense," said Schaumburg coach Bob Ferguson. "They almost knocked off Elk Grove so we know this will be a tough game."

"We invariably play our worst against Prospect, but we hope this will come to (Continued on page 10) an end Saturday. It's going to be our Homecoming, so the kids should be up for it."

It was no contest when the two teams met last year, Prospect breaking out of a slump with a 26-6 triumph.

ARLINGTON AT PALATINE
Everyone should be seeing red out at Palatine tonight.

In addition to the crimson in their uniforms both the Pirates and visiting Arlington have to enter this contest fighting mad over setbacks suffered a week earlier and anxious to make amends.

In addition the loser can pretty much count itself out of contention in the MSL's North Division race.

Coach Chuck Haines and his Cardinal crew would also like to see the scales tip back in their direction after favoring Palatine in three of the last four years. The Cardinal-Pirate pairing is one of the few uninterrupted grid rivalries in the MSL and has produced some cliffhangers since 1970 when the Cards squeezed out an 18-14 triumph.

Two years ago Palatine pulled off a 7-6 victory and last fall they edged Arlington 17-13.

Haines, however, is more concerned about what will be happening this evening than last year or even last week. "We were stung pretty bad (by Hersey 26-6) last week but there's no time to dwell on it. Palatine could give us just as much trouble if we're not prepared for them... they've got the kind of offense that can explode on you any time."

The Cardinal coach also figures the opposition to be in a healthier situation tonight after playing without the services of several of their regulars last Friday. "I suspect they'll have at least a couple of those kids back in uniform. We could really have our hands full if that fullback (Jim) Maycan returns to the lineup... their backfield is loaded with him."

Maycan just might be back, according to Arv Herstedt, Palatine's head coach. If so, he'll be both backfield as ball carrier and potential quarterback harasser from his defensive end spot.

Palatine must have its offense in better shape than last week when its 109 total yards "probably reached an all-time low," according to the Pirate coach, a man who prides himself on always having offensive-minded teams.

The Pirates have had their way in three out of the last four meetings with Arlington after losing three in the late 1960s by a point total of 123-6. However, during that period Palatine was suffering through a split with newly-opened Fremd. Besides that, Arlington was fielding some powerhouse teams. Things have pretty much evened up since then, according to Herstedt.

As far as the effort against a rolling Meadows defense that could "give any team in the league a lot of trouble if they play that way," Herstedt couldn't praise anybody on offense or defense either.

"At given times, everybody was doing a good job. But at key times, even key guys didn't do a good job."

Herstedt pointed out three specific reasons for the loss that must be corrected against Arlington — shopping the blitzing linebackers, guarding against the wide open receiver and handling the defensive end on the roll out pass.

"This is our homecoming. I'm hoping this will lift us and bring us back," added Herstedt.

ROLLING MEADOWS AT WHEELING

Meadows head coach Angelo Barro doesn't want his team to become a statistic — especially not in the law of averages.

But mention Wheeling — the Mustangs' opponent which will be celebrating Homecoming tonight — and the two-year coach jumps on the defensive.

"Of course the fact that they're in a losing streak (11 straight) scares me. They're going to snap that streak and we have to hope it isn't against us."

Meadows knows all about upsets after staging a convincing 21-16 triumph over favored Palatine last week with the benefit of its own Homecoming. The Mustangs were so emotionally charged that it may be they're ripe for a slight letdown tonight.

"That's what we have to protect against," Barro agreed. "We have to get up again. Wheeling is super hungry for a win and if our kids think Wheeling is going to roll over and play dead, we're going to get beat. I'm sure they picked us for their Homecoming because they thought they could beat us."

Barro reported his club in perfect physical shape despite a bruising battle with Palatine. "When you hit the way we did, you win and don't get hurt. But we can get hurt in another way if we get called for 140 yards in penalties again," he added.

The Mustang coach warned of Wheeling's talented quarterback Ken Slepicka, split end Bill Frank and running back Ken Smith. "all three of them hurt us last year." (The Mustangs beat the Wildcats, 19-7).

"We proved we can throw the ball last week and I think our juniors have come of age," Barro concluded. "We're still in the North Division race, but we need this game to stay there."

Wheeling just needs a win. Despite the string of setbacks, including the Fremd romp (45-7) last week, the Wildcats haven't given up.

"We really can't hold our breath about the spirit," said Jack Liljeberg of his never-say-die Wildcats.

Homecoming has put a fire under the student body. If it's catching, Liljeberg could see his team play a good game, maybe a winning one.

"We've played two pretty good games at home," he said. "I'm looking forward to it being a good game. I hope I'm not disappointed."

The 'Cats are, too. Liljeberg is going with a complete two platoon system for the first time this year. This should make the whole team happy for everyone will probably play.

Two changes will have Steve Brozio at defensive tackle and Mike Brzuszkiewicz at linebacker.

10 years ago...

Palatino was the only area football team able to pick up a victory... John Warder passed 32 yards to Ken Stahl on a double reverse and Rich Weeks hit Stahl from 22 yards out for the two 14-point scores in a 13-7 homecoming win over Dundee... Dixon blanked Forest View 13-0, Alaine West rolled past Prospect 34-14, St. Patrick dumped St. Viator 27-13, and Downers Grove North routed Arlington 39-13.

tonight. He missed the Fremd game because of an injury in practice.

The 'Cats have yet to establish a good running attack in order to test Rolling Meadows. They've averaged just 88.7 yards on the ground in four games with last week's 133 being the season high. Liljeberg's goal has been 200 rushing and 100 passing.

Wheeling quarterback Ken Slepicka has had his problems. He's averaged just 81.7 yards in passing with seven interceptions in four games.

CONANT AT WHEATON NORTH "Cheer up," said one friend to another, "Things could be worse."

So the other friend cheered up... and sure enough, things got worse.

The sentiments of Conant coach Ralph Losee can't be too far distant from the above situation. Among the four straight setbacks his club absorbed over the first month of the football campaign was an opening 14-7 loss to Lake Park, one of the two annual powerhouses of the Tri-County League.

Tonight Losee's squad clashes with the other half of that tandem, Wheaton North, fresh on the heels of a 42-8 rout of the Lancers.

"I guess to say they are tough would be an understatement. It's not so much being concerned about Wheaton as it is having anybody left to play out the remainder of our schedule," Losee commented.

The Cougar roster is down to 27 now after Pat McGibbon and Steve Kaminski joined the infirmary list with wounded ankles and Ed Krantz signed on with a broken arm. This contingent will be taking on a club ranked fifth in the Chicago area with a 13-game winning streak in tow in quest of their second straight undefeated season.

"I'm just worried about a letdown," claimed Falcon pilot Jim Rexillus. "We beat our arch-rival pretty soundly last week but I hope our kids will settle back down to earth and remember they have a few games left to go before the season is over."

The Wheaton offensive attack figures to be led by backs Bob Sullivan (5-11, 170) and Charlie Martin (6-1, 175), while burly six-foot, 195-pound Steve DeFalco fires up the defense.

Rexillus is extremely high on this senior outside linebacker.

While looking at a less than rosy picture, Losee isn't throwing in the towel just yet. "Mistakes have killed us more than anything this season. Our kids aren't letting down but they've got to learn to stop losing before they can start winning."

To help interrupt the losing syndrome, the Conant coach will give another quarterback, Kurt Eckert, an opening try tonight. Eckert came in late last week against Schaumburg but with enough time to launch a paydirt pass and avert a shutout. "He deserves at least a crack at it, for that," Losee said.

I really enjoy your column every week. It answers many questions which I have wanted to know. There is still one about Marlo Thomas. How old is she? Is she married? Most of all, how tall is she? I'd like to know if she has ever modeled. I think she is so pretty—WOW! Please print her picture.

M.S.

Arlington Heights

Marlo Thomas

Five foot-five inch Marlo has never married and is nearing the 35 year-old mark—Nov. 21st, to be exact. The daughter of famed comedian Danny Thomas and Rosemary, she was born in Detroit and raised in L.A. Prior to her acting studies, she had earned a B.A. degree in teaching. Perhaps her training in that field helped to sustain her interest in building child care centers and being on the board of the Inner City Cultural Center, an interracial, non-profit professional theatre project. Although we may agree with you about Marlo being very able to model, we have no verification of it. After being graduated from USC, she studied with Sanford Meisner for two years. Her professional acting debut was in 77 SUNSET STRIP. Marlo has guested on numerous TV shows and has added movies to her credit list too.

How did Bob Newhart get into show business? Is he married?

T.J.

Arlington Heights

Newhart was born in the 'Windy City'—Chicago, Illinois. His break in show business came when Warner Brothers Records personnel heard a couple of his taped monologues and decided to record his comedy material. The first album, "The Button Down Mind of Bob Newhart," was followed by two more successful ones. His recording success led to a series of nightclub engagements; and then on to his own variety show on TV. Last season he had another series.

Bob is married and the Newharts make their home in Beverly Hills, Calif. They have three children.

Gilbert Roland is a tremendous actor and I think he deserves more publicity. Could you print his picture and tell us something about him?

J.F.

Des Plaines

Gilbert Roland

Gilbert is admired and respected personally as much as any person in the acting profession. He is known for his integrity, sincerity, intelligence, and craftsmanship. The rugged performer has thrilled audiences in more than a hundred motion pictures and teleplays.

His first wife was the screen star Constance Bennett, by whom he has two daughters. After the divorce in 1956, Roland married Mexican Junior Tennis Champion, Guillermina Cantu.

For years the 68 year-old star has devoted himself to the betterment of the Mexican people—a dedication which he has stepped up in recent years to become outspoken on behalf of the Spanish speaking people's education, economic, and social opportunities. Thus far he has had a novel published, "Wine of Yesterday" and three of his short stories made the winner's circle of Writer's Digest national contests.

I recently saw again the film, "The Ugly American" and could have sworn that I saw Owen Marshall in the movie. Can you print some information on him?

W.B.

Arlington Heights

You weren't seeing things—Arthur Hill was in the movie. In fact, that was his first venture into the film industry.

I have something to ask about Doris Day. Is she a real dog lover as she seems to be on her show? Will you print a picture of her?

C.S.

Doris Day

Miss Day is devoted to animals of all kinds. She is associated with volunteer efforts to promote humane treatment of animals and likes to surround herself with canine pets.

How old is Helen Hayes? How long has she been in show business? Where can I write to her? I think she is great in her role in THE SNOOP SISTERS.

Helen Hayes

Helen was born in 1900 on Oct. 10th. She has been on the stage for 65 years and a star for 50 of those years. Helen has won just about every acting award possible and even has a Broadway theatre named after her. Her real name is Helen Hayes Brown. Now a widow, Helen had two children by her husband, Charles MacArthur. Her daughter died at 19 from polio, but we are sure that you know her son from his role on HAWAII FIVE-O—James MacArthur.

At one time, Miss Hayes had announced her retirement. Producer Ross Hunter approached her in 1968 to play the little old lady stowaway in the film "Airport" and ever since that time, her career has taken a new hold. She recently completed a Disney film, "The Love Bug Rides Again" and last year she co-starred with Mildred Natwick in NBC's "The Snoop Sisters." Write her in care of NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

nocle and the languid style of the aristocracy. In "Witness" Captain Denis Cathcart (who is engaged to dead at 3 AM. In episode one, after an argument with his sister's fiance, the Duke of Denver is discovered standing over Cathcart's body and is charged with his murder.

Business Luncheon Invitation

Do you know opportunity when it knocks? Here is your chance to get in on the ground floor of the Technical Association of America's newly developed, long awaited Service Protection Plan which has promise of unlimited financial earnings. On Saturday, November 17 at our stockholders and investors closed luncheon in the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel, we will introduce this new Service Protection Plan for the first time.

The Technical Association of America will make a limited number of luncheon invitations available to those interested in a new business opportunity. All reservations must be made by October 31, 1973. A charge of $20 per person covers the cost of luncheon and introduction of our new Service Protection Plan. Make check or money order payable to:

Technical Association of America
737 North Michigan Avenue
Chicago, Illinois 60611

For reservations and additional information,

On the Cover

It happens every fall

The 1973 Major League Baseball season draws to an end, with the World Series as its annual climax. On our cover, the team of Tony Kubek and Curt Gowdy—the two main baseball voices for NBC—who will be on hand to bring fans all the action. The best four-of-seven series—which could be over in four, or extend through a full seven games—is scheduled to begin in the American League champion's ball park, on Saturday, October 13, with action scheduled through next week. Consult daily listings in this issue for more up-to-date information.

"A Fireball in The Night" The Civil War, said President Woodrow Wilson, "created in this country what had never existed before—a nation consciousness. It was not the salvation of the Union, it was the rebirth of the Union." The War between the States and one issue that triggered it—slavery—are examined in "A Fireball in The Night." Part 6 in Alastair Cooke's personal history of the U.S. Cooke uses historical photos, paintings, prints and maps to describe the regional conflicts and to profile cotton-gin inventor Eli Whitney, Confederate general Robert E. Lee and President Lincoln (who, says Cooke, "signified the trade of politician"). Filmed in Washington, Mississippi and Shiloh, Tenn.

That talks to kids?

Is there really such a man?

A troubled boy, isolated from his heartbroken parents in his own solitary world, allows one special man to penetrate his lonely fortress and bring the family back together in "The Man Who Could Talk to Kids," a contemporary drama on the ABC Television Network's "Wednesday Movie of the Week," Oct. 17.

Peter Boyle (L) is an understanding man, who tries many methods to break through the isolation of Scott Jacoby (R), a tormented boy, in "The Man Who Could Talk to Kids," a contemporary drama on the ABC Television Network's "Wednesday Movie of the Week," Wednesday, October 17.

Peter Boyle stars as the unorthodox social worker who refuses to admit defeat, with Emmy-winner Scott Jacoby ("That Certain Summer") as the tormented boy fighting the man's every effort to help him.

Robert Reed and Collin Wilcox-Horne are also starred as the boy's agonized parents, along with Tyne Daly as the social worker's understanding wife.

In the story, Kenny Lassiter (Jacoby) explodes into a violent, meaningless attack on another player during a basketball game, after which his horrified parents find him sinking deeper and deeper into a private world of his own, with anger as his only outward emotion.

After a series of psychiatrists and special schools all fail to make any real contact with the boy, the desperate Lassiters appeal to a rumpled, overworked, seemingly-inept social worker, Charlie Datweiler (Boyle), who has had surprising success working in his own personal, non-professional way—on his own time—with disturbed kids.

Searching for the root of the rebellious boy's hatred, Charlie spends every hour he can steal with him, trying every approach he can find to bring Kenny out of his self-imposed isolation.

After a dramatic encounter in which Charlie watches the boy smash a doll—supposedly representing Kenny's younger brother—Charlie begins to realize the true source of the anger, and the breakthrough has begun.

JAY ALLEN— Outspoken Cooke back again

By now, most persons who have viewed television's "America" program know that Alistair Cooke, its host-writer-narrator, is not a native American. That may very well be the major reason for the excellence of — and the response accorded — the series.

PRODUCED BY THE British Broadcasting Company (BBC), and presented for the first time in this country last year on NBC, the show is back again in re-runs. And there's nothing to prevent its audience from being as sizable this year as during its first-run last season. There's a good reason why.

"I think the major criticism (about the show) wasn't related to its content," Cooke says. "What most of the complaints were about is the time NBC put it on the air. In most parts of the country, the show aired at 9 or 10 o'clock at night, just as a good share of young people were being put to bed. And the show is good for youthful viewers."

Alistair Cooke

THAT IT IS. And in syndicating the 13-episode "America" series to over 130 stations this year, Cooke and the Zerrox Corporation (which is underwriting sponsorship this season as it did last) persuaded most of the stations to air the series in early evening or Sunday afternoon slots, which most are doing.

Cooke, a British journalist who became an American citizen in 1941, first arrived in this country in 1932 to study at Harvard. Then only 24, he had aspirations to become a director in theatre. He was here a year, he said, "when I discovered that the American landscape, its society and its politics were far more dramatic than Broadway." He became American correspondent for the British newspaper The Guardian (for which he still writes a weekly column), and also conducted the BBC "Letters from America" radio series. In this country, he has also hosted two award-winning series for TV — "Omnibus" and "Masterpiece Theatre."

"AMERICA" WAS JUST a thought in 1969, when he sketched in his mind what it would take to film a review of this country's history. The idea was sold in 1970, shooting episodes began shortly thereafter, and the entire 13 shows were "in the can" in mid-1972. As a result of last year's NBC run, the show and Cooke have been flooded with honors galore. Four Emmy Awards...a Peabody...the Benjamin Franklin certificate accorded to Cooke by the Royal Society of England...and even a Wranglers Award. "Yes, the Cowboys Association of America gave it to me," Cooke relates. "They especially like the 'Gone West' episode, I guess."

ALTHOUGH THE "AMERICA" series "hasn't really changed my life," Cooke says he has numerous offers to do other such documentaries. For now, he's busy preparing for a cross-country publicity tour to promote a new book based on the television series. To be released October 22, the book will "use the TV scripts as its backbone," Cooke tells me. "It will be much more in-depth, though. The first chapter, for example, is six to seven times the length of our first TV script."

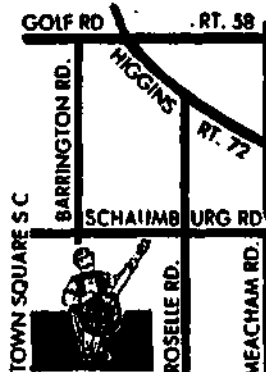

In it, the author will undoubtedly mince few words. Recently, for instance, he claimed that "while Americans may love their country very much, they have little respect for it," referring to the destruction and/or commercialization of so many early landmarks.

"Maybe we caught America just in time," he wrote. Maybe.

Lake County OKs Hank Farm project plans

The Lake County Board this week approved a plan by Centex Homes Corp. for a townhouse and condominium development on the 86-acre Hank Farm. Thus, the project could be built under county zoning should Buffalo Grove decide not to annex it.

Centex officials have petitioned the village for annexation of the property and have said they would prefer building it in the village rather than in unincorporated Lake County.

Village Mgr. Daniel Larson yesterday said the village is interested in annexing the proposed development because the village then would have some influence over the development plan. If the project is brought in under county zoning the village would have virtually no control over it.

In addition, Larson feels the village is better equipped than Lake County to provide utilities and services to the development. Village officials feel if the project remains unincorporated, the village will still be called upon to provide some services. Larson cited police protection as one example.

He said the development, which calls for 940 units, will increase the village's tax base, thus possibly providing tax relief for residents.

ALTHOUGH THE PROJECT has been approved by Lake County, Larson said the village will treat it no differently from any other project coming into the village. He said the village will negotiate with Centex in an attempt to obtain certain concessions it feels are important. No severe problems are anticipated, Larson said, since the project in general conforms to the village master plan.

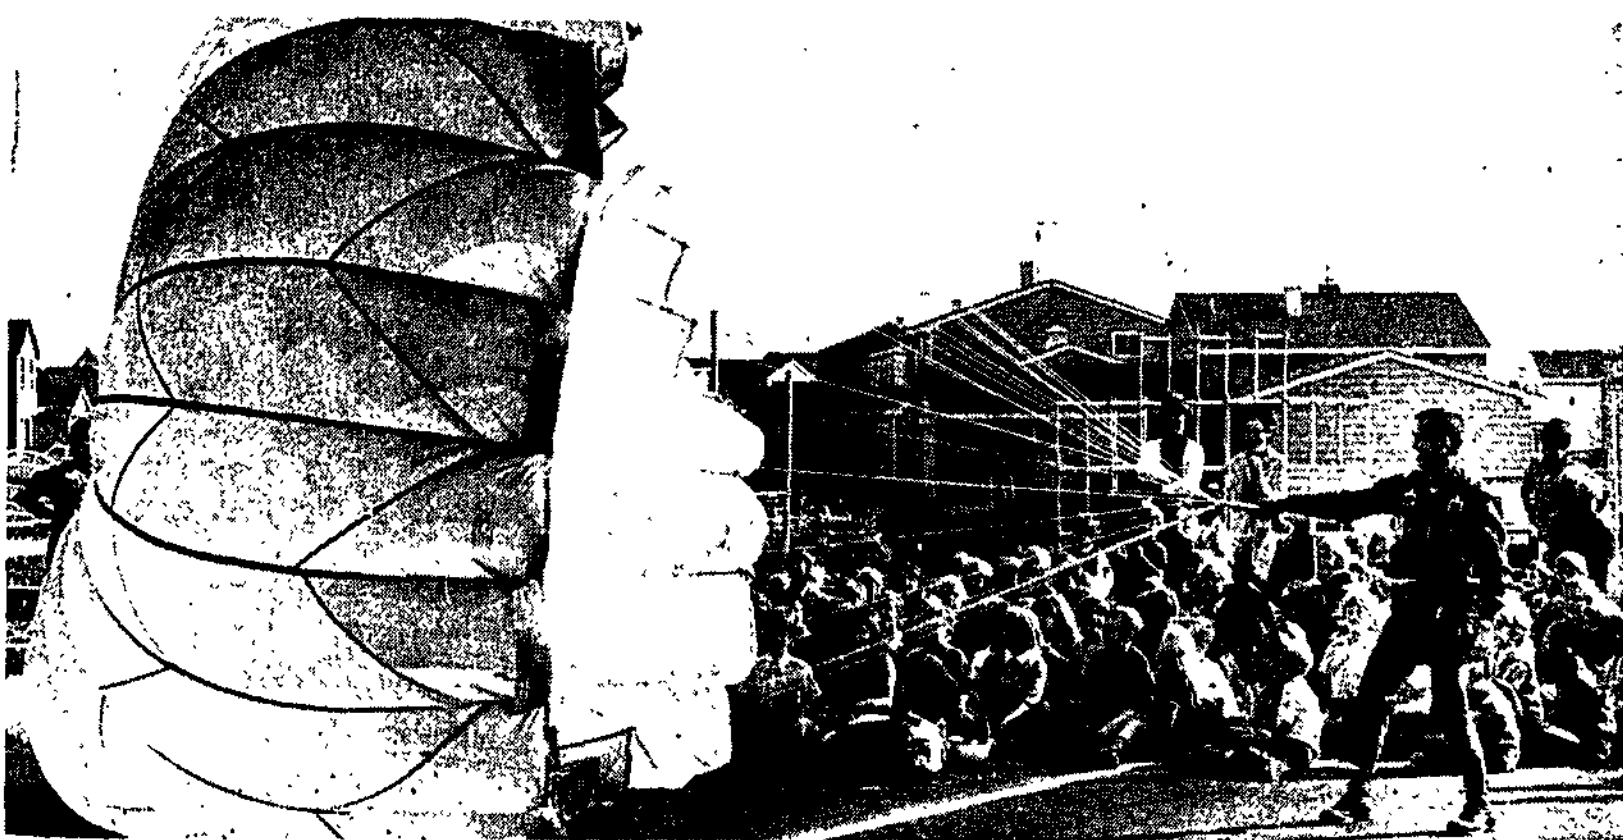

The project, to be called Winston Park north, is north of Chevy Chase Country Club. If the development is annexed by Buffalo Grove it will bring its eastern boundary to Milwaukee Avenue.

In addition to the townhouses and condominiums there is also a five-acre commercial area planned for Milwaukee Avenue.

PRIOR TO THE Lake County Board's approval, Riverwoods, which is east of the development, raised objections to it because of its density.

The Lake County Board rejected the development last year after another objection from Riverwoods. The Lake County Circuit Court, however, ruled the development could not be turned down if it conformed to county zoning ordinances.

Since last year Centex has reduced the number of planned units, but has refused to go below the 940 now planned. Centex officials have said the company has spent about $80,000 for engineering and feels strongly about its plan. The plan commission and Centex will meet in a workshop session Wednesday to discuss the development.

NOT EVERY LITTLE GIRL has a father who jumps out of airplanes for a living, but Karmen Thien, a student at Irving School, Dist. 21, does. Karmen's father, Marine Maj. Robert Thien, visited the school yesterday to explain his job to his daughter's kindergarten classmates. Thien, who is stationed at Glenview Naval Air Station, brought the base's drum and bugle corps with him. The students are studying various careers as part of a district-wide program.

Students' self-direction is basic foundation

Hawthorne 'opens' to new approach

by JILL BETTNER

The walls are coming down at Hawthorne School in Dist. 21 — the walls of grade levels, structured curriculum, time schedules.

Hawthorne is becoming an open school. It's already open in the physical sense, in that it has no walls dividing students into neat little cubicles, usually called classrooms.

Now, Hawthorne administrators and teachers are on their way toward developing and practicing the open school philosophy.

Hawthorne is already the most open school in the district because of its open space floor plan and team teaching approach. However, it still retains some structured elements of a traditional school.

Team teaching is used to some degree in most schools in Dist. 21, but at Hawthorne, it is the only instructional mode.

TEACHERS ARE divided into two teams, one that cooperatively plans instruction for children in kindergarten through third grade and the other which handles students in grades four through six. Spanish bilingual teachers participate in team planning.

The 225 students are grouped according to ability and/or interest, rather than by traditional grade level. There may be children one or two years apart in the same math class.

"The idea is to put students wherever they can function with the group," said Principal Kay Kacena.

Currently, children are cross-age grouped within either the primary grades or the intermediate grades. The teachers would like to see instruction entirely individualized.

"It would be ideal to have cross-grouping throughout the whole school," said Carrie Dellin, one of the intermediate team teachers. "We'd like to individualize to the point that kids will recognize only that they are doing the work they can do instead of the idea 'I can only do this much because there's a 4 next to my name.'"

BEFORE INSTRUCTION can be completely individualized, the teachers agree that they must develop students' decision-making ability.

Self-direction is the basic foundation of the open school philosophy. A child is given the time and freedom to complete tasks at his own pace in his own way.

"Before you can have an open school, you have to teach kids how to make decisions," said Mrs. Dellin. "This is our third year and we're really just getting started."

"You have to remove structure very slowly," added Ruth Nordin, another intermediate team teacher. "All of the kids here except the fourth graders have always been in self-contained traditional classes. For that matter, so have the teachers and it's hard for everybody to leave all that behind."

ONE OF THE methods used at Hawthorne to develop student independence is educational contracts. The student draws up a contract stating that he will complete certain work within a certain amount of time.

"The children are helped to understand their strengths and weaknesses with basic skills," Mrs. Kacena said. "They then decide what they want to work on and set up goals for themselves."

Students who are not able to function this independently are given special help in small group homerooms. The children in these classes, one in the primary section and the other in the intermediate section, spend more time with one teacher than the rest of the students.

"All children can't function in a self-choice program," Mrs. Kacena said. "We provide for each child according to his needs."

HAWTHORNE, AT 200 Glendale Ave. in Wheeling, was opened in the fall of 1971 and was intended to develop into an open school. Mrs. Kacena thinks the enthusiasm and desire of the staff will help reach the completely open school goal.

"The foundation of Hawthorne is that the staff consists of professional teachers who wanted more than anything else to provide this kind of education program," she said.

Jaycees sponsoring 'haunted house'

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees are sponsoring several "spine-tingling, bone-chilling" haunted house parties this Halloween for the children of Buffalo Grove.

Jaycees Pres. Richard Guttman said the parties are sponsored to discourage children from trick-or-treating. The Jaycees hope children will come to the haunted house parties, thus eliminating the chance of their getting harmful candy.

Children attending the parties will be given "witches brew and treats." The "haunted house" chosen for the party is an old farm house on Arlington Heights Road between Lake Cook and Checker roads.

Admission for each of the parties is 50 cents. Proceeds will go toward drug education, the Jaycees' July 4 activities, the Miss Buffalo Grove Pageant, Little League baseball, a basketball clinic and other programs.

The parties will be Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 27-28 from 3 to 11 p.m. and from 6 to 11 p.m. Monday and Tuesday Oct. 29-30 and Wednesday Oct. 31 (Halloween) from 6 p.m. to midnight.

Tomorrow the Jaycees will clean-up the "haunted house" to get it ready for the parties.

For tickets or further information call Ron Marcuccilli at 537-8331.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political sulcide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,600 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

LT. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

LT. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

LT. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

Obituaries

Stephanie Tesch

Mrs. Stephanie Tesch, 77, nee Ulin, died Wednesday in the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, Arlington Heights, where she had been a resident. She was born in Austria, Nov. 10, 1905.

Visitation is today from 4 to 6 p.m. in the chapel of the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, 800 W. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, where a funeral service will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. Rev. Gerhard Barthel will be officiating.

Then the body will be taken to St. Paul Lutheran Church, Aurora, Ill., to lie in state from 12:30 p.m. until time of funeral service at 3 p.m. Rev. W. Zielke will be officiating. Burial will be in St. Paul Cemetery, Aurora.

Surviving are two sons, Carl of Aurora and Robert of Fort Wayne, Ind.; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Schmeckel of De Kalb, Ill.; 10 grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; three brothers, Carl, George and Henry Ulin, and two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Stiefbold and Mrs. Emily Guma. She was preceded in death by her husband, Frank, a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Morgan, and a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bierfer.

Interment services will be held at the Lutheran Home and Service for the Aged, Arlington Heights.

Deaths Elsewhere

Mrs. Lillian B. Nake, 87, nee Abelman, of Chicago, formerly of Palatine, died Sunday in her home. She was born in Chicago, April 23, 1886.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning in Tobie Funeral Home, Chicago. Officiating was Rev. Paul Seating of Mayfield Lutheran Church, Chicago. Burial was in Eden Memorial Park Cemetery, Schiller Park.

Preceded in death by her husband, Emory, in 1971, surviving are two daughters, Helen and Louise Lake, both of Chicago.

Arthur Heane, 63, of Naperville, Wash., died suddenly Wednesday in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, after an apparent heart attack, while visiting relatives in Mount Prospect.

Mr. Heane was recently retired as superintendent of schools in Naperville, Wash. He was born July 27, 1908, in South Dakota.

Funeral services will be held in Chehalis, Wash. Arrangements were made by Friedrichs Funeral Home, Mount Prospect.

Surviving are his widow, Lillian; four daughters, Mrs. Janet (Vivian) Blum of Chehalis, Wash., Mrs. Sandra Kinser and Mrs. Karen (Richard) Nice, both of Mount Prospect, and Mrs. Patty (Cecil) Wetzel of Sacramento, Calif.; a son, Terry of Grosse Pointe Mich.; and five grandchildren.

Visitation for Edward Baumgartner, 61, of Wheeling, is today in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, from 2 to 9:30 p.m.

Mr. Baumgartner, who was employed as a custodian for Harper College in Palatine, died Wednesday in Evanston Hospital, Evanston. He was born Jan. 20, 1912, in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the chapel of the funeral home, Rev. Howard D. Peckenpaugh of St. Martin Episcopal Church, Des Plaines, will be officiating. Burial will be in Montross Cemetery, Chicago.

Surviving are his widow, Mary, nee Walker; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Green of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Linda (Michael) Densford of Hoffman Estates; three grandchildren; three brothers, Ernest and Walter, both of Chicago, and Roy of McHenry, and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Vlach of Niles.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fuller of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLER FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fuller, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dickson Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLER DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fuller's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fuller's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fuller's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board members, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 765 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

The Yugoslavian immigrant was found cleaning his .357 Magnum pistol when police entered his apartment.

Under questioning, Ahmeti later told Assistant State's Atty. Kenneth Gillis he thought the noises of fireworks around him were from other people also firing guns in celebration.

Ahmeti had apparently thought July 4 was the day he could shoot a gun without being in violation of the law, according to Gillis.

ANOTHER YUGOSLAVIAN immigrant, Ferat Abdul, 48, of 727 Dulles Rd., was also arrested for allegedly firing a gun out his apartment window a short time after Ahmeti was taken into custody.

Police said a building resident warned them a second man was firing a gun from his apartment during Ahmeti's arrest.

No one was injured by the shots allegedly fired by Abdul who was charged with reckless conduct and illegal discharge of firearms.

Ahmeti is currently out on $10,000 bond pending a Nov. 1 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Abdul, who is free on $1,000 bail has been slated for a Nov. 8 hearing date.

Tickets go on sale for Madrigal dinner

Tickets for the third annual Wheeling High School Madrigal Christmas dinner go on sale Monday at the high school.

The event, which features music by the school's Madrigal singers and an Old English Christmas dinner, will be Dec. 8 and 9. Tickets in the past have sold out almost as soon as they have gone on sale. Tickets are $6.50 per person.

This year's dinner will include "poddying with plumage," "surlyne of roost beefs" and "trenchers of waste." The 16 singers will design and make their own medieval costumes.

Swim registration 1-3 p.m. Saturday

Registration for the Buffalo Grove Park District's fall swimming classes will be from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday at Emmerich Park.

Park district officials said yesterday they hope the Aqua Dome, the new swimming pool at Buffalo Grove High School, will soon be completed so swimming classes can begin Oct. 20.

The park district is offering classes for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediate and persons who already can swim. Registration for each class is $4.

July 4th shooting of boy: 'involuntary manslaughter'

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 763 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

The Yugoslavian immigrant was found cleaning his .357 Magnum pistol when police entered his apartment.

Police said a building resident warned them a second man was firing a gun from his apartment during Ahmeti's arrest.

No one was injured by the shots allegedly fired by Abdul who was charged with reckless conduct and illegal discharge of firearms.

City hall groundbreaking Wednesday

Construction of a new city hall building took another step closer to reality this week when officials signed contracts for the projects.

The brief signing ceremony means that the oft-delayed, sometimes controversial facility probably will be ready for occupancy in early 1975.

City officials plan to hold an official groundbreaking ceremony for the six-story facility Wednesday, Oct. 17 at 9:30 a.m.

The building, which represents the first phase of a proposed two-phase civic center complex, will be built adjacent to the present city hall building at 1412 Miner St.

THE SECOND phase of the complex will be a new police facility. The city also plans to build a parking garage adjacent to the two buildings.

Several aldermen raised objections to the project after bids on the building came in more than $300,000 over the original estimate.

However, after several cost-cutting attempts, the city finally approved the project and the building will cost about $1.6 million.

Mayor Herbert Behrel said the city has no elaborate plans for the groundbreaking ceremony, although he plans to suggest that money be set aside for a suitable open house for local residents when the new building is completed.

Maryville sets open house

There will be an open house next Tuesday at the River Road School at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Ed., Des Plaines.

The school will be open to the public between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

About 120 Maryville children who are unable to attend regular Dist. 26 schools presently have classes at the River Road School.

Students at the River Road School will be transferred next year to a new school proposed on five acres on Gregory Street, just north of River Road also on the Maryville property.

The Dist. 26 School Board last week decided on the site. The board will proceed to purchase the site as soon as soil borings confirm reports the land is suitable for the 31,000-square-foot planned facility.

THE ILLINOIS Capital Development Board, which oversees construction of all new schools, must also approve the site.

The school board is hoping to begin construction of the new Maryville School this fall so that it will be ready for the opening of the 1974-75 school year.

Chamber open house

The downtown retail Chamber of Commerce members will hold their first open house for the shopping public today and Saturday.

Local Des Plaines auto dealers will have the new 1974 automobiles on display in the city parking lot between Lee and Pearson streets.

Southwest sewer problem more serious than thought

Local officials have learned that a sewer cave-in on the city's southwest side may be a bigger problem than they anticipated. In fact, the problem is about twice as big.

City engineer Robert Bowen said initially the city had planned to replace 100 feet of defective sewer along Pennsylvania Avenue, but a review of the problem indicates that more than 200 feet will have to be replaced.

He said the entire project will probably cost about $8,000 when completed.

The Des Plaines City Council had already approved an emergency expenditure of $4,000 to repair the sewer line which caved in about two weeks ago.

BOWEN SAID Monday that the city had used a video tape recording system to inspect the damaged sewer. He said a review of the tape, which was supplied by Mount Prospect, showed at least 150 feet of sewer was damaged.

He said that the total length of damaged sewer may reach 200 feet once the city begins a physical inspection of the line.

Bowen said it appears the ground around the sewer line settled, causing the cave-in. He added apparently the sewer was installed during the winter when the ground was frozen.

It has not been determined how long it will take to repair the sewer line. The George W. Kennedy Co. was awarded the contract to repair the first 100 feet of the sewer. The city council will have to decide Monday what course of action they will take regarding other work in the area.

Lions Candy Day to aid blind

More than 125 Des Plaines Lions Club members, their wives and volunteers from the community will take to the streets today for the annual Candy Day.

Lion Dale Haage is in charge of the fund raising drive which will aid the 22,500 legally blind persons of Illinois.

The Des Plaines organization has set a $5,000 quota for aid to the blind. A major part of funds, for aid to the blind and other community projects, will be raised with contributions from Candy Day.

Local projects include Little League, Des Plaines Boys Club, Safety Patrol raincoats and other charities.

The Des Plaines Lions will be celebrating their 50th anniversary in May. The main thrust of their work over the years has been with the blind, as well as community projects.

The statewide Lions goal for Candy Day is $1 million.

Collections are earmarked for Lion's approved projects: Hadley School for the Blind; Leader Dogs for the Blind; Illinois Camp Lions for Visually Handicapped Children; Dialogue, a recorded magazine for the blind; and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK has provided an ideal opportunity for Des Plaines school children to visit the three local stations. North School youngsters were treated to a high in the sky demonstration of fire fighting techniques by the men at Fire Station

No. 1. Fire Chief Frank Haage invites all residents to attend an open house tomorrow from 1:30 to 5 p.m. at Station 1, 405 S. Des Plaines Ave.; Station 2, 1313 E. Oakton St., and Station 3, 130 E. Thacker St.

Coronation highlights homecoming activities

Coronation of the 1973 homecoming queen will highlight homecoming activities this weekend at Maine North High School, Des Plaines.

Five senior girls — Kathy Butz, Doreen Guerri, Ellen Pulzer, Donna Rose and Corinne Sidler — make up the 1973 homecoming court. The queen will be crowned at halftime of the varsity game.

A homecoming parade will be between the sophomore and varsity games (about 7:15 p.m.) on the Maine East High School track. The Maine North Norsemen meet Glenbrook South in the varsity game at 8 p.m. in the Maine East Stadium.

A homecoming dance "Imagine" will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday at Maine North.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday at The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should pick," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 105 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Democrat." (Continued on page 6)

Accused robber's hearing date set

A Thursday hearing date in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court has been set for Scott Wolfgram, 20, of 328 Potter Rd., who has been charged by police with three recent armed robberies.

Associate Judge Simon Porter also ordered Wolfgram's bond reduced from $10,000 to $5,000. He was taken to Cook County Jail after a court appearance yesterday.

Police have accused Wolfgram of gunpoint holdups at the Rand-Wolf Mobil Station, the Cleaning Castle, 1455 Rand Rd., and Jerry's Gas for Less, 1900 Touhy Ave.

THE HOLDUPS, which date back to late last month, totaled more than $150 in cash, according to reports.

Wolfgram was arrested Tuesday by detectives who reported seeing the suspect riding a bicycle only one-half block from the Des Plaines police station.

Wolfgram has reportedly admitted the robberies under questioning, police said.

Police said they had been searching for Wolfgram for questioning in the robberies. He reportedly matched descriptions of the holdup man given to police.

Another witness later said she saw Wolfgram pull a scarf over his face outside Cleaning Castle at the time the store was robbed.

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $8,660 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

LT. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

LT. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's Investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

LT. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations. It should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 18-member board with 10 Chicago members and 8 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 boards make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fuller of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLER FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fuller, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the county resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLER DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fuller's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fuller's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fuller's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

MONACEP film set

The Oakton Film Society and Maine-Oakton-Niles Adult Continuing Education Program (MONACEP) will present the French film "Sundays and Cybele" today at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m., in room 108-109, Building 1, Oakton Community College, Oakton at Nagle, Morton Grove.

Admission is free for all Oakton and MONACEP students and for Maine and Niles Township High School students. For all others, a 50 cent donation is requested.

Maine East car wash

The junior class at Maine East High School is holding a car wash tomorrow, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the student parking lot.

The cost of a car wash is $1 and 50 cents for a vacuum. Proceeds will go toward the spring junior prom.

Bowling teams formed

Members of boys' Bowling Club at Maine East High School have formed 20 four-man teams in two 10-team divisions.

This year's officers are president Steve Levine of Morton Grove, vice-president Dennis Drucker of Des Plaines, division secretaries Arnold Fishman of Morton Grove and Spencer Stevens of Park Ridge, and treasurer Van Tempora of Morton Grove.

Des Plaines captains this year are: Dennis Drucker, Monte Pollard, Howie Rogers, Ken Weingarten and Mike Zwieg.

Scouting news

A special court of honor was held recently for two brothers, Eagle scout Jack L. Wilds and Eagle scout David K. Wilds, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Wilds, 70 King La., Des Plaines.

Jack became a Boy Scout with Troop 166 in September, 1970, and held positions such as quartermaster, patrol leader, assistant senior patrol leader, and senior patrol leader. Jack advanced in rank and completed the requirements, including 23 merit badges, for the rank of Eagle and in July was approved for this coveted award by the Council Board of Review at the age of 13.

Other scouting achievements by Jack were receiving the totin' chip award, Paul Bunyan axman award, mile swim award, 200-mile hiking award, and membership into the Order of the Arrow. Jack is now a freshman at Forest View High School.

David became a member of Boy Scout Troop 160 in October, 1971, and was a den chief for one year and also the Troop librarian. At present he holds the position of troop instructor. David earned 24 merit badges towards his requirements of the rank of Eagle scout which was approved by the Council Board of Review in July when he was 12 years old.

Some of David's other scouting achievements are the totin' chip award, Paul Bunyan award, mile swim award, 100 mile hiking award, and he is also a member of the Order of the Arrow. At present David is in the eighth grade at Dempster Junior High School.

Cub Scout Pack 202 held their first outing recently at radio station WJJD on Ballard Road. Although only one-third of the pack showed up, a real nice time was had by those who attended. Even the mothers who joined the tour learned some interesting facts.

Pack night has been switched to Oct. 18 because of open house nights at school. Information about upcoming activities like the O'Hare Airport tour on Nov. 3 and the Great Lakes Naval Station tour on Nov. 25 will be discussed along with our regular pack meeting.

'THE PRESIDENT'S Own,' The Marine Corps Band, will play two concerts at Maine West High School, Des Plaines, Sunday. In its only Chicago appearance this year, the famed band will play at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the high school, Oakton Street and Wolf Road. The concert, dedicated to the 50th anniversary of the Marine Corps League, will feature the music of John Phillip Sousa. Tickets at $3.50 (matinee), $2.25 (student), and $5 (evening), are available at Hynes Pharmacy, Des Plaines; Keefe Pharmacy, Mount Prospect; and the Smith residence, 501 Brynhaven St., Elk Grove Village.

Murder victim probe still under way

The investigation is continuing into the death of a Kennett, Mo., man found murdered in an Elk Grove Township forest preserve Oct. 3.

The body of Larry Jarrett, 27, was found lying next to the remains of a campfire by a man picking mushrooms in the Busse Woods section of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve on Higgins Road, west of Arlington Heights Road. An autopsy determined the man had been dead about three weeks.

Earl Lundquist, of the Cook County Sheriff's Police, said Jarrett's death was due to a shotgun wound in the head. Police had been withholding the cause of death, pending further investigation.

Lundquist said police have no suspects or leads in the case, but a full-scale investigation is continuing. No motive has been established, according to Lundquist, although Jarrett's wallet was missing. "Robbery is a possible motive," said

Lundquist, "but Jarrett's mother said he wasn't carrying much money when he left Kennett by bus for Chicago on Sept. 17."

Police don't know what Jarrett was doing in the forest preserve, according to Lundquist. A statement given to police by Jarrett's mother said he was having a hard time finding work and came to Chicago to find a job.

Damage at Iroquois

Vandals caused $200 damage to Iroquois Junior High School, 1836 Touhy Ave., late Tuesday after breaking a window of the school building, said Des Plaines police.

Patrolman Tom Richard noticed the broken window while on patrol near the school.

Gag still on; Palatine OKs school pact

An 8.7 per cent average pay increase was ratified this week by teachers in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

The increase brings the Dist. 15 teachers to a salary level comparable to teachers in Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 and Maine Township High School Dist. 207.

The teacher unions in both Maine Township school districts are asking for further increases in the 1973-74 contract.

The new Dist. 15 teacher contract raises the base salary for beginning teachers from $7,730 to $8,250. The top salary for teachers with a master's degree and 30 years' teaching experience was raised from $14,937 to $16,306.

The latest salary proposal from the Dis. 62 board offers a starting salary of $8,500 a year for beginning teachers and $17,735 a year for teachers with the maximum service and training.

No information is available on salary proposals in Dist. 207 because of a "gag rule" imposed by the professional negotiations agreement. Under the 1973 salary schedule, base pay for a beginning teacher is $8,900. Top salary for teachers with maximum service and training is $20,165.

Negotiating teams will meet today

The negotiation teams of the East Maine Education Association and the Dist. 63 School Board will meet at 3 p.m. today in an attempt to resolve the contract dispute.

Today's meeting may be the last before teachers meet Monday to take a strike vote. The strike vote meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. at the Gemini School.

Teacher and board negotiators met Monday night for the first time since negotiations broke down two weeks ago. Both sides reported some movement was made by both sides during the session.

Demons, Warriors prepare for crucial league games

by MIKE KLEIN

The Central Suburban League returns to intra-divisional football this weekend with some losers almost definitely being knocked out of North and South playoff bowl berth races.

Three clubs remain undefeated in each division. They are Niles West, Deerfield and Maine West in the South plus Glenbrook South, Maine East and New Trier West in the North.

Some teams, despite just one divisional loss, are almost certainly powerless. Those include Maine North and Highland Park in the North division. Neither club has won all year. Glenbrook North has a divisional loss, 6-0 in triple overtime to New Trier, but could possibly win it all by winning four.

In the South, Niles East hasn't won yet and can be written off. Others defeated once in the league are Maine South and Niles North. Neither poses a serious title threat.

There will be two very important ball-games this week, one per division. Chances are good that the loser of Maine East at New Trier West and Maine West at Niles West, both at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon, can forget title aspirations. Glenbrook South visits Maine North tonight, that game starting at 8:00 in Maine East's stadium.

Maine East, with its 2-2 overall record, is a "mystery team," according to New Trier's Bob Naughton who adds, "They don't have any glaring weakness." Last year, New Trier escaped, 17-12, at Maine East enroute to a Central Suburban title.

The Blue Demons are striding toward their first winning season in 14 years. Victory at New Trier would also mean three straight wins, the first time that's been accomplished since 1962.

But it will be no easy road in the North, definitely the league's stronger division. New Trier West is tough. Glenbrook North is tough. Glenbrook South might be toughest. Highland Park breathes gas, like any winless loser.

"I don't look for us to be an underdog in any of these next three games," said Maine's Al Eck whose club closes with Highland Park. "It's just a matter of who wants it more. Our kids know the importance of this game. We're putting the pressure on right away and I'm sure New Trier West is too."

New Trier West is 2-2 overall. They've progressed from a 28-0 opener loss with New Trier East to last week's 26-9 win over Niles North, displaying 453 yards total offense. Rod McClendon and Bob Ribordy each rushed for more than 100 yards.

Maine West, 1-3 overall with a very difficult schedule, gets more of the same Saturday afternoon at Niles West. The Indians were last year's league runners-up, losing the playoff bowl 15-10, but could be stronger this autumn.

Two Chicago newspapers — the Tribune and Daily News — placed Niles West in their Chicagoland rankings this week. "I'm glad we're finally being recognized," said Indian coach Mike Basrak whose team is undefeated all year.

Should Maine's Warriors win at Niles, they might seriously threaten for the South title, the decision on that probably coming down to next week's game at Deerfield.

But a Warrior loss on Saturday would leave Maine hard pressed to finish at .500. They'd be 1-4 with three straight losses and three games to play.

Three of the CSL's top four scorers will be in action at Niles. Indian Chuck DeLeonardis is second with 18 points behind Maine East's Mike Laueson who leads with 20 points. Niles' Tom Flood has 16 points and Maine West's John O'Connor ranks fourth with 15 points off two touchdowns and three conversion kicks.

Glenbrook South should be in a mood for vengeance without fair trial tonight against Maine North. The Titans were beaten, 14-12, last week at Deerfield, their only loss.

"If we're good and Maine North is bad, just beating them is not enough," said Glenbrook's Ken Haribut. "We've got to get our pride and performance back where they belong." The Titans gagged at Deerfield despite quarterback Murphy Hoffman's 15-of-19 passing.

"I would imagine we're in for it," Maine North's Lou Gartner admitted. "Coming off a loss, they'll be sky high to prove they're a good football team, which they are."

It has not been a hard road for the Norsemen; it's been no road at all. They've been shut out three straight and outscored 97-8 this fall. Frustration peaked last week, during a 28-0 downer against Niles West, when, "We just took a nosedive the second half," Gartner said.

"How much we're fired up this weekend depends on the kids. They should know they're in for a real football game. If they don't, they'll lose their pride and get humiliated."

"That's athletics," he said. "You go in there each game with the attitude you're going to win and give all you've got."

Twinbrook golf league presents season awards

The fourth golf season of the Twinbrook YMCA Men's League ended last weekend.

Maine-Northfield sets banquet date

For the first time, both parents are invited to join their sons at Maine-Northfield Little League's annual awards dinner Tuesday night, Oct. 23, at the White Eagle Restaurant in Niles.

Reserve catcher Ken Rudolph and relief pitcher Larry Gura of the Chicago Cubs will serve as guest speakers. In previous seasons, only fathers and their sons attended the awards banquet.

The White Eagle Restaurant is located at 6845 Milwaukee Ave., in Niles.

The first place team consisted of Dean Jelden, Jerry Lavey, Doug Schialbe, Bruce Mahon and Bob Antonowich. Individual bracket champs were Dick Barnes (A), Dean Jelden (B), Harry Mills (C), and Budd Weston (D).

A special award was made to Tom Craft for setting a league record with a 34 during league play and finishing with a 0 handicap. Gunther Paczka received the most improved golfer trophy.

At the annual league tournament held at Hilldale C.C., Tom Craft shot a low gross score of 79, Doug Schialbe carded a net 68, Jack McCellan won the longest drive contest and also had the fewest total putts (29), while Ray Wright took closest to the pin honors.

Raider runners 9-0, sweep four schools

Oakton Community College kept its varsity cross country unbeaten string intact recently by swamping all opponents in a five-team meet held at Niles West.

The Raiders scored 20 points to defeat Highland 56, Elgin 69, Mayfair 62½ and Kennedy-King 112½. Victories over Elgin and Mayfair tied Oakton with Harper for leadership (2-0) in the Skyway Conference. Oakton is 9-0 overall.

Tom Wright placed second in the four-mile meet at 22:02. Joe Cosentino, Tom Kropf, Dan Maher and Frank Balles placed second-to-sixth for Oakton.

First door-to-door effort set Sunday for United Fund

Elk Grove United Fund volunteers will be going door-to-door in the village Sunday to solicit contributions for the fund.

The door-to-door campaign is the first ever attempted by the fund in its 10-year history.

Michael Leyden, president of this year's drive, said the fund hopes to get most of its $12,000 goal from the residential drive. A small amount of money has been collected since the drive started early this month.

About 100 volunteers will be collecting Sunday. Leyden said most of the residents will be contacted, but the fund does not have enough people to stop at every home in the village.

HE ASKED THAT any person not visited Sunday to mail their contribution.

The address for the fund is: Elk Grove United Fund, Inc., P. O. Box 131, Elk Grove Village 60007.

Volunteers will be soliciting from about noon to 6 p.m.

After the residential drive is completed, Leyden said the fund will begin solicitations in the industrial park and business community. Teachers, professional persons and municipal employees will also be solicited.

Elk Grove United Fund is a member of the Suburban Community Chest, which in partnership with the Community Chest of Chicago and the Red Cross, make up the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy.

ALL MONEY collected in Elk Grove Village, however, remains in the community. Local agencies assisted by the fund include: Clearbrook Center for the handicapped, Northwest suburban councils of the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, the Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center, Camp Fire Girls and the USO.

All members of the Elk Grove United Fund are unpaid volunteers. Less than three per cent of all money collected is used for administrative expenses.

What's in a name? Money, if group is a PTA member

by BOB GALLAS

For 76 years PTAs have flourished in the United States from the smallest community to the largest city — but not in School Dist. 59.

Instead, parent groups in the Elk Grove Township school district go by names such as Parent-Teacher Organization, Parents' Club, Parent-Teacher Council, Parent-Service Organization, Round Table or Parent-Teacher Committee.

What's the reason for the varied names?

"Money," according to Mrs. Karen Wirth, president of the Clearmont School PTO, Elk Grove Village. "If we went PTA, we'd have to raise additional funds to pay the state and national dues. We'd rather put that money directly into our school," she added.

SEVERAL OTHER independent parent organization presidents echoed Mrs. Wirth's comments while adding other reasons of their own.

"The out and out reason we're not PTA is money," said Mrs. John Monroe, president of the Juliette Lowe School Parent-Teacher Club. Lowe School is the only Arlington Heights school in Dist. 59.

"If we did go PTA though, we'd have to attend state and district meetings which would take up time," said Mrs. Monroe. "We'd rather put that time into our own school," she added.

"We have no intention of going PTA," said Mrs. Kathy Kitchell, president of the Grantwood School PTC, Elk Grove Village. "Our money shouldn't be spent anywhere but here. Mrs. Kitchell said she thought PTA by-laws might hinder the Grantwood School PTC.

THERE ARE 21 schools in Dist. 59. Twenty have parent organizations with the lone exception being the district's newest school, Friendship Junior High in Des Plaines, which just opened in September. Only eight schools in the district have PTAs.

The biggest movement away from PTA seems to be in Elk Grove Village which has only one PTA in its 10 schools. The lack of money when the village first started is the answer most often offered by parent organization presidents to explain the lack of PTAs in the village. The district didn't have enough money due to the tremendous amount of new schools it had to provide for a rapidly growing area. So parent groups raised money to buy equipment for schools instead of paying dues.

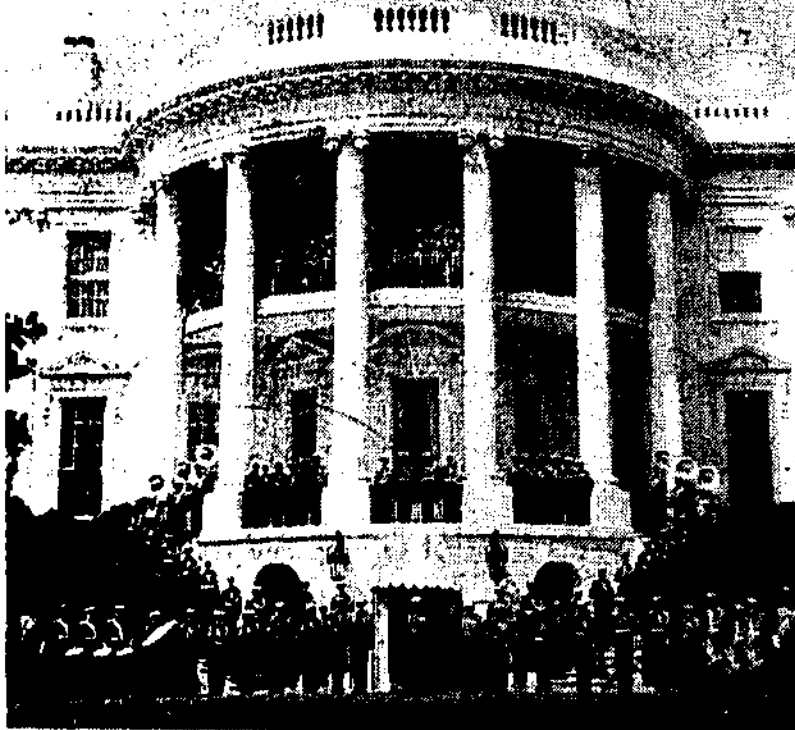

Although most of the independent organization presidents cite the fact that they'd have to contribute part of their monies to state and national PTA as their reason for not joining, the president of the Randhurst Council of PTAs doesn't think that's a valid reason.

"PTA DUES ARE 35 cents a year per person for the national and 10 cents per person for the state," said Mrs. Mary Stemberge whose organization has 19 area PTA groups as members. "For a PTA with 200 members, that would mean their dues would be $30 a year," she said.

Mrs. Stemberge pointed out the advantages of being connected to a national organization. "We have a direct line of communication with state and national headquarters," said Mrs. Stemberge. "We can keep in touch with the state legislature and also keep informed on national trends in education," she added.

Mrs. Barb Zommer, president of the only PTA in Elk Grove Village, said her organization at Ridge School is quite satisfied with being a PTA. "This way we have a voice in the legislature that is heard," said Mrs. Zommer. "We feel we can help the children more that way," she added.

THE PRESIDENT'S OWN, The Marine Corps Band, will play two concerts at Maine West High School, Des Plaines, Sunday. In its only Chicago appearance this year, the famed band will play at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the high school, Oakton Street and Wolf Road. The concert, dedicated to the 50th anniversary of the Marine Corps League, will feature the music of John Phillip Sousa. Tickets at $3.50 (matinee), $2.25 (student), and $5 (evening), are available at Hynes Pharmacy, Des Plaines; Keeser Pharmacy, Mount Prospect; and the Smith residence, 501 Brynhaven St., Elk Grove Village.

Goudy placed on supervision

Bruce Goudy, 28, of 1111 Leicester Rd., Elk Grove Village, was placed on one-year supervision after being charged with battery in an incident involving a 14-year-old girl.

Supervision is neither a guilty nor not-guilty ruling. If Goudy is not involved in any other incidents during the year, the charge will be dismissed and he will have no permanent record.

The supervision was ordered this week in the Elk Grove Village branch of circuit court.

According to Elk Grove Village police, Goudy grabbed the girl, twisted her arm behind her back and forced her to the ground after she ran across his property.

In another battery case, charges were dismissed against Donald Janke, 43, of 948 Wilshire Ave. He had been charged with battery after reportedly striking a 12-year-old boy who had shouted an obscenity at him.

"PEOPLE HELPING people" is the theme of this year's United Fund Drive. Mrs. Diane Knurek and Mrs. Pattie LaBahn will be among the volunteers going door-to-door in the village Sunday afternoon soliciting donations for this year's Elk Grove United Fund goal of $12,000.

Fourth quarter of blood program opens Saturday

Elk Grove Village will begin the fourth quarter of the Community Blood program with a village blood drive Saturday at the headquarters fire station on Blesterfield Rd.

Trustee Nanci Vanderweel, chairman of the program, said about 200 persons have made appointments to donate a pint of blood. Appointments are still being accepted and can be made by calling the village hall at 439-3900.

Persons without appointments will be accepted if they come to the fire station, next to the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave., between 1 and 4 p.m.

Mrs. Vanderweel said all persons planing to donate blood must not have taken an alcoholic beverage for 12 hours before donating.

MEDICATION, prescription or non-prescription, cannot be taken within 72 hours of donating blood. According to Mrs. Vanderweel, the ban on medication does not include aspirin, birth control pills, hormone, thyroid or diet pills.

Persons donating blood should not eat any dairy products or fatty foods within four hours of giving blood. If a person does eat within four hours of donating, they should have only toast with jelly, fruit juices or black coffee with sugar.

Another fire call phone error here

by FRED GACA

For the second time in two months, an Elk Grove Village resident called to report a fire and was mistakenly connected to the Chicago Fire Department.

The Elk Grove Fire Department was not notified of the fire until after it was extinguished.

Chief Allen Hulett said the mistake was an "obvious failure" on the part of Illinois Bell Telephone in not following their emergency procedures.

Telephone company officials are investigating the incident.

TO AVOID MISTAKES in the future, Hulett asked that all village residents learn and use the direct numbers for the police and fire departments.

The number for fire, inhalator or ambulance service is 439-2121. The police department number is 437-2131.

Stickers with the emergency numbers, suitable for placing on a telephone, are available at any of the three fire stations, the police station or the front desk in the village hall.

"We have to appeal to our people," said Hulett. "When you need us, there is only one way to get us — dial direct."

"People have to get the red stickers, put them on their telephone and use them," he said.

THE FIRE INCIDENT this week was identical to one that occurred in August. In both cases, women dialed "operator" to report a grease fire in their home.

They were connected with the Chicago Fire Department and the women reported the fire, mistakenly thinking they were talking to the Elk Grove Village Fire Department.

The Chicago department treated the incident as a false alarm when they responded to the corresponding Chicago residence with the street address given by the Elk Grove Village women.

Fortunately, in both cases, the women were able to extinguish the fires. They then called the Elk Grove Fire Department, by dialing the direct seven-digit number, to say they no longer needed help.

The Elk Grove department received these calls, the first notice the department had of the fires.

ACCORDING TO Hulett, the telephone operators are supposed to follow a special emergency procedure to determine what fire department should respond to the call. In the latest incident, the operator did not follow the procedure, he said.

In both cases, Hulett said the people were fortunate because the fires were extinguished.

Girl who collapsed in gym class 'good'

Janet Twanski, 8, of 81 Avon Rd., is in good condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center after collapsing during gym class at Salt Creek School this week.

According to Elk Grove Village fire department, Janet stopped breathing twice after collapsing and was given mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by the school nurse.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,600 in cash and jewels while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

LT. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

LT. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's Investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

LT. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLE FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fulle, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLE DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fulle's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fulle's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fulle's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

Rolling Meadows fire chief was close to death

Paramedic plan a lifesaver

by TONI GINETTI

"I've prayed many times in my life, but I think that was the only time I sincerely prayed," Thomas Fogarty said quietly. "I told God I didn't want to die and I meant it."

The Rolling Meadows fire chief was recalling a second heart attack suffered two months ago in Northwest Community Hospital's intensive care unit only days after he had been revived by fellow firemen from a seizure which had left him a breath away from death.

The first severe attack had occurred the night of Aug. 16. Fogarty, 51, had no apparent vital life signs when five of his own paramedics, Lt. Ted Loesch, Robert Conroy, Donald Gustafson, Roger Hugg, and Raymond Welner, worked to revive him.

"After that, I thought I was coming along fine," Fogarty said, remembering the ordeal. "It was several days afterward and I had just finished eating dinner when Dr. (Felix) Krock came in to examine me and I began to feel it coming on."

"I think I am the only man who's felt what a defibrillator feels like because I wasn't completely out when they used it. The whole room lit up and I felt like a bolt of lightning hit me. The next thing I knew I was on my way to Presbyterian St. Luke's (medical center)."

"I think from that prayer, though, I must have been more confident because I wasn't as apprehensive of the operation as I might have been."

THE ATTACK WAS one of several Fogarty experienced in the hospital and which led to a decision that open heart surgery would be needed. That surgery, performed only a month ago yesterday, has given Fogarty what he calls "the heart of a 6-year-old."

But more than the surgery, Fogarty speaks almost passionately of what saved his life the night of the first attack on Aug. 16, his fire department's paramedic program.

"I don't remember anything from that Wednesday (the day before the attack). I don't remember getting out of bed or telling my wife I had the pains. I didn't really come to until after several days in the intensive care unit at the hospital."

"I can't say enough for the paramedic program," he said thoughtfully in his home yesterday. "In the beginning I was the devil's advocate because I said 'let's go a little slowly on this,' not because of the program because I thought it was a good program, but because of all the different equipment that was available."

Investment in the proper kind of equipment when the program started was vital, Fogarty said, and a move requiring thoughtful consideration.

HE NEVER questioned the worthiness of the program, however.

"I thought it was tremendous. I went to Springfield to help push it through committee and we wrote to many of the representatives and the governor. Of course we got some static in the beginning from nurses and doctors who thought we were treading on their toes."

"I think the program should be statewide and even nation-wide for that matter. They do a magnificent job. The paramedics are very dedicated to the program because they can see they're saving a life."

"Every man can't be a paramedic, of course. We're still primarily a fire department."

But on that point Fogarty, who helped organize the city's fire department some 17 years ago, admits the role of the fire department has expanded considerably beyond the realm of firefighting.

ALONG WITH combating fires, departments today handle medical calls, ambulance calls, fire prevention, and a variety of emergency situations, Fogarty said. "This week is fire prevention week, but we're even going to have to expand that beyond a week to cover all the services we perform," he said.

"There has been a big change from the image of a fireman just sitting around waiting for a fire call. That old image is gone. We used to get people calling saying 'we hate to bother you,' but they don't say that anymore. I'm glad to see that trend."

There is a closeness among firemen, too, which Fogarty said must be part of the work. "You can't hold a grudge against a man and go into a burning building with him. I wouldn't be here to talk about it if it hadn't been for them, although I'm a firm believer in the idea that nothing gets done without His guidance."

"My men never got paid for going to school (for paramedic training)," he said. "The city invested $7,000 in participating in the northwest suburban pilot program, but training was on a voluntary basis, he said."

"NOW WE TREAT people at the scene and do everything they would get at a hospital. This is the hardest thing to teach the public. We have to treat at the scene; we're not wasting time, we're saving a life."

"I had one shift that was a little weak during the training, and I told them 'you're going to be paramedics.' Dr. (Stanley) Sydio (head of the program at Northwest Community Hospital) worked with them extra on Sundays on their own time, and strangely enough the first major accident we had was when that shift was on duty."

"Dr. Sydio was there and he told me 'you don't have to worry about them.'"

"I think we have had seven saves in Rolling Meadows counting me," Fogarty said. "I don't know how anyone could not adopt this program if 1) they have the money and 2) they have the men and the equipment."

IN COMMENTING on his lifesaving experience, Fogarty dismisses the personal national publicity it has drawn, but affirmed his intent to do all he can to promote the establishment of paramedic programs around the state and nation.

"I've told Dr. Sydio that anything I can do to promote the program, I'll be glad to do. I don't think there's anything in the world like it as far as the potential for saving lives. I experienced it; I can see what they could do."

"For what the city has invested, I think the lives it has saved have returned more than any other investment the city has and maybe will ever make."

"I know what my life is worth to me and my family."

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 765 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

The Yugoslavian immigrant was found cleaning his .357 Magnum pistol when police entered his apartment.

Under questioning, Ahmeti later told Assistant State's Atty. Kenneth Gillis he thought the noises of fireworks around him were from other people also firing guns in celebration.

Ahmeti had apparently thought July 4 was the day he could shoot a gun without being in violation of the law, according to Gillis.

ANOTHER YUGOSLAVIAN immigrant, Ferat Abdul, 48, of 727 Dulles Rd., was also arrested for allegedly firing a gun out his apartment window a short time after Ahmeti was taken into custody.

Police said a building resident warned them a second man was firing a gun from his apartment during Ahmeti's arrest.

No one was injured by the shots allegedly fired by Abdul who was charged with reckless conduct and illegal discharge of firearms.

Ahmeti is currently out on $13,000 bond pending a Nov. 1 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Abdul, who is free on $1,000 bail has been slated for a Nov. 8 hearing date.

Industrial accident kills Ryerson employee

Nolan Williams, an employee of Ryerson Steel Co., 2180 Pratt Blvd., Elk Grove Village, died Wednesday as a result of an industrial accident.

When struck by a coil of steel, Williams' right hand was amputated. He also suffered cuts and other injuries.

Elk Grove Village firemen transported Williams to Alexian Brothers Medical Center. He was later transferred to Loyola University Hospital in Maywood for arterial surgery, but died on the operating table.

Williams, 46, lived in Chicago.

Police arrest two men thought part of burglary ring

by JULIA BAUER

Two men are being held as part of an alleged burglary ring operating in the Palatine area.

The arrests stemmed from an early morning safe-cracking Tuesday at F J Die Mold Co., 501 W. Collax St., Palatine, in which thieves took $1,000 in cash from the company's safe. Palatine police said yesterday that the thieves worked for nearly 7½ hours to break open the safe with crowbars.

Howard C. Christensen, 19, of 220 E. Hicks Pl., Palatine, and Sam Bell, 20, whom police described as a transient, were charged with the theft and are being held in Cook County Jail pending their Oct. 26 hearing in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Yesterday, bond was set at $3,000 for Christensen and $20,000 for Bell.

THE MEN WERE charged with burglary and theft and were linked to a number of recent Palatine thefts. Christensen, an employee at F J Die Mold at the time of the thefts, was charged with two thefts at the company, including the one Tuesday. He also was charged with a break-in at the Palatine American Legion Hall earlier this fall.

Bell is charged with participating in the F J Die Mold theft and an August break-in at the Orbit Roller Rink, 1350 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine. An estimated $150 was reported taken in that theft. One attempted burglary and two house burglaries in Inverness also allegedly involved Bell. The thefts occurred in July and August, according to police.

Other arrests are expected in connection with the robberies. Palatine police estimate that $2,700 cash was taken in a total of six robberies. Some $1,300 has been recovered.

According to Palatine Police Det. Sgt. Robert Ward, Christensen was arrested after police learned that he failed to come to work the day of the F J Die Mold theft. Christensen's car was allegedly found with dusty footprints believed to be left from plaster dust at the scene of the theft.

CHRISTENSEN reportedly implicated Bell from pictures supplied by Hoffman Estates police. Bell was arrested after Rolling Meadows police spotted Bell's auto outside the Holiday Inn of Rolling Meadows, 3405 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows. Bell was apprehended inside the motel.

Palatine detectives, including Michael McDonald, Ralph Winkelhake, Mark Kjelstrom and Ward, worked on the burglaries after the F J Die Mold break-in earlier this week, according to Acting Palatine Police Chief Frank Ortiz.

Divers yesterday searched two small lakes in Inverness, the Palatine Hills Golf Course lake and Lake Louise in an attempt to recover evidence in the thefts. By the end of the day yesterday, divers David Zack and Skip Walters had recovered a small safe taken in the Orbit Roller Rink theft, a cash register from the golf course clubhouse, and two collector's hand guns. The guns were taken from one of the Inverness homes robbed during the summer.

Lions' Candy Day to assist blind

Candy Day, the annual Lions' Club fund-raising event for the blind and visually handicapped, comes to Palatine today and tomorrow.

Workers will be selling candy all day today and until 2 p.m. tomorrow. Money raised from the sale will be used to support eye examinations and eyeglasses for local needy children, the Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka, Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Mich., recordings for the blind and the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Last year, the local drive netted $2,600.

State Trooper Joe Thomas aims "Speedgun" at approaching traffic

'Speedgun' deadly

State police drawing a bead on leadfoot motorists

by TONI GINETTI

The "gun" was aimed casually out the window of the State Police squad car when the semi-trailer moving van sped past at 57 miles per hour — 12 miles faster than the posted speed limit.

State Trooper Joe Thomas set the gun's sights on the truck, squeezed the trigger, then raced after the truck. The gun lay beside him as red digital numerals blinked "57" steadily on a screen above its handle.

The truck driver had just become the victim of "Speedgun," a new radar unit resembling a bullhorn, which measures instantaneously the speed of moving vehicles.

THE DEVICE, which has been in use since August, is the latest police aid for trapping speeders, who police say are perhaps the foremost traffic enemy. Speedgun is portable and operates either by its own power pack or by plugging into a car cigarette lighter.

The gun works on the Doppler principle in which a signal is transmitted from the gun and bounces off a moving vehicle. The speed at which the signal bounces off the vehicle and back to the gun is equal to the vehicle's speed. "Speedgun" records that speed.

Six of the guns are now in use at State Police Dist. 3 headquarters in Des Plaines. A total of 80 of the units were purchased by the state from the manufacturer for $50,000, half of which was refunded by the federal government through a matching funds program.

SPEEDGUN HAS simplified the task of catching speeders, Thomas said during a morning patrol this week. Older radar units required the officer to read a graph which charted average speeds rather than the speed of a vehicle at any given moment. Speedgun, however, charts the actual speed of a vehicle in the same way a car speedometer does.

"It is so versatile, it really doesn't give the violator a chance," Thomas said. A violator doesn't stand much chance of disputing the accuracy of the unit because after each traffic stop, a trooper tests the gun to make sure it is working properly.

This is done with the use of a tuning fork which is calibrated to emit 50 m.p.h. vibration signals. If the 50 m.p.h. reading records on the gun when it is aimed at the tuning fork, the device is working accurately.

THOMAS SAID the guns are also inspected once a month to insure their proper operation.

But trapping the speeder doesn't necessarily mean issuing a ticket.

For example, four persons stopped for speeding by Thomas on a two-hour morning patrol this week were all traveling 10 to 13 miles per hour faster than the posted limit. All, however, were let off with written warnings, which the state police now issue, giving the driver a record of being stopped for speeding but no fine or ticket.

If the trooper feels a written warning will deter the driver from speeding again, then it can be just as effective as a ticket, Thomas said.

"WE FEEL WE'RE responsible for traffic safety," Thomas said of the State Police. "We handle almost no criminal cases except if they're involved in traffic cases."

"The most fundamental aspect of driving is speed. If a driver isn't conscious of that, will he be conscious of traffic lights and stop signs?"

Thomas said police are usually more concerned with drivers going 10 miles or more over the limit. "I look for the hazardous violator," Thomas said. "They're the potential accidents."

"If I'm out here, I don't have to be petty," he continued. "We have no 'quotas' (which require a certain number of tickets to be written in a period of time.) I don't have to write a ticket. I treat people the way I want to be treated, so when I make an arrest, I feel it is justified."

"IF DRIVERS try to deny it (a speeding offense) too vigorously," Thomas said, "We simply show them the gun reading (which is locked by a trigger and holds the reading until the trigger is released.)"

"We have a problem sometimes in that we clock cars at a distance," Thomas explained. "By the time the driver sees us and glances down at his speedometer, he's already reduced his speed, so sometimes we have a hard time exclaiming it to him."

Some outraged drivers, of course, just can't be quieted, Thomas said. "They ask for your badge number and your name and they say they're going to have your job and take you to court, all of which doesn't make our job any easier."

Of the four persons stopped that morning, only one attempted to deny the speeding charge.

WHILE POLICE will attempt to spot any violator, Thomas admitted truck drivers are usually eyed as speed demons. "Trucks are notorious speeders," he laughed. "They're almost professional mirror-watchers."

On a traffic stop, Thomas will check for other potential traffic or criminal violations. The truck driver he stopped was asked to produce a registration identification card which he is required to carry stating the weight limit the truck is allowed to carry, the maximum number of axles it is allowed, and related information.

The truck driver's name was radioed to the district headquarters, and Thomas was told within seconds that the driver had no record of previous convictions in Illinois.

WHEN THOMAS stopped three other auto drivers, he checked each driver's license for any driving restrictions, correct age and address, and the expiration date of the license. On stops made late at night, Thomas said teen-agers found to be driving after curfew can be held, since a minor's driver's license is invalid after curfew.

The excuses for speeding that morning ranged from "a stuck accelerator pedal" to "I'm on my lunch hour and I had to get to the store."

"People have always looked at law enforcement with disrespect," Thomas commented as traffic on Golf Road whizzed by. "They feel they should not be restricted. We want people to start thinking instead of just taking driving for granted."

Celebrate Mission Festival Sunday

Mission Festival Sunday will be celebrated this weekend at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 1190 N. Hicks Rd., Palatine, with special speaker the Rev. James Herzog.

Rev. Herzog, a New Guinea missionary for five years, is currently teaching at Luther High School North in Chicago. The worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m.

NOT MUCH REMAINS of the door to the F J Die Mold Co. safe. Thieves used crowbars to peel open the door Tuesday. The safe contained an estimated $1,000. Two men have been charged with the break-in and theft.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,000 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

L.T. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

L.T. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's Investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

L.T. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations. It should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fullilove of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLILOVE filed suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fullilove, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Driscoll Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLILOVE DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fullilove's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fullilove's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fullilove's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

School board wrapup

Schools OK funds for jr. high walks

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board voted to contribute up to $10,000 toward the construction of sidewalks near Palatine Hills Junior High School, bringing the controversial project nearer completion.

The first step to solve what parents call "hazardous walking conditions" was taken earlier this week when the Township Board of Auditors agreed to contribute up to $6,000 for the construction, if both the Village of Palatine and the school board contribute a similar amount.

The village is not planning to contribute any money, but has offered to provide the manpower and equipment needed for the construction. The sidewalk will be built along a ¼ mile stretch of Smith Street, south of the school and north of Northwest Highway.

"Since this area is outside the village, it isn't proper for us to spend money on the sidewalks," said Jim Bennett, acting village manager. He said this limitation would not apply to providing the men and equipment.

Palatine Township Auditor Don Bellm said that contributing services instead of money would probably be acceptable to the board of auditors.

The school board Wednesday night did its part and voted to give about $6,000, not to exceed $10,000, for the construction.

If work begins soon, school board member Otto Ellering said construction could be finished before winter. He estimated about a month for the actual work.

A second meeting of representatives from the village, the school district and the township was held last night to finalize construction plans.

The first meeting was held last week, before the three governing boards had empowered their representatives to offer money or services.

The sidewalk will be an 8-foot-wide blacktop. Dist. 15 Supt. Frank Whiteley said a smaller sidewalk would be more expensive and harder to take care of during the winter. An 8-foot stretch can be shoveled with snow plowing equipment that the school district already owns.

The three-way cooperation came after parents whose children walk to Palatine Hills Junior High School applied to virtually every governmental body in the area for sidewalks. The walkway was originally going to be built by the county, but county officials said they have power only to maintain sidewalks, not construct them.

Sundling said the county might let the three agencies use county right-of-ways to build the sidewalk.

Bus transportation near

Students living within 1½ miles of Virginia Lake, Jonas Salk, Lincoln and Winston Park may pay bus transportation in the near future.

The school board voted Wednesday to provide pay buses for those schools if there were 40 riders for each bus and if there were enough drivers and gasoline available.

Board member Otto Ellering said the 40 students were needed before expenditures for the bus service would equal the income. He added that it takes about 7 to 10 days to train each driver.

Buses for special activities such as Chess Club or football games will not be available this year. However, the transportation committee of the school board will meet with junior high school principals during the year to discuss the possibility of having special activity buses for the next school year.

VSB donation approved

The Dist. 15 school board also approved a $2,000 donation to the Volunteer Service Bureau, which will be paid in quarterly installments.

The volunteer bureau organizes an educational program for the school district, which consists of sending volunteers to classes to talk about different subjects.

Last year the school district also contributed $2,000 and used 3,500 hours of volunteer services. The $2,000 from the district and money from other services is applied to phone bills, salaries and office supplies.

Sand bags available

Sand bags and sand to aid flood-prone homeowners will be made available to Palatine residents this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the new Palatine recycling center on N. Smith Street near Northwest Highway.

A second sandbag pickup day is scheduled for Oct. 27 at the Palatine recycling center. Both dates will coincide with recycling days.

Residents are asked to bring their own shovels to fill the burlap bags with sand. Both sand and bags are free. The sand bags can be used to protect window wells, entrances, recessed driveways and other openings below flood level.

Employ Handicapped Week

Countryside Center for the Handicapped is finishing a week-long observation of national Employ the Handicapped Week. Dr. Edward Laskowski, local chairman of the Crusade of Mercy campaign, toured the facility's rehabilitation workshop for handicapped adults during the week. The center serves 150 handicapped children and adults, and is one of the programs supported by the Crusade of Mercy.

'Calm, cool and collected' expressway driving coming?

by REGINA OEHLER

Someday, students now attending classes in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 schools may be driving down the expressway during rush hour without feeling frustrated.

With an understanding shrug, they may be able to accept other motorists who honk horns, yell unfavorable comments and cut in front of them.

Barbara Berry, Dist. 15 guidance coordinator, said this image is a little idealistic, but she doesn't dismiss it altogether. Understanding and accepting other people is one of the goals of an expanded guidance program being used in the school district.

The program, piloted two years ago at Lincoln and Pleasant Hill elementary schools, was expanded this fall to include four more schools — Marion Jordan, Winston Churchill, Willow Bend and Jonas Salk.

EVENTUALLY, IT will be expanded to include all 15 elementary schools, said Miss Berry. A similar program is being used in the junior high schools.

Miss Berry said the program's objectives were threefold. The first is to help develop a positive self image; the second is to get along with others and the third is to develop skills to help in solving all kinds of problems — big or small.

"It is a unique concept in the United States in which a teacher plays the key role in the guidance program," Miss Berry said.

The teacher, not the guidance staff, introduces the ideas and weaves them into the regular classroom program.

For instance, instead of reading Dick and Jane type materials in language arts, the children might read about people and the problems they face, making posters for many of the ideas presented in the program.

THE PROGRAM is geared to all students, not just those who have problems, said Larita Langley, director of pupil personnel services.

"The well adjusted child also needs to be guided in his thinking, in his attitudes and in his personal development," she said.

She said that many emotional problems can be circumvented through this program and that the program develops problem-solving skills.

The children watch films that show different situations, such as a child standing by himself in the playground, then discuss how they would have handled the problem and how they would have felt. Or someone might present a puppet show where Flopsie the Founder Flounders around, not knowing what to do.

In one unit of the guidance program, the teacher asks the class "What do you see yourself as?" After receiving answers, she asks, "Why aren't you someone else?"

The answer is written on the button Miss Berry wears — "I am the only me."

Police arrest two men thought part of burglary ring

by JULIA BAUER

Two men are being held as part of an alleged burglary ring operating in the Palatine area.

The arrests stemmed from an early morning safe-cracking Tuesday at F J Die Mold Co., 501 W. Colfax St., Palatine, in which thieves took $1,000 in cash from the company's safe. Palatine police said yesterday that the thieves worked for nearly 7½ hours to break open the safe with crowbars.

Howard C. Christensen, 19, of 220 E. Hicks Pl., Palatine, and Sam Bell, 20, whom police described as a transient, were charged with the theft and are being held in Cook County Jail pending their Oct. 26 hearing in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Yesterday, bond was set at $3,000 for Christensen and $20,000 for Bell.

THE MEN WERE charged with burglary and theft and were linked to a number of recent Palatine thefts. Christensen, an employe at F J Die Mold at the time of the thefts, was charged with two thefts at the company, including the one Tuesday. He also was charged with a break-in at the Palatine American Legion Hall earlier this fall.

Bell is charged with participating in the F J Die Mold theft and an August break-in at the Orbit Roller Rink, 1350 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine. An estimated $150 was reported taken in that theft. One attempted burglary and two house burglaries in Inverness also allegedly involved Bell. The thefts occurred in July and August, according to police.

Other arrests are expected in connection with the robberies. Palatine police estimate that $2,700 cash was taken in a total of six robberies. Some $1,300 has been recovered.

According to Palatine Police Det. Sgt. Robert Ward, Christensen was arrested after police learned that he failed to come to work the day of the F J Die Mold theft. Christensen's car was allegedly found with dusty footprints believed to be left from plaster dust at the scene of the theft.

CHRISTENSEN reportedly implicated Bell from pictures supplied by Hoffman Estates police. Bell was arrested after Rolling Meadows police spotted Bell's auto outside the Holiday Inn of Rolling Meadows, 3405 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows. Bell was apprehended inside the motel.

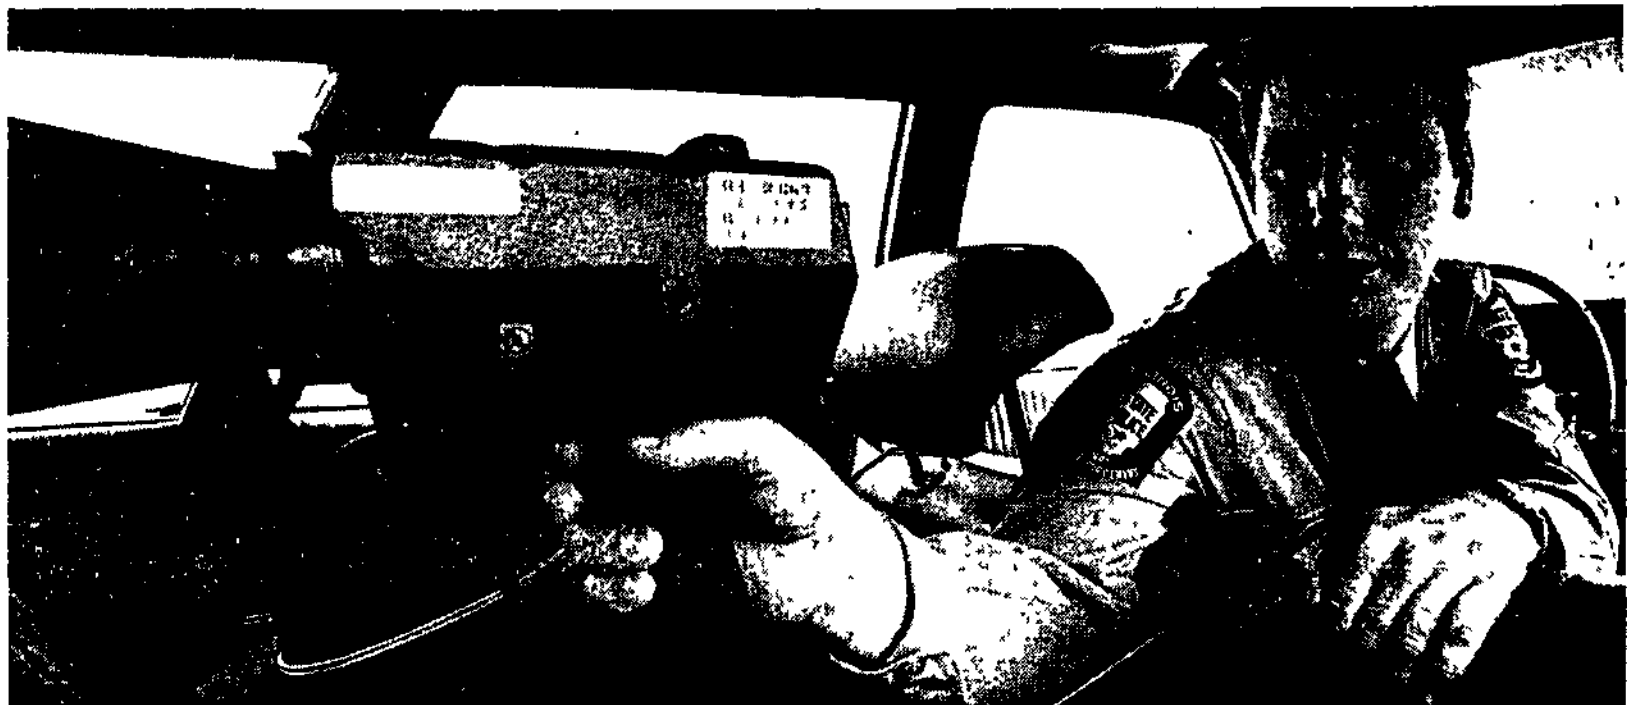

Palatine detectives, including Michael McDonald, Ralph Winkelhake, Mark Kjellstrom and Ward, worked on the burglaries after the F J Die Mold break-in earlier this week, according to Acting Palatine Police Chief Frank Ortiz.

Divers yesterday searched two small lakes in Inverness, the Palatine Hills Golf Course lake and Lake Louise in an attempt to recover evidence in the thefts. By the end of the day yesterday, divers David Zack and Skip Walters had recovered a small safe taken in the Orbit Roller Rink theft, a cash register from the golf course clubhouse, and two collector's hand guns. The guns were taken from one of the Inverness homes robbed during the summer.

Teen government gives flag, pole for new park

The Rolling Meadows Teen Government has agreed to donate a flag pole and ecology flag for the new Gateway to Rolling Meadows park at Kirchoff and Wilke roads.

Evelyn Drummond, chairman of the city's recycling, ecology, and beautification (REB) committee, said the donation was announced Wednesday during a meeting of the REB committee.

State Trooper Joe Thomas aims "Speedgun" at approaching traffic

'Speedgun' deadly

State police drawing a bead on leadfoot motorists

by TONI GINNETTI

The "gun" was aimed casually out the window of the State Police squad car when the semi-trailer moving van sped past at 57 miles per hour — 12 miles faster than the posted speed limit.

State Trooper Joe Thomas set the gun's sights on the truck, squeezed the trigger, then raced after the truck. The gun lay beside him as red digital numerals blinked "57" steadily on a screen above its handle.

The truck driver had just become the victim of "Speedgun," a new radar unit resembling a bullhorn, which measures instantaneously the speed of moving vehicles.

THE DEVICE, which has been in use since August, is the latest police aid for trapping speeders, who police say are perhaps the foremost traffic enemy. Speedgun is portable and operates either by its own power pack or by plugging into a car cigarette lighter.

The gun works on the Doppler principle in which a signal is transmitted from the gun and bounces off a moving vehicle. The speed at which the signal bounces off the vehicle and back to the gun is equal to the vehicle's speed. "Speedgun" records that speed.

Six of the guns are now in use at State Police Dist. 3 headquarters in Des Plaines. A total of 80 of the units were purchased by the state from the manufacturer for $50,000, half of which was refunded by the federal government through a matching funds program.

SPEEDGUN HAS simplified the task of catching speeders, Thomas said during a morning patrol this week. Older radar units required the officer to read a graph which charted average speeds rather than the speed of a vehicle at any given moment. Speedgun, however, charts the actual speed of a vehicle in the same way a car speedometer does.

"It is so versatile, it really doesn't give the violator a chance," Thomas said. A violator doesn't stand much chance of disputing the accuracy of the unit because after each traffic stop, a trooper tests the gun to make sure it is working properly.

This is done with the use of a tuning fork which is calibrated to emit 50 m.p.h. vibration signals. If the 50 m.p.h. reading records on the gun when it is aimed at the tuning fork, the device is working accurately.

THOMAS SAID the guns are also inspected once a month to insure their proper operation.

But trapping the speeder doesn't necessarily mean issuing a ticket. For example, four persons stopped for speeding by Thomas on a two-hour morning patrol this week were all traveling 10 to 13 miles per hour faster than the posted limit. All, however, were let off with written warnings, which the state police now issue, giving the driver a record of being stopped for speeding but no fine or ticket.

If the trooper feels a written warning will deter the driver from speeding again, then it can be just as effective as a ticket, Thomas said.

"WE FEEL WE'RE responsible for traffic safety," Thomas said of the State Police. "We handle almost no criminal cases except if they're involved in traffic cases."

"The most fundamental aspect of driving is speed. If a driver isn't conscious of that, will he be conscious of traffic lights and stop signs?"

Thomas said police are usually more concerned with drivers going 10 miles or more over the limit. "I look for the hazardous violator," Thomas said. "They're the potential accidents."

"If I'm out here, I don't have to be potty," he continued. "We have no 'quotas' (which require a certain number of tickets to be written in a period of time.) I don't have to write a ticket. I treat people the way I want to be treated, so when I make an arrest, I feel it is justified."

"IF DRIVERS try to deny it (a speeding offense) too vigorously," Thomas said. "We simply show them the gun reading (which is locked by a trigger and holds the reading until the trigger is released.)"

"We have a problem sometimes in that we clock cars at a distance," Thomas explained. "By the time the driver sees us and glances down at his speedometer, he's already reduced his speed, so sometimes we have a hard time explaining it to him."

Some outraged drivers, of course, just can't be quieted, Thomas said. "They ask for your badge number and your name and they say they're going to have your job and take you to court, all of which doesn't make our job any easier."

Of the four persons stopped that morning, only one attempted to deny the speeding charge.

WHILE POLICE will attempt to spot any violator, Thomas admitted truck drivers are usually eyed as speed demons. "Trucks are notorious speeders," he laughed. "They're almost professional mirror-watchers."

On a traffic stop, Thomas will check for other potential traffic or criminal violations. The truck driver he stopped was asked to produce a registration identification card which he is required to carry stating the weight limit the truck is allowed to carry, the maximum number of axles it is allowed, and related information.

The truck driver's name was radioed to the district headquarters, and Thomas was told within seconds that the driver had no record of previous convictions in Illinois.

WHEN THOMAS stopped three other auto drivers, he checked each driver's license for any driving restrictions, correct age and address, and the expiration date of the license. On stops made late at night, Thomas said teen-agers found to be driving after curfew can be held, since a minor's driver's license is invalid after curfew.

The excuses for speeding that morning ranged from "a stuck accelerator pedal" to "I'm on my lunch hour and I had to get to the store."

"People have always looked at law enforcement with disrespect," Thomas commented as traffic on Golf Road whizzed by. "They feel they should not be restricted. We want people to start thinking instead of just taking driving for granted."

Celebrate Mission Festival Sunday

Mission Festival Sunday will be celebrated this weekend at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 1190 N. Hicks Rd., Palatine, with special speaker the Rev. James Herzog.

Rev. Herzog, a New Guinea missionary for five years, is currently teaching at Luther High School North in Chicago. The worship service will begin at 10:30 a.m.

NOT MUCH REMAINS of the door to the F J Die Mold Co. safe. Thieves used crowbars to peel open the door Tuesday. The safe contained an estimated $1,000. Two men have been charged with the break-in and theft.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,680 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

LT. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

LT. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

LT. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-6 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Cullen of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLE FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fulle, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLE DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fulle's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fulle's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fulle's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

School board wrapup

Schools OK funds for jr. high walks

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 School Board voted to contribute up to $10,000 toward the construction of sidewalks near Palatine Hills Junior High School, bringing the controversial project nearer completion.

The first step to solve what parents call "hazardous walking conditions" was taken earlier this week when the Township Board of Auditors agreed to contribute up to $6,000 for the construction, if both the Village of Palatine and the school board contribute a similar amount.

The village is not planning to contribute any money, but has offered to provide the manpower and equipment needed for the construction. The sidewalk will be built along a ½ mile stretch of Smith Street, south of the school and north of Northwest Highway.

"Since this area is outside the village, it isn't proper for us to spend money on the sidewalks," said Jim Bennett, acting village manager. He said this limitation would not apply to providing the men and equipment.

Palatine Township Auditor Don Beilm said that contributing services instead of money would probably be acceptable to the board of auditors.

The school board Wednesday night did its part and voted to give about $6,000, not to exceed $10,000, for the construction.

If work begins soon, school board member Otto Ellering said construction could be finished before winter. He estimated about a month for the actual work.

A second meeting of representatives from the village, the school district and the township was held last night to finalize construction plans.

The first meeting was held last week, before the three governing boards had empowered their representatives to offer money or services.

The sidewalk will be an 8-foot-wide blacktop. Dist. 15 Supt. Frank Whiteley said a smaller sidewalk would be more expensive and harder to take care of during the winter. An 8-foot stretch can be shoveled with snow plowing equipment that the school district already owns.

The three-way cooperation came after parents whose children walk to Palatine Hills Junior High School applied to virtually every governmental body in the area for sidewalks. The walkway was originally going to be built by the county, but county officials said they have power only to maintain sidewalks, not construct them.

Sundling said the county might let the three agencies use county right-of-ways to build the sidewalk.

PROBLEM-SOLVER Duso the Dolphin joins Donna Slattery and her first-grade class at Pleasant Hill School in Palatine. Duso is part of the district's recently expanded guidance program which tries to teach grade-school children to get along with others, develop a positive self image and develop skills to help solve all kinds of problems.

'Calm, cool and collected' expressway driving coming?

by REGINA OEHLER

Someday, students now attending classes in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 schools may be driving down the expressway during rush hour without feeling frustrated.

With an understanding shrug, they may be able to accept other motorists who honk horns, yell unfavorable comments and cut in front of them.

Barbara Berry, Dist. 15 guidance coordinator, said this image is a little idealistic, but she doesn't dismiss it altogether. Understanding and accepting other people is one of the goals of an expanded guidance program being used in the school district.

The program, piloted two years ago at Lincoln and Pleasant Hill elementary schools, was expanded this fall to include four more schools — Marion Jordan, Winston Churchill, Willow Bend and Jonas Salk.

Eventually, it will be expanded to include all 16 elementary schools, said Miss Berry. A similar program is being used in the junior high schools.

Miss Berry said the program's objectives were threefold. The first is to help develop a positive self image; the second is to get along with others and the third is to develop skills to help in solving all kinds of problems — big or small.

"It is a unique concept in the United States in which a teacher plays the key role in the guidance program," Miss Berry said.

The teacher, not the guidance staff, introduces the ideas and weaves them into the regular classroom program.

For instance, instead of reading Dick and Jane type materials in language arts, the children might read about people and the problems they face, making posters for many of the ideas presented in the program.

THE PROGRAM is geared to all students, not just those who have problems, said Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services.

"The well adjusted child also needs to be guided in his thinking, in his attitudes and in his personal development," she said.

She said that many emotional problems can be circumvented through this program and that the program develops problem-solving skills.

The children watch films that show different situations, such as a child standing by himself in the playground, then discuss how they would have handled the problem and how they would have felt.

Or someone might present a puppet show where Flopsie the Founder flounders around, not knowing what to do.

In one unit of the guidance program, the teacher asks the class "What do you see yourself as?" After receiving answers, she asks, "Why aren't you someone else?"

The answer is written on the button Miss Berry wears — "I am the only me."

Obituaries

Bus transportation near

Students living within 1½ miles of Virginia Lake, Jonas Salk, Lincoln and Winston Park may pay bus transportation in the near future.

The school board voted Wednesday to provide pay buses for those schools if there were 40 riders for each bus and if there were enough drivers and gasoline available.

Board member Otto Ellering said the 40 students were needed before expenditures for the bus service would equal the income. He added that it takes about 7 to 10 days to train each driver.

Buses for special activities such as Chess Club or football games will not be available this year. However, the transportation committee of the school board will meet with junior high school principals during the year to discuss the possibility of having special activity buses for the next school year.

VSB donation approved

The Dist. 15 school board also approved a $2,000 donation to the Volunteer Service Bureau, which will be paid in quarterly installments.

The volunteer bureau organizes an educational program for the school district, which consists of sending volunteers to classes to talk about different subjects.

Last year the school district also contributed $2,000 and used 3,500 hours of volunteer services. The $2,000 from the district and money from other services is applied to phone bills, salaries and office supplies.

Clearbrook picnic

A picnic for children from the Clearbrook Center for the retarded in Rolling Meadows will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow in Campbell Street Park.

The picnic will include games in which the children will participate.

The event is an annual affair sponsored for the center by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees.

Fix water main break

A water main break at the intersection of Campbell Street and Wilke Road in Rolling Meadows was repaired yesterday within two hours, the public works department reported.

The break was repaired without a disruption in service.

Insurance firm will hold open house

The Central Security Mutual Insurance Co., 2775 Algonquin Road, Rolling Meadows, will hold open house from Oct. 23 to Oct. 25 to celebrate its 20th anniversary.

The open house, which will include a tour of the company, will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Policyholders of the company will be able to register for door prizes.

The company writes life and auto insurance exclusively for nondrinkers.

$15 million school improvement referendum planned in February

A multi-million-dollar early February referendum faces voters in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54.

Approximately $3 million of the total estimated $15 million referendum package proposed by district administrators will cover costs of improvements to eight of its older schools.

New building needs over the next four years and possible renovation or change-over of an older school to an administrative center take up the remainder of the referendum.

Proposed improvements to the older buildings, cost of which were constructed in the early 50s, are:

- Blackhawk School, 370 Illinois Blvd., $383,300
- Campanelli, 310 S. Springsguth Rd., $550,000
- Fairview, 146 Arizona Blvd., $494,200
- Hillcrest, 201 Hillcrest Blvd., $29,150
- Hoffman, 101 Grand Canyon St., $361,100
- Lakeview, 280 Lakeview Ln., $327,200
- Schaumburg, 520 E. Schaumburg Rd., $448,200
- Twinbrook, 400 Ash Rd., $456,725

ARCHITECT S. Guy Fishman prepared the remodeling proposal at the board's direction to comply with their desire to update buildings that share common problems. These are low lighting levels, inadequate washroom, office, storage and classroom space, no learning centers and a few do not have gymnasiums.

A referendum call will be voted on by the board of education in November, with bids sought between January and March and work on the older schools done during summer vacation.

Administrators explained the referendum package to education committee members yesterday, noting updated estimates for the renovation. Original estimates were for $2.3 million.

Library 'friends' seek help for fund-raising activities

The Friends of the Library seek more people willing to work on fund-raising programs for the Schaumburg Township Public Library.

Library Board member Mrs. Sonja Leraas said the group, whose purpose is to aid the library in any way it can, does not lack contributors but does seek additional working members.

She encouraged anyone interested in joining the group to contact the library for further information.

The Friends are sponsoring a film series at the library and need house managers for nights the films are showing.

Anyone interested in helping is asked to contact Patricia Hogan, at 885-3373.

The Friends supports the film series, a theater group, and other activities that vary from book sale to cultural happenings.

The Friends have a bank balance of $965.69. Through dues and the profits from the Friends' play "Happy Birthday, Wanda June," they have added substantially to the treasury.

The next Friends play is "House of Bernardo Alba" by Garcia Lorea. It will be presented Nov. 8, 9, 10, 16 and 17. Friends receive reduced ticket rates. Board member Joe McAuliffe may be called at 529-1732 for further information.

The Friends are also planning to sponsor a children's theatrical series under Mrs. Leraas' direction.

Lions Club fund drive under way

Members of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates Lions Clubs and their wives will urge local residents "not to turn your eyes the other way" today, solicit donations for aid to the blind.

The fund drive will continue Saturday for the many Lions Club projects. Donors will receive a roll of Lions Club candy in return for their gifts.

Local projects include providing glaucoma and eye testing clinics and buying braille writers, typewriters, tape recorders, canes and glasses for the blind or the visually handicapped.

International Club activities support Hadley School for the Blind in Winnetka; Leader Dogs for the Blind in Rochester, Mich.; Illinois Camp Lions for Visually Handicapped Children; Dialogue, a recorded service for the blind, and Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Homecoming theme is 'Blue Hawaii'

Pigskin and palm trees will share the limelight on the playing fields of Schaumburg High School during homecoming activities today and Saturday.

Schaumburg students today will elect a homecoming queen and court to reign during the weekend.

"Blue Hawaii" is the homecoming theme.

April Falkenthal, student chairman and George Stewart, faculty sponsor, will lead a student pep rally today.

A parade Saturday will kick off from Jane Addams Junior High School lot on Springsguth Road and proceed to Schaumburg High School playing fields where there will be carnival booths and refreshments.

The varsity football game between the Schaumburg Saxons and Prospect Knights starts at 2 p.m. A dance in the school gymnasium will be held from 8 to 11 p.m.

RECYCLE STREETS? This machine is doing it right now in Hoffman Estates. The 47-foot monster uses infrared heat to melt the top three-fourths of an inch of old paving and mix it with an equal amount of new asphalt. Village officials expect it will add years of life to village streets, at less cost than conventional repaving jobs.

Bidet, Toilet Bowls Sunday

All-American mothers will take over the football field Sunday at Conant High School during the first annual Bidet Bowl football game.

The event involves Hoffman Estates Boys' Club Women's Auxiliary members, who have challenged Schaumburg Athletic Association's women's group to a flag football game.

Hoffman Estates' Big Blue Mamas are being coached by Tony Stompanato and Tom Anzalone is training the Schaumburg Plungers. Virginia Hayter, Hoffman Estates' mayor, will toss the coin to decide who kicks off and who receives.

The game will immediately follow the Toilet Bowl in which Schaumburg Boys Football Junior Vikings and Widget Knights meet the Boys' Club. The Toilet Bowl is an annual event sponsored by Stompanato Plumbing.

Tickets for the women's game are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. They will be sold at the gate or may be obtained in advance through members of both women's groups.

Proceeds will be split by the women's groups.

Park referendum: yes

The future is expansion for Schaumburg, and the park district is looking to keep up.

We endorse the $2.5 million park development referendum to be held tomorrow. The referendum is divided into two sections — land acquisition ($700,000) and park improvements ($1.8 million) — and each will help serve the needs of a growing community.

The $2.5 million figure may sound astronomical, but a closer look reveals that an average taxpayer is expected to pay only $1 more a year ($13 for the first five years than he did after approving the $1.25 million referendum in 1970. In essence, it provides almost double the services and facilities for about the same cost.

The Spring Valley land acquisition is necessary to preserve some rich, remaining prairie lands before developers gobble them up. Nearly two years of work have gone into plans for Spring Valley, and $140,000 has been donated toward it. It's to be Schaumburg's project for the nation's 200th birthday — a total community project.

Park improvements are needed, but funds are not available in the yearly budget for extensive work. Proposed improvements include a new pool, pool enclosure, a maintenance garage, development at 13 park and park-school sites, tennis courts, lighted recreation fields and an outdoor hockey rink.

Perhaps, of all the proposed facilities, the maintenance garage is the most drastically needed item. Equipment goes without protection, and the maintenance crew does not have a winter working area.

The district has plans to improve parks and park lands in all parts of the district. Many of the items included in the project were gleaned from the attitude and interest study done last spring in the district.

The district also has done a good job of presenting the facts about the referendum in a series of informational meetings conducted in recent weeks. Its efforts should pay off with a favorable decision tomorrow by voters.

Ambulance tax: no

Free ambulance service has been provided by the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District for about 16 years, and it has been excellent service.

But right now we cannot endorse the proposed ambulance tax rate of 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation when HEFPD officials have not furnished specific financial information and haven't made an effort to present it to the public.

We urge voters to go to the polls and vote no on the tax rate tomorrow.

Officials have said the issue will probably come up again in the future if defeated tomorrow. They also have vowed to keep the ambulance service at its highest standard.

Officials have estimated that a rate between 10 and 15 cents would probably be needed, and that between $75,000 and $105,000 in funds would be generated.

Officials will not say what will be done with the money other than $20,000 needed for maintenance of two ambulances. Paramedic training has been a burden, but once again officials have not been specific on the cost.

Only one informational meeting was held, and a letter sent to taxpayers. Also not taken into consideration by the district is how can such broad taxing powers be given to a taxing district that may be defunct in a few years after a merger with the village.

The HEFPD is in financial straits, and perhaps because of free ambulance service. A $30 user's fee should be studied a little further as possible funding. But more information is needed.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday. The Herald, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $8,680 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

L.T. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

L. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

L. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLE FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fulle, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLE DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fulle's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fulle's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fulle's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

Vote 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. at six locations

Parks referendum slated tomorrow

Registered voters in the Schaumburg Park District will go to the polls tomorrow to consider a $2.5 million park development bond issue.

There will be six polling places which will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Residents will vote separately on the $1.8 million park improvements section and $700,000 for land acquisition.

Included in the improvements project are development at 13 park and park-school sites, a maintenance garage, an enclosure for Atcher Pool, and Olympic-sized swimming pool to be located at Meineke Park, tennis courts, lighted recreation fields and an outdoor hockey rink.

Land under consideration for acquisition is in the Spring Valley area near Plum Grove and Schaumburg roads. The area is planned to be made into a nature center and will vary between 150 and 300 acres depending upon present negotiations.

THE POLLING places are:

• Precinct 1, residences in the Village of Hanover Park, south of Schaumburg Road, east of Barrington Road, with the southern boundaries just south of Laurie Lane, west of Carlisle Drive including the east side of Northway Drive and the northside of Wise Road. The polling place is 917 Yorkshire Dr., Hanover Park.

• Precinct 2, residences south of Bode Road, west of Springguth Road and a line extended from Spring South Road. The polling place is the Atcher Pool bathhouse, 730 S. Springguth Rd.

• Precinct 3, residences east of Springguth Road and west of Roselle Road. The polling place is Jennings House, 220 S. Civic Dr.

• Precinct 4, residences in the Village of Roselle bounded by Nerge Road, Devon Avenue, Larson Lane and an extension of Plum Grove Road. The polling place is The Trails Clubhouse, 703 E. Nerge Rd., Roselle.

• Precinct 5, residences east of Roselle Road. Polling place is Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way.

• Precinct 6, residences in the City of Rolling Meadows, bounded by Algonquin Road, Arbor Drive, the Northwest Tollway and Interstate 90. Polling place is the Meadow Trace recreation building.

Ambulance tax proposal goes before voters

Institution of an ambulance tax is the question posed in the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District (HEFPD) referendum to be held tomorrow.

Five polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

To be decided will be whether the HEFPD will be allowed to levy an ambulance tax. The maximum rate permitted by state statute is 25 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

HEFPD officials have estimated that a tax rate of between 10 and 15 cents per $100 assessed valuation would be needed the first year. The estimated rates would generate between $75,000 and $105,000.

Officials have contended that the increasing number of ambulance calls and medical training for firemen have been burdens for the financially troubled district.

Officials have cited future ambulance expansion plans and needed equipment updating because of a new state law as possible expenditures.

THE POLLING places are:

• Precinct 1, residents living south of Golf Road in the village vote at Fire Station No. 1, 160 Flagstaff Ln.

• Precinct 2, citizens living in the Barrington Township portion of the HEFPD and in a section generally bounded by Central, Barrington, Higgins, Kingsdale, Glen Lake, and Jones roads and Huntington Boulevard, go to Fire Station No. 2, 469 Hassell Road. This area includes county voting precincts 20, 28 and 47.

• Precinct 3, residents living in the village north of Golf Road and east of Jones Road vote at Hillcrest School, 201 Hillcrest Blvd.

• Precinct 4, citizens living south of Hassell Road, north of Higgins Road and west of Huntington Boulevard vote at The Governor's Club, 1800 N. Williamsburg Rd.

Three Hoffman Estates firefighters are taking courses in the emergency medical technician program at Harper College in Palatine.

The firemen, who will take about 80 hours of night classroom work, are Earl Hansen, Dennis Enabitt and James Reardon. An additional 20 hours of working in a hospital also is required.

Park board interviews

Four persons have indicated interest in seeking appointment to the Hoffman Estates Park Board of Commissioners.

Fred Weaver, board president, declined to name them, pending personal interviews with each one.

A vacancy on the board was created when Claude Crase resigned for personal reasons.

The board will appoint a new commissioner after the interviews.

Elgin church offers film for community

A film will be offered at 7:30 p.m. today by the congregation of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, Elgin Ward.

The Elgin congregation welcomes people from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Roselle, Hanover Park, and Bartlett.

During the evening, in the church at the corner of Pleasant and Parkview drives, Elgin, the film "Ancient America Speaks" will be shown.

AN IMPORTANT SEMINAR/LECTURE MIND CONTROL & EXTRA SENSORY PERCEPTION

Recently, many national publications such as Life, Modern Woman, Harper's Bazaar, National Observer and Sales Management featured articles about SILVA MIND CONTROL. These articles, along with many others, discuss how thousands of people across the country have learned through MIND CONTROL to use more of their mind and to productively develop the hidden potential that lies within every human being. Some of these articles report amazing results of how MIND CONTROL students have learned to: totally relax, improve concentration, memory, break bad habits and increase productivity and creativity and yes—function psychically—by learning to develop and put to practical use the ESP, that we all naturally possess.

UNIVERSITY RESEARCH

Recent research of various universities throughout the country has revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man through proper control of his brain waves. Exploration of this almost unknown continent—the human mind—has been pioneered by a sophisticated researcher, Jose Silva, of the Institute of Psychobiology in Torrey, Texas.

26 YEARS OF RESEARCH--

The Institute of Psychobiology under the direction of Jose Silva began their research in MIND CONTROL in 1947 to see if it was possible to increase an individual's IQ factor amazingly. Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased, but a person trained in this technique could even control the thought processes to such an extent that it could be applied to practical advantage. The implications of this breakthrough were staggering. In-depth studies also revealed that anyone with a normal mental aptitude could develop so-called ESP and clairvoyance when trained in the Silva Mind Control method. In 1955, the Institute decided to release their findings to the general public. Techniques have been researched and refined to where only 40 to 48 hours of class time are required to learn the SILVA MIND CONTROL method.

COME AND LEARN--

We invite you to attend this special introductory seminar, which will include a discussion on Alpha brain waves, the most important reports on psychic research and an explanation of what is taught in the other SILVA MIND CONTROL courses.

Offices, apartments

13-story complex being planned east of Randhurst

by MARCIA KRAMER

Plans reportedly are on the drawing board for a 13-story office-apartment building just east of the Randhurst shopping center.

The property, along Kensington-Foundry Road, lies just outside the Mount Prospect village limits in unincorporated Wheeling Township, and is already zoned for business and multi-family use.

The builder is J. M. Brickman Mid-

West Corp., a well-known Mount Prospect developer. Brickman was unavailable for comment yesterday.

However, Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he had heard of plans for the high rise, which, ironically, would be more than twice as tall as a building originally planned for the same site and opposed by the village.

MOUNT PROSPECT officials, at the urging of local residents, fought plans for a six-story office building proposed by Brickman in 1967, mainly on the grounds that the building would be incompatible with nearby residential neighborhoods.

The Brickman property is bordered on the north by the Boxwood subdivision, and on the east and south by Brickman Manor, a subdivision built by Mid-West Corp.

The village's suit against Cook County for rezoning the property from residential to business and multifamily was thrown out by the Illinois Supreme Court in 1969, and the rezoning was upheld.

AS TEICHERT sees it, the village is virtually powerless now in influencing Brickman's plans for developing the property.

Brickman may choose to annex to Mount Prospect, but because he already has the necessary zoning in the county, he has no reason to bargain with the village, as he was willing to do when he presented his original plans a few years ago.

At that time, the village turned down Brickman's overtures to annex his property to Mount Prospect. Looking back, Teichert said, "We could have compromised a six-story building (Brickman's original proposition) into probably a five or a four."

"BUT PEOPLE were so dead-set against it that we responded and fought," he said. "Now, instead of a six or a five or a four, it looks like we'll have a 13."

"Did we win? The real question is did we win by doing that or did we merely satisfy our own emotions by saying we would fight anything that didn't fit into our mold."

Given a choice, Teichert said he would rather have the building constructed in Mount Prospect, where the village could exercise some control over it, than in the county, where Mount Prospect would still be burdened with the traffic for the building but not the tax benefits.

brook third and Adriana Flores of St. Emily's honorable mention.

Kathleen Pelletieri of St. Emily's was first among the sixth graders. Matt Young of Fairview was second and Jim Martin of Holmes third. Edan Schuchter and Jeff Hall of Robert Frost (Dist. 21) got honorable mention, as did Linda Hopkins and Pam Stevens of Holmes, and Joe Stephens of Robert Frost (Dist. 21).

HONORABLE mentions were given to seventh graders Janice Nelson, Denise Talend and Dan Bengo, all of St. Emily's, and Ginny Volini of Holmes. Mark Duebner and Steve Meyer of St. Emily's both received honorable mention for eighth graders. Only honorable mentions were given because there were only a few posters submitted in the two grades.

In the window painting contest, first place went to St. Emily's for "Fire Is Your Slave/Never Give It Freedom." St. Emily's also won second place for a depiction of the Chicago Fire and third place for the Dragon. Honorable mentions were given to Dempster Junior High and St. Raymond's Junior High.

Cornerstone laying at Baptist church

The cornerstone for the Cumberland Baptist Church in Mount Prospect will be laid Sunday.

The $300,000 sanctuary at 1500 E. Central Rd. is expected to be completed by January.

The Rev. Robert H. Halls, pastor of the congregation for the past three years, will preside at the cornerstone laying ceremony, which will follow Sunday worship services.

Funds for the new sanctuary were raised by the sale of general obligation church bonds. The building committee is chaired by Al McKay and Walter Peterson.

YOUTHS FROM Boy Scout Troop 261 in Mount Prospect plant polygomon around the Crumley retention basin at Busse Road and Bonita Drive. The plant is considered a deterrent to soil erosion while providing beautification for the area as well.

July 4 shooting ruled manslaughter

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 765 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

The Yugoslavian immigrant was found cleaning his .357 Magnum pistol when police entered his apartment.

Under questioning, Ahmeti later told Assistant State's Atty. Kenneth Gillis he thought the noises of fireworks around him were from other people also firing guns in celebration.

Ahmeti had apparently thought July 4 was the day he could shoot a gun without being in violation of the law, according to Gillis.

ANOTHER YUGOSLAVIAN immigrant, Ferat Abdul, 40, of 727 Dulles Rd., was also arrested for allegedly firing a gun out his apartment window a short time after Ahmeti was taken into custody.

Police said a building resident warned them a second man was firing a gun from his apartment during Ahmeti's arrest.

No one was injured by the shots allegedly fired by Abdul who was charged with reckless conduct and illegal discharge of firearms.

Ahmeti is currently out on $13,000 bond pending a Nov. 1 appearance in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Abdul, who is free on $1,000 bail has been slated for a Nov. 8 hearing date.

Legislators to attend Heights Oktoberfest

Several state legislators who represent the Prospect Heights area have been invited to attend the second annual Oktoberfest Sunday. The event will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. in the shopping center parking lot, Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads.

Jack Gilligan, Prospect Heights Improvement Association president, said he expects several legislators to attend.

There also will be entertainment, food and drinks, and free candy and balloons for children. The fire department will hold an open house at the station across the street at the same time.

Sewers 'not probed' for violations

by TOM VON MALDER

Five Prospect Heights area sanitary districts have not been inspecting their sewer systems for illegal connections, according to Metropolitan Sanitary District officials. The MSD has passed an ordinance requiring inspections and disconnections by Dec. 31.

Listed among those agencies not in compliance are the Country Gardens Sanitary District and the Forest River Sanitary District. Three districts, Old Town, Prospect Meadows and Wolf-Mandel, were given violation notices.

"As far as we know, they have done nothing," Ayoub Tahami said yesterday. Tahami is the supervising civil engineer in charge of enforcing the MSD ordinance. That ordinance requires all agencies operating sanitary sewers to survey their systems' service levels and to discover and correct any illegal connections. Each agency is supposed to submit progress reports.

TALHAMI SAID the five Prospect Heights area sanitary districts had submitted no progress reports by the Sept. 21 deadline. Since then at least two of the districts have contacted the MSD voluntarily.

Myron Heimerle, president of the Country Gardens Sanitary District, told The Herald his system has no illegal connections as their charter prohibits them. The district serves the Country Gardens subdivision mainly.

Heimerle said that while it is "no excuse," the reason reports had not been sent to the MSD was that the MSD continues to send notices and mail to the address of the district's former secretary, who moved more than a year ago. Atty. John Chandler said the district "is proceeding" with what the MSD has requested and no violation notice will be issued by the MSD.

"We're in half-way good standing with somebody down there (at the MSD)," he said.

RICHARD SCHULD, superintendent for the Old Town Sanitary District which serves most of Prospect Heights, was upset over the MSD's list. "The ordinance needs a lot of clarification," he said.

To get this clarification, Schuld, who is also president of the Cook County Association of Sanitary Districts, has invited MSD officials to a meeting Monday. Schuld told The Herald the meeting will be closed to the press.

Schuld furthermore attacked the MSD for issuing to the press the list of these agencies considered not in compliance with the ordinance. "I think the Metropolitan Sanitary District's approach is pretty poor in releasing lists to the press," he said. "I think our approach in asking them to meet with us is better."

The Old Town Sanitary system is still being installed and so new that there are few, if any, illegal connections, Schuld said, although he admitted he could not say flatly there were no illegal connections. "No one can say that," Schuld said. "We have policed our system very, very much."

SCHULD SAID he knew of no system that has complied with the ordinance. Tahami disagreed with Schuld. "Many have and some have even completed," he said. According to the MSD report, 28 local agencies were considered in compliance as of Sept. 1.

Conciliation meetings have been set today between the MSD and the Old Town Sanitary District and the Prospect Meadows Sanitary District. A third meeting with the Wolf-Mandel Sanitary District has been continued to Oct. 23.

If the informal conciliation meetings fail to produce compliance with the ordinance, Tahami said a formal "show-cause" hearing will be held, probably after the Dec. 31 deadline. If that hearing finds a violation, the MSD board will issue an order. Failure to obey the order would lead to a court suit.

Tahami said if an agency shows some progress the MSD's chief engineer can grant an extension of up to a year.

Officials of the Forest River, Wolf-Mandel and Prospect Meadows sanitary districts could not be reached for comment.

Downtown studied

Downtown Mount Prospect will be discussed tomorrow at the fall quarterly meeting of the village board.

Members of the planning commission, zoning board of appeals and chamber of commerce will meet with village trustees at 9 a.m. at Evans Restaurant, 113 S. Emerson St.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $6,660 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value," he said.

I.T. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

Li. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

Li. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

Obituaries

Martha Burnmeister

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Burnmeister, 51, nee Oehelking, of Arlington Heights, will be held at 2 p.m. today in St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive St., Arlington Heights. The body will lie in state in the church two hours before time of service. Officiating will be the Rev. Robert J. Dantz. Burial will be in Ridgewood Cemetery, Des Plaines.

A resident of Arlington Heights for 18 years, Mrs. Burnmeister died Wednesday morning in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. She was born March 4, 1889, in Des Plaines.

Preceded in death by her husband, Henry W., and a son, Henry P., survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Lillian (Albert) Drexler and Mrs. Martha (Martin) Hahnfeldt, both of Arlington Heights; four grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; two brothers, Louis and Alvin Oehelking, both of Mount Prospect, and two sisters, Mrs. Thelma (Emily) Busse and Mrs. Laura (Raymond) Busse, both of Mount Prospect.

Lausterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 5000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Edward Baumgartner

Visitation for Edward Baumgartner, 61, of Wheeling, is today in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines, from 2 to 3 p.m.

Mr. Baumgartner, who was employed as a custodian for Harper College in Palatine, died Wednesday in Evanston Hospital, Evanston. He was born Jan. 20, 1912, in Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the chapel of the funeral home. Rev. Howard D. Peckenaugh of St. Martin Episcopal Church, Des Plaines, will be officiating. Burial will be in Montrose Cemetery, Chicago.

Surviving are his widow, Mary, nee Walker; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Green of Mount Prospect and Mrs. Linda (Michael) Denard of Hoffman Estates; three grandchildren; three brothers, Ernest and Walter, both of Chicago, and Roy of McHenry; and a sister, Mrs. Lillian Vlach of Niles.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fulla of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLA FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fulla, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the country resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dirksen Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLA DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park last night planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fulla's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fulla's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fulla's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December 1974.

Lil Floros

Pastor and Mrs. David Quill of St. Mark Lutheran Church announced the arrival of grandchild number four last week. Son Steve (he's a preacher, too — in San Antonio, Texas) and his wife, Eileen, now have a second daughter, named Staci Deborah, as a playmate for their first little gal, Stephanie. Eileen is the daughter of the Ed Ericksons of Arlington Heights.

The Quills' other grandchildren are daughter Charlotte's youngsters, Scott and Laurie. Their dad, Dan Allen, is one of the Sam Allen's of 20 S. Hill St.

And, by the way, the Quill son, Timothy, now in the Army in Korea, expects to be home on leave in November.

DIG IN YOUR pockets today and pull out a coin or bill for Lions Club Candy Day. There'll be 35 to 50 Lions Clubbers, members of their families and friends at busy thoroughfares in the village with life-saver-type candy. Proceeds go to various agencies to help the blind and visually handicapped. Ed Gary and George Matzke are the local chairmen of the event.

ONE OF Mount Prospect's successful show-biz sons, Bruce Boxleitner, just finished six weeks in "Status Quo Vadis" at Ivanhoe Theatre in Chicago. Now, he's off to California to tackle movies, television.

KEEFER'S DRUG STORE at 5 W. Prospect Ave. has tickets for the U.S. Marine Band concerts this coming Sunday afternoon. There are two performances — a matinee at 2 p.m. and an evening concert at 8 p.m. — at Maine West High School. Tickets for the matinee are $3.50 for adults, $2.25 for students. In the evening, all tickets are $5.

EIGHT ENTHUSIASTIC high school girls from Mount Prospect are still talking about a three-week Girl Scout canoe trip they took this past summer. Using only a map to guide them, they found their way through the Man Chain of Lakes in Canada, through a national forest, past tremendous waterfalls. It was a "primitive" trip and they paddled, portaged and hiked with all of their gear. They set up campsites and cooked along the way.

Marilyn Wendt, 100 S. Ioka, one of the girls on the trip, said, "It was great! Just fantastic! The water up there was crystal clear. We drank it all the time."

In addition to Marilyn Wendt, the other girls on the trip were Kathy Rivara, Barb Bjorn, Ginny Moats, Janice Farrar, Sandy Boxleitner, Donna Martensen and Kathy Kosche.

ALL THREE individual winners in the local YMCA's Twilight Golf League were from Mount Prospect. The trophy for Low Gross went to Ed Nixon of 501 G. Wando; Low Net to Howard Rover, 401 S. Albert; Best Won-Lost Record, Fred Helsier, 404 N. Fairview.

John Eppley guilty of traffic violation

A Mount Prospect man was found guilty this week of improper backing in the Aug. 22 incident in which a vehicle leased by the Village of Mount Prospect struck two homes.

John Eppley, 23, of 7 S. Maple St., was fined $10 plus $5 court costs Wednesday in Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Eppley is the son of Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley. He had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Approximately $5,000 damage was done to the garages of the Sharon Sitz home, 1302 Mallard Ln., and the William Seller's home, 1300 Mallard Ln., in the incident. The manager at the time said his son, also a village employee, was going to pick up his mail when the accident occurred. John Eppley works on the police radio dispatch system.

Charged in theft of men's jackets

A Chicago man has been charged with the theft of $560 worth of men's jackets from M. L. Rothechids at the Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect.

A store security guard told police he saw a man pick up a box with eight jackets and leave the store without paying. Once the man entered the shopping center's mall area he handed the package to a second man, later identified as John P. Voletta, 57, of Chicago, police said. The first man escaped arrest.

Voletta was arrested just before noon Monday. He was released on $2,000 bond pending a Nov. 2 appearance in the Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Judo classes offered by parks

Mount Prospect youngsters who have always wanted to know about judo but who have been afraid to ask can now take lessons in the ancient Japanese art of self defense.

Classes are being arranged by the Mount Prospect Park District for youngsters in grades 5 through 8. The class will meet from 4:30 a.m. to noon Saturdays, beginning this week, in the basement of the Lions Park Recreation Center. The lessons last eight weeks, with no class scheduled Nov. 24.

The $7 fee includes a "gi" outfit provided by the park district. Registration is being taken at the park district office in Lions Park, 255-5380.

Village backs Crazy Nick's closing for health reasons

The Mount Prospect Village Board Wednesday upheld the closing of Crazy Nick's Snack Shop for health code violations.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley closed the restaurant at 11 p.m. Monday after a health report found more than 20 code violations. A three-member board of health committee upheld the decision Tuesday and the village board acted Wednesday in special session.

Crazy Nick's, 720 E. Rand Rd., is the first restaurant to be ordered shut down in the village since late 1970. George Poulos owns the restaurant and John Kanyz Jr. owns the property.

In closing the restaurant, the board of health committee said it was acting purely on the basis of findings of unsanitary conditions, but suggested that building and fire code violations be corrected as well.

The restaurant will remain closed until the owner petitions the village board for a reissuance of the business license and an inspection by the health services department shows that the violations have been overcome.

PTA notes

Two local PTA groups are sponsoring appearances by the Playmakers "Imagination Theater" at their schools.

The improvisational theater troupe will be at Parkview School, 805 N. Burning Bush Ln., on Oct. 25 and at Robert Frost School, 1308 Cypress Dr., on Nov. 8. Performances at Robert Frost School will be 9:15 and 10:15 a.m.

Through music, song and dance, pantomime and the spoken word, the Playmakers act out whatever the children imagine. The actors are headed by Eunice Joffe and Barbara Kaden.

The Forest View Elementary School PTO will sponsor a "Mom's Day Out" on Oct. 23. There will be a visit to Flower

City with a luncheon afterwards at Hackney's Restaurant. The cost per person is $4.50 and the bus will leave at 9:30 a.m. and return at 2:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Stephan Lesak at 439-4188.

'Discover America'

"Discover America," a film depicting the U. S., will be presented Monday night by the Mount Prospect Junior Women's Senior Citizen Club.

The film will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Community Center.

Trustees 'still undecided' on scavenger pact

by KURT BAER

A straw poll of the Arlington Heights Village Board yesterday revealed that most trustees say they still are undecided on which of two competing companies should be awarded the village garbage contract.

However informed sources indicate the

$1.2 million tax note sale OK'd by schools

The sale of approximately $1.2 million in tax anticipation notes was authorized last night by the Arlington Heights School Dist. 25 Board of Education.

In previous years the district had sold tax anticipation warrants in order to finance schools until taxes are collected in late spring. However, due to an act of the state legislature last year, the district may sell notes instead of warrants.

Under the act the district is empowered to determine the date of maturity. "This gives us a better cash flow," said Dan Suffoletto, school district secretary. In selling warrants, the district must immediately pay back funds borrowed with money received in taxes, he explained. However, in selling notes, the district may now decide on the maturity date.

Bids for the notes will be opened during the week of Nov. 6. According to the board's authorization, the annual interest rate on notes may not exceed 7 per cent. Last year the district sold $1 million in warrants at an interest rate of 3.87 per cent, or an interest sum of $38,700.

Suffoletto said he expects bids for the notes to be at about the same interest rate as on last year's warrants. Suffoletto indicated that current rates are 5 per cent.

Of the approximate $1.2 million in notes, about $1 million will be used in the education fund and $200,000 in the building fund, as provided for in the budget.

vote Monday night between the Laseke Disposal Co. and SCA Services Inc. may be as close as 5-4 in either direction.

Only three trustees, members of the finance committee, are on record officially. Ted Salinsky and Ralph Garbure voting for SCA with Frank Palmatier favoring the Laseke company.

While there is nothing to prevent any of these three from changing their vote Monday night, there also is nothing to indicate that anyone is planning to do so.

AMONG THE other six village board members contacted yesterday, only Trustee Graeme George would admit to favoring one company, SCA Services.

"Right now, I tend to agree (with the committee) that we should switch (from Laseke to SCA)," George said. "I think we have gone beyond public relations to a question of how either company is going to perform."

"Laseke may survive at a price of $5.00 or it may not and I probably won't make up my mind until Monday night."

Though George was the only trustee to express a preference, it is believed that at least three other trustees — James T. Ryan, Alice Harms and Richard Durava — are leaning toward Laseke.

"I'M SURE THERE'LL be some discussion and I won't know until the vote Monday night," said Mrs. Harms, who has sat in on a number of the finance committee negotiations with both companies.

"I haven't made up my mind, although I am certainly aware of all that has gone on (in the finance committee). It's going to be a very difficult decision, one way or the other," Ryan said.

Durava would say only that he planned to "contemplate" the question over the weekend.

Trustee Dave Griffin said he was weighing the fact that Laseke has been in business in Arlington Heights for 45 years and has done a good job against the fact that the company, in the midst of negotiations, lowered its bid price by 15.5 per cent from $6.13 to $5.08 per residential customer.

SCA's BID price is $5.10 which reduces the difference between the two companies to a question of whether SCA's service will equal Laseke's and whether Laseke can continue the same level of service he has supplied in the past.

"I appreciate that Laseke has been in business for 45 years in this town. That is a factor, especially since the service has been good for ten years that I've lived in Arlington Heights."

"But I'm wondering how Laseke is able to cut $100,000 a year in revenue and still stay in business, if the first bid he gave us was correct," Griffin said.

Arlington Heights Village Pres. Jack Walsh, who could be the tie-breaker Monday night, would say only that he was "not inclined to comment" on his position.

State Trooper Joe Thomas aims "Speedgun" at approaching traffic

'Speedgun' deadly

State police drawing a bead on leadfoot motorists

by TONI GINETTI

The "gun" was aimed casually out the window of the State Police squad car when the semi-trailer moving van sped past at 57 miles per hour — 12 miles faster than the posted speed limit.

State Trooper Joe Thomas set the gun's sights on the truck, squeezed the trigger, then raced after the truck. The gun lay beside him as red digital numerals blinked "57" steadily on a screen above its handle.

The truck driver had just become the victim of "Speedgun," a new radar unit resembling a bullhorn, which measures instantaneously the speed of moving vehicles.

THE DEVICE, which has been in use since August, is the latest police aid for trapping speeders, who police say are perhaps the foremost traffic enemy. Speedgun is portable and operates either by its own power pack or by plugging into a car cigarette lighter.

The gun works on the Doppler principle in which a signal is transmitted from the gun and bounces off a moving vehicle. The speed at which the signal bounces off the vehicle and back to the gun is equal to the vehicle's speed. "Speedgun" records that speed.

Six of the guns are now in use at State Police Dist. 3 headquarters in Des Plaines. A total of 80 of the units were purchased by the state from the manufacturer for $50,000, half of which was refunded by the federal government through a matching funds program.

SPEEDGUN HAS simplified the task of catching speeders, Thomas said during a morning patrol this week. Older radar units required the officer to read a graph which charted average speeds rather than the speed of a vehicle at any given moment. Speedgun, however, charts the actual speed of a vehicle in the same way a car speedometer does.

"It is so versatile, it really doesn't give the violator a chance," Thomas said. A violator doesn't stand much chance of disputing the accuracy of the unit because after each traffic stop, a trooper tests the gun to make sure it is working properly.

This is done with the use of a tuning fork which is calibrated to emit 50 m.p.h. vibration signals. If the 50 m.p.h. reading records on the gun when it is aimed at the tuning fork, the device is working accurately.

THOMAS SAID the guns are also inspected once a month to insure their proper operation.

But trapping the speeder doesn't necessarily mean issuing a ticket. For example, four persons stopped for speeding by Thomas on a two-hour morning patrol this week were all traveling 10 to 13 miles per hour faster than the posted limit. All, however, were let off with written warnings, which the state police now issue, giving the driver a record of being stopped for speeding but no fine or ticket.

If the trooper feels a written warning will deter the driver from speeding again, then it can be just as effective as a ticket, Thomas said.

"WE FEEL WE'RE responsible for traffic safety," Thomas said of the State Police. "We handle almost no criminal cases except if they're involved in traffic cases."

"The most fundamental aspect of driving is speed. If a driver isn't conscious of that, will he be conscious of traffic lights and stop signs?"

Thomas said police are usually more concerned with drivers going 10 miles or more over the limit. "I look for the hazardous violator," Thomas said. "They're the potential accidents."

"If I'm out here, I don't have to be petty," he continued. "We have no 'quotas' (which require a certain number of tickets to be written in a period of time.) I don't have to write a ticket. I treat people the way I want to be treated, so when I make an arrest, I feel it is justified."

"IF DRIVERS try to deny it (a speeding offense) too vigorously," Thomas said. "We simply show them the gun reading (which is locked by a trigger and holds the reading until the trigger is released.)"

"We have a problem sometimes in that we clock cars at a distance," Thomas explained. "By the time the driver sees us and glances down at his speedometer, he's already reduced his speed, so sometimes we have a hard time explaining it to him."

Some outraged drivers, of course, just can't be quelled, Thomas said. "They ask for your badge number and your name and they say they're going to have your job and take you to court, all of which doesn't make our job any easier."

Of the four persons stopped that morning, only one attempted to deny the speeding charge.

WHILE POLICE will attempt to spot any violator, Thomas admitted truck drivers are usually eyed as speed demons. "Trucks are notorious speeders," he laughed. "They're almost professional mirror-watchers."

On a traffic stop, Thomas will check for other potential traffic or criminal violations. The truck driver he stopped was asked to produce a registration identification card which he is required to carry stating the weight limit the truck is allowed to carry, the maximum number of axles it is allowed, and related information.

The truck driver's name was radioed to the district headquarters, and Thomas was told within seconds that the driver had no record of previous convictions in Illinois.

WHEN THOMAS stopped three other auto drivers, he checked each driver's license for any driving restrictions, correct age and address, and the expiration date of the license. On stops made late at night, Thomas said teen-agers found to be driving after curfew can be held, since a minor's driver's license is invalid after curfew.

The excuses for speeding that morning ranged from "a stuck accelerator pedal" to "I'm on my lunch hour and I had to get to the store."

Parking meter stolen from commuter lot

Arlington Heights police report a parking meter was stolen from the commuter lot on Arlington Heights Road, across from the Village Hall.

According to reports, the meter was ripped from the steel pole which is imbedded in concrete.

The meter is valued at about $75. Police estimate the missing meter contained about $5 in coins.

Northwest suburbanites speak out

Connally, Goldwater top VP picks

by The Herald staff

Who will be the next Vice President? John Connally or Barry Goldwater, if opinions of some residents in the Northwest suburbs are any indication.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois also ranked high on the list of possible nominees mentioned by residents polled informally yesterday by The Herald. New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana got several votes. Even consumer crusader Ralph Nader was mentioned as a possible choice.

Many residents, however, said they were still too shocked over Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as Vice President and his sentence for income tax evasion to think of his replacement. Others thought nobody would want the job and still others said they believe it doesn't matter

because all politicians are "crooked." "I've decided everyone's a crook so what difference does it make?" asked one woman who wished to remain unidentified.

ONE PALATINE woman said she didn't think any Republican would want the job because it would be "political suicide" to be associated with President Nixon.

"I don't know who they should put in," said Mrs. Thomas Ryan, 103 Parkchester Rd., Elk Grove Village. "I'm a Demo-

Police hunt obit burglars

Police in the Northwest suburbs are searching for an obituary burglar who has struck four times in the last two weeks.

"Obit burglars," as they are termed by police, scan the obituary columns of newspapers for the deaths of well-to-do persons and then rob the house while the family is attending funeral services.

In Arlington Heights, Hoffman Estates and Long Grove last week, burglars looted the homes of the deceased while the families were gone. In each case, police report, thieves entered through a rear door and escaped with jewelry and other valuables.

In what may have been their biggest haul so far, the obit burglars struck again Wednesday at the home of a Prospect Heights widow, making off with $8,660 in cash and jewelry while the woman and her family were attending her husband's funeral.

TO COMBAT THESE crimes, funeral directors are reportedly advising families to have someone remain in the home at all times to prevent such robberies.

Capt. Maurice English of the Arlington Heights police, said this type of burglary unfortunately does happen. He said one Chicago "obit burglar" hit the village as well as Chicago and other suburbs regularly before he was finally captured.

"For this type of burglar, the more flowery the obituary, the bigger the invitation to rob. He reads that the man held a good job and perhaps had an expensive hobby — he knows the family is going to be gone during certain hours — what more does he need," English asked.

"Of all the criminals, I have the least respect for an obit burglar. If your father, for example, dies and leaves you a watch, how can you replace it if it gets stolen? The insurance may give you some money, but it doesn't nearly cover the loss. How can you replace something with that sentimental value?" he said.

Lt. BILL FREUND, of the Hoffman Estates police, said, "Some burglars do use the obituaries. They look at them and stake out the house. If the house looks decent enough to break in — there's usually no one around. The neighbors know the family's grieving so they don't call on them."

Lt. Freund said last week's burglary was the first one of that nature in about six months.

A Lake County Sheriff's investigator said the Long Grove robbery was the first such case reported.

"Usually we get guys who cruise the neighborhood for a likely looking house. They knock on the door and if no one answers, they rip it off. If somebody does answer these guys will ask some crazy question and leave," he said.

HE SAID THEY have had success with advising residents to notify them in cases of strange cars prowling neighborhoods or persons asking the "crazy questions."

Lt. Freund said his department will make special patrols of homes upon requests from the families to halt these robberies.

Capt. English said neighbors can play an important role in preventing these crimes.

"When a death in the family does occur, friends always ask if there is something they can do. They can watch the house for the family. It's done frequently on vacations, it should be done in times like this. The neighbors may think of helping with coffee or emotional support. They can also help protect the family, too," he said.

County board to add 6th suburb seat

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Cook County's Board of Commissioners was ordered yesterday to add an additional, sixth suburban seat in the 1974 election.

In a surprise decision, U.S. Dist. Court Judge Hubert Will said that county population required a 16-member board with 10 Chicago members and 6 suburbanites. The board currently has 15 commissioners, 10 from the city and 5 from the suburbs.

The decision will break a 100-year tradition of 10-to-5 board make-up and give suburban Republicans enough votes to control key county spending. State law requires a two-thirds board vote to approve spending over $5,000.

The board defeated June 18 an ordinance by Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines that proposed creation of a board with 9 Chicago members and 6 suburban members.

FULLE FILED suit in federal court Aug. 9 challenging the board decision. Fulle, who is Maine Twp. GOP committeeman, claimed that current board membership does not follow U.S. Supreme Court "one-man, one-vote" guidelines because 61 per cent of the county resides in Chicago but elects nearly 67 per cent of the board.

Will, using amended census statistics for the first time in a reapportionment case, told attorneys no "complex factors" exist to deny numerical board apportionment. "This is one country, not a state. There isn't a history of geographical boundary lines. There are no ethnic changes. In this case most of these other factors aren't present," Will said.

Will's order, read from a written draft to a nearly empty courtroom in the Dickson Federal Building, did not include a specific implementation deadline.

"When will this take effect? For the next election?" Will asked Sheldon Gardner, chief of the state's attorney's civil division.

"Sure," Gardner answered.

Dunne predicted that the ruling will be discussed at Monday's county board meeting.

FULLE DID NOT attend the decision hearing which was changed late Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. yesterday. The commissioner was in Schiller Park late yesterday planning the 10th anniversary of his newspaper founding when he received word of the decision.

"I'm delighted. The decision is practical and proper," he told the Herald. "The suburban area should have six members. I was not out to hurt Chicago by reducing their members."

Will's decision came after two closed-door meetings with Gardner and Richard Makarski, Fulle's attorney. The case was not argued in open court.

The court finding was based on briefs filed by attorneys that documented county population totals. Democratic board members claimed in denying Fulle's ordinance that errors in 1970 population counts would support 10-5 board members.

Fulle's attorney agreed to accept census department error undercounting 7.7 per cent of the county's black population and 1.9 per cent of the white population.

"The error didn't make much difference," Makarski said after the hearing.

Totals of 3.5 million persons in Chicago and 2.1 million in the suburbs provided a variation of 9.7 per cent in board membership and allowed city members more voting power than suburban commissioners, the attorney's briefs stated.

The new board member, elected next spring, will be seated in December, 1974.

Membership is $2 and students will be bringing home enrollment forms during the month.

A membership tree, created and designed by Bob Bowman, commercial artist, will be on display starting Tuesday. Names of families who have joined will be printed on colored leaves.

Zoning change OK'd for JoJo's, Union Oil

The Arlington Heights Planning Commission granted a conditional zoning change for a restaurant and gasoline station at Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

The site was rezoned from single-family residential to business classification for JoJo's Restaurant and a Union Oil Co. service station.

According to Joseph Kesler, village planner, the new zoning depends on the extension of village water and sewerage lines. The cost of the extension would be shared by the village and the businesses to be located there.

Kesler said the companies agreed to upgrade the landscaping of the site with trees, shrubs, flowers and sodding.

The gasoline station and the 4,550-square-foot restaurant were considered a planned development in hearings before the commission. This was done because the two businesses were being developed as a single unit.

The village board must approve the rezoning before it becomes final.

by JOHN MAES

A Cook County coroner's jury ruled involuntary manslaughter in the Independence Day death of a 10-year-old Des Plaines boy, and recommended the man charged with the shooting be bound over for a grand jury.

The youngster, Craig Schaefer, 500 Lillian Ln., was killed by a stray bullet as he watched an Independence Day fireworks display in front of his home. Police said a man was firing a gun from his apartment in celebration of the holiday.

Police later arrested Reshat Ahmeti, 33, of 765 Dulles Rd., charging him with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct.

POLICE WERE led to Ahmeti's apartment after neighbors complained of gunshots being fired from his window.

Police said a bullet fired by Ahmeti struck and fatally wounded the boy who was about 1,000 feet away from the apartment. The errant slug hit the boy in the shoulder and passed through his heart.

Trip to Chinatown set by 'Feminique'

Excursions to Chinatown and a play are being scheduled by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Chicago's Chinatown will be the destination of the next Feminique Trip, Wednesday, Oct. 17. The tour will include lunch, at the Chiam Restaurant and time for browsing in the Oriental Shops and museums.

The group will leave Frontier Park at 11 a.m. and Pioneer Park at 11:15 a.m., and will return about 4 p.m. The cost is $6, which includes the lunch and transportation fee.

Registration is now being taken at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave.

A second Feminique trip is slated for Sunday, Oct. 28 to a matinee performance of the musical comedy "Boss," and lunch. The fee is $17.50 per couple.

Registration is now being taken at Olympic Park.
